All Parties In Dispute Confer Today

Action Put Off By Tobyhanna, Barrett Twps.

SWIFTWATER — Six districts announced last night that their boards have approved a proposed Pocono Mountains Jointure.

Delegates to a temporary steering committee for jointure also heard two other districts say that their boards have taken no action as yet on the proposed combination for school purposes.

Districts in which boards have approved the jointure are: Coolbaugh, Mount Pocono, Jackson, Pocono, Paradise and Tunkhannock. Barrett and Tobyhanna representatives said their boards met to consider the jointure this month but took no final action.

Tentative articles of agreement have been drawn up for establishment of the jointure. It is these articles which the six districts have given approval.

Barrett's objection to the proposed articles centers on the matter of equal representation. Members of this board have maintained that their district should have more voice on the joint school committee than others in the jointure.

The Old "Site" Problem

The second objection — voiced tentatively by Tobyhanna's board —dea's with the problem of selecting a site for the proposed joint high school.

Neither of the problems is new. Both have dogged school district combinations previously while setting up their joint articles. In the current case, however, directors have forseen minor differences of opinion and have inserted a clause to facilitate selection of a site.

This is Article 12. It says: "A period of six months shall be allowed the member districts for the selection of a site for construction of a new high school building. If after six months have passed and no selection has been made the Department of Public Instruction will be requested to select a site from all the proposals submitted."

Tobyhanna asked the steering committee if it were possible to give some indication of the location of the school before the agreement was signed. Members of the committee noted that, until a jointure is actually in effect, there is little point in trying to resolve the site question.

Next Meeting

On motion of Anthony Bolyn, Paradise delegate, the committee set Thursday, Nov. 17 as the date for its next meeting. This date comes after the individual boards will have held their next monthly meetings—including Barrett and Tobyhanna.

This action followed an effort on the part of Harold Kresge, a Coolbaugh delegate, to set a "deadline" for decision on whether the districts intend to enter jointure. This motion first came to a tie vote—four to four.

The tie was broken by Harry J. Drennan, Barrett, temporary chairman of the steering committee. Drennan is empowered to vote in cases of ties.

The chairman opposed the motion on the grounds that Bolyn's proposal, previously made, would give boards an opportunity to make up their minds before the next meeting.

The Nov. 17 meeting will be held at Paradise school near Swiftwater, the site of last night's meeting.

Trainer Clawed By Circus Lion As 3,000 Watch

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—With 3,000 horrified circus-goers looking on, a lion clawed and seriously injured his Austrian trainer in a performance today.

Charles Elleneb, 43, chief trainer of Billy Smart's Circus was putting eight lions through their paces when one of the big cats—a male named Caesar—jumped from his pedestal and attacked. Another lion moved in, growling menacingly.

A hush fell over the big top as Walter Milde, Elleneb's German assistant, stepped into the caged ring and drove the lions off.

Caesar also attacked Elleneb about 12 months ago during a performance in Oldham, Lancashire. Although bleeding from face and arm injuries, the trainer was able that time to finish the act before going to the hospital.

Flood Hero Badly Hurt In Automobile Accident

A HERO OF THE recent flood was critically injured yesterday morning when his car crashed into a tree and burned after sideswiping another vehicle on Route 209, three miles west of Stroudsburg.

Ronald C. Holland, 23, of 72 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, was still in critical condition at General Hospital late last night with fractures of the skull, pelvis, hip and leg.

Holland had been credited with saving more than 70 persons from drowning during the height of the flood when he burned out a motor while making some 30 trips in his plywood skiff, ferrying stranded persons to higher ground.

Car Ahead Turning

SEtate police said the mishap occurred at 7:55 a. m. yesterday, about a half mile beyond the Shafer Schoolhouse, when a 1950 sedan, driven by William F. Hartranft, 39, Stroudsburg RD 3, began to make a left turn into a private driveway.

Holland, a real estate appraiser, was attempting to pass the other vehicle at the same time, according to Pfc. Evan R. Chaplin, who investigated the case. After sideswiping the Hartranft auto, Holland's car continued across the road and into a large tree.

Raymond Howell, Stroudsburg RD 2, a nearby resident, told state police he heard the crash and looked outside. Within that short space of time, he said, the car had begun to burn.

Ronald Holland

Chaplin said Howell and two other persons removed Holland from the wreckage. In the meantime, a couple of passing motorists played small fire extinguishers on the burning car, but to no avail.

The blaze was finally extinguished by the Stroud Township Fire Department and Holland was removed to General Hospital in an ambulance.

The other motorist was uninjured, state police said. About $200 damage was caused to his car, which was later able to drive away.

Didn't See Anyone

State police quoted Hartranft as saying he had turned on his left turn signal prior to the crash, and did not see anyone coming when he began to negotiate the turn into the driveway.

As a partial reward for his lifesaving efforts during the flood, Holland recently was presented with a new outboard motor to replace the one he burned out.

When asked about his rescue work, Holland told a reporter, "I didn't do anything special."

Legionnaires Vote Against U.N. Break

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP)—The American Legion today beat down a move calling for the United States to withdraw completely from the United Nations.

Then the legionnaires, winding up their annual convention, elected J. Addington (Add) Wagner, 41, Battle Creek, Mich., attorney, as national commander of their three-million-member organization. He is a wounded Navy veteran.

The legion yesterday called for abolishment of the United States National Commission for UNESCO but was unwilling to go along with an Illinois move today for a complete break with the U.N.

The legion's Americanism Commission has contended Communist sympathizers have infiltrated UNESCO—the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The legion, on its final convention day, also:

Called on the United States government to refuse to give any material aid to India. The legion said India, in the guise of a neutral, aided Communist Russia.

Defeated a resolution that would have asked the government to pay $100-a-month pensions to all World War I veterans when they become 60 years old. The average age of World War I veterans now is 61 plus.

Ike In Happy Mood On Eve Of 65th Birthday Anniversary

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower recovered sufficiently for the Denver White House to announce he will confer here Monday with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In a "happy mood" on the eve of his 65th birthday, he was well enough, too, to sip a cup of coffee and wave to fellow patients from an 8th floor hospital sundeck.

And Mrs. Eisenhower left the hospital for the first time since the President's heart attack, Sept. 24, spending an hour and a half visiting her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, and taking a drive in the sunshine.

The decision to see Wilson and Radford, for a talk on defense and security, was announced by White House news secretary James C. Hagerty after a long distance telephone talk with Sherman Adams, the President's chief deputy, who was in Washington for tomorrow's Cabinet meeting.

Humphrey Visit

Wilson's visit will follow a conference the President will have Saturday with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The 3:30 p.m. MST medical bulletin, said the President "had a quiet restful afternoon" reading and listening to music. He had steak, hominy grits, asparagus tips, beets, fruit salad, whole wheat muffins, strawberry jello and a glass of buttermilk for lunch. His condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

Reds To Speed Arms To Arabs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Russia is expected to move quickly in getting arms to Egypt, possibly at cut-rate prices, and thereby hastening Middle East tensions toward a crisis.

An explosion of the Palestine truce into Arab-Israeli war was seen as a definite possibility whenever Red Czechoslovakia starts delivery on its cannon-for-cotton deal with Egypt.

American officials made no bones today about their fear of the results of the Soviet's military and economic trade incursions into the area. Nor did they play down apprehension over what Israel might do as a counter to Arab purchases of Red arms.

The National Security Council, top policy-making body in the U. S. government, took up the question at its secret session today.

Vice President Nixon presided in the absence of President Eisenhower.

Leader Puts Taxes Ahead Of School Aid

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—Gov. Leader said today state aid to schools—one of the most torrid issues now confronting the 1955 Legislature—should be held up until a tax agreement is reached.

At the same time, he placed industrial development and mental health ahead of further teacher salary boosts in any sharing of additional tax money.

"We can't appropriate tremendous amounts of money, such as is involved in education which is the single biggest bite of the budget, until we have gotten some agreement on taxes to pay for it," he told his weekly news conference.

Differs With House

But his statement ran counter with plans by the Democratic-controlled House to:

1. Approve quickly 535 million dollars for state aid to schools for the two-year fiscal period starting last June 1. Of that figure, 100 millions is due to school districts in October and November.

2. Accept a Senate bipartisan plan appropriating 31 millions to give teachers a pay boost of $150 for each of the next two years in addition to $200 a year they will get automatically under existing laws.

3. Restore five million dollars which Senate Republicans cut from a plan to continue to pay bonuses for school district jointures, mergers and consolidations.

The House also received a brand new version of a Democratic proposal for 7 per cent state tax on the amount Pennsylvanians pay in federal income tax returns.

Due Dec. 15

The levy, sponsored by Speaker H. G. Andrews (D—Cambria), is estimated to yield 350 million dollars over a 20-month period. The first tax payments would be due Dec. 15 on the basis of an estimate of one-fourth of a taxpayer's income in 1955.

After that, the state tax would be paid at the same time the federal return is due—April 15.

The December 15 gimmick was inserted in the measure, explained Rep. Albert S. Readinger, House Democratic floor leader, to provide a positive legal basis for a quick appeal to the state Supreme Court.

This type of tax-on-tax has been attacked as unconstitutional and Democrats don't want to be in the position of finding the state in a worse financial hole should the high courts throw it out after weeks of litigation.

Leader Uncertain

The governor, when asked by newsmen, said he is viewing the levy with "mixed emotions" although he made it plain it wasn't his idea. Asked whether he would sign it, Leader replied:

"Frankly, I would have to give a lot of study to it."

Big Airlines To Purchase Jet Transports

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—The age of jet air transport was brought a big step nearer today as Pan American World Airways announced 269 million dollars in contracts to buy jet transports.

The contracts, the first by an American airline, were made with Douglas Aircraft Co., Boeing Airplane Co. and United Aircraft Corp.'s Pratt & Whitney Division whose engines will be used.

Of 45 aircraft ordered, 25 will come from Douglas and 20 from Boeing. Douglas has 160 million dollars worth of the orders and Boeing 109 million.

Both aircraft have a contract cruising speed of 575 miles an hour at 30,000 feet and will bring most major cities of the free world within 12 hours of the United States.

While some other airlines have stated their intentions of buying jet transports, Pan American was the first to sign a formal contract and the contract was by far the biggest of any jet transport plans announced thus far.

Falls From Bus

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—An incomplete pass resulted in a 13-year-old boy taking a tumble from a bus and ending up in a hospital. James Boggs leaned from the window of a moving bus to catch a football tossed at him by a friend on the street. He missed. He also leaned out too far.

Real Settlement Impossible Without Unselfish Approach

(An Editorial)

LABOR DISPUTES—even when they're between two unions—have a way of building up pressures at the slightest provocation. That's exactly what's happening in the jurisdictional dispute affecting the Coates Board & Carton Co.

These pressures serve no good purpose for any of the parties involved. They will serve no good purpose in the meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. today when Building Trades Council, Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers, Coates and contractors representatives meet with a citizens committee to discuss the dispute.

The occurrences, some of them we think petty in nature, which have developed in a single day after Coates furloughed 70 workers, 15 of them flood victims, because of the jurisdictional dispute over who shall do rehabilitation work at the plant, must be left outside this meeting.

Number One consideration must be for 15 flood-hit families out of work, 55 other families who already have lost because the flood hit their place of work, the loss of $8,000 payroll and the possibility, a firm already tired of trouble, may toss in the sponge.

The solution here, as we indicated yesterday, is everybody's responsibility. It can be solved if the approach is unselfish, without rancor and on a humanitarian basis. A settlement, we are confident, will bring nothing but gratitude from this community to every party at interest.

Flood Victims Encouraged To Purchase Own Homes; Davlin Endorses Authority

FLOOD VICTIMS LAST NIGHT were encouraged to take advantage of existing opportunities and become home-owners.

Many of them turned out to a courthouse meeting where they heard it was now possible for them to obtain a free site on which to build and up to a $7,000 mortgage without any down-payment.

"Every person who can possibly do so should try to work out a program of home-ownership," said Rev. Roger C. Stimson, pastor of Stroudsburg Methodist Church, who presided at the session.

"I find that people who own their own homes have a higher ideal in life," he said. "This is the greatest opportunity you'll ever have."

Request Certification

Earlier in the day, Stimson traveled to Harrisburg with Harold A. Swenson, executive secretary, Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, to request State certification of a Monroe County Housing Authority.

The clergyman returned with a letter from Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin which noted that the State is "strongly in sympathy with the needs of the community and feels that the formation of this authority is a step in the right direction."

Mr. Stimson said he would present the letter to county commissioners at their meeting next Monday.

"If the board sets up an authority," said the clergyman, "we have a good chance to get some of the 45,000 Federal housing units which the Government has approved for this year."

McCarthy Blasts Harvard President At Red Hearing

BOSTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy, quiet-voiced through most of two days as a federal court witness, broke out late today in a slashing attack on Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey.

His voice rising as he sat in the witness chair, the Wisconsin Republican vigorously asserted:

"I have no respect for a man who will harbor Fifth Amendment Communists ... I think a man who does this should not be a college president. Pusey should be exposed. An educational institution which harbors Communists should be exposed."

McCarthy, a witness against Leon J. Kamin, former Harvard research aid who is charged with contempt of Congress, continued that his first contact with Pusey came in 1952 "during my campaign and I've had no particular love for the man since."

Pusey, then president of Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., had opposed McCarthy in his successful try for reelection.

Yetter Calls For Probe Of Health Dept.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—A Democratic lawmaker today cited "apparent irregularities" in the state Health Department and asked for an immediate report to the Legislature.

Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr. (D—Monroe) submitted a resolution calling for the report and said "there appears to be no definite program on the subject of polio, its prevention and treatment."

The resolution also states that "it is apparent that state laws governing the filling of vacancies in the department is being ignored" and that "apparently the department has not been run economically."

Yetter asked the House to have the Health Department answer questions on the three topics before Dec. 1 in a report to the House Public Health and Sanitation Committee.

Health department officials declined immediate comment pending a study of the resolution which was referred to the Rules Committee.

U. N. Requested To Seat Poland

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The Soviet Union declared today attempts by the United States to keep Communist Poland from winning a seat on the U. N. Security Council are damaging the spirit of Geneva and putting a stumbling block in the path of international cooperation.

Committee Strives For Settlement

FORMER - SENATOR Montgomery F. Crowe, president of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce yesterday created a special committee to discuss and seek avenues of settlement in the jurisdictional dispute involving who shall do maintenance work at the Coates Board & Carton Co. at Minisink Hills. The group meets at 2 p. m. today in Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Outstanding element of encouragement was the unhesitating pledge yesterday morning before the committee was created from all parties involved that they would sit down and "talk it over."

Chester Wilson, president of Coates, made the pledge along with Ray L. Derhammer, representing the Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers (AF, of L) Union.

Paul To Attend

Later Ralph Paul, who represents the Plumbers and Steamfitters in the Building Trades Council here, said he would be present. Paul, ill for the past two days, said: "I'll be there if I'm able to stand on two feet."

Paul said he would notify Earl Krocker, Easton, representative of the electricians in the Building Trades Council and ask him to be present.

These two A. F. of L. unions of the Building Trades Council are demanding jurisdiction over the rehabilitation work in their fields at the Coates plant.

Crowe said his committee will consists of Herbert Stoner, East Stroudsburg borough coordinator and industrial engineer; Frank S. LaBar, LeRoy Mikels, Clifford Cramer.

The Chamber president said he would also contact Paul Edinger, contractor who has a $70,000 contract to do carpentry and masonary work at the plant. Edinger and his men are A. F. of L.

Normal Work

These men left the job when the other two Building Trades unions protested they should have the remainder of the rehabilitation work and put a picket on the job.

The Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill workers claim they have the right to do the rehabilitation work involving steamfitting, plumbing and electrical work under their contract with the Coates firm. Mr. Derhammer said it is normal work under such contracts for maintenance crews in all paper mills.

When Edinger's men left the job, the Coates firm decided to furlough 70 employes with an $8,000 weekly payroll and including 15 flood hit workers, until the jurisdictional dispute is settled.

Said Mr. Wilson yesterday:

"This is purely a jurisdictional dispute and we're not involved."

Notifies International

Mr. Paul said he had called his plumber's union international headquarters and filed a protest against Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers for claiming work which belongs to his group in the Building Trades Council. He said Mr. Krocker acted similarly in behalf of the electrical workers.

Paul indicated that by moving to international union level, a decision on rights can be obtained more swiftly. The international headquarters of Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers will be advised, Paul said.

The discussion at the international level, Paul indicated, could produce a ruling in short time and thereby prevent paper mill workers now on furlough from being out of work an extended period of time.

House Group Cuts Fund For Resorts

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee tonight approved the expenditure of $100,000 to boost Pennsylvania as a vacation land.

The bill, sent to the floor, does not specify where the advertising would be done.

It is sponsored by Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr. (D-Monroe), who represents the Pocono Mountain area of northeastern Pennsylvania, one of the state's top resort sections.

Yetter's original proposal suggested the appropriation be $900,000 but that sum was sharply reduced by the committee.

MUSIC FOR A GOOD CAUSE tonight at Bartonsville Hotel will be provided by a special band made up of members of Local 577, American Federation of Musicians. The local is contributing services of the band without charge to play for the "Flood Relief Dance" sponsored by Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg firemen. The band swings, plays good music for dancing — all varieties — a spokesman said. Public is urged to attend. Members of band shown here are (back row), Lowell Fellman, David Lantz and John Altieri; (front) Rod Stanard, Albert Koster, Fred Whitman, Duane Walck. Outline Of Cancer Society's County-Wide Operation Given

A FULL-SCALE SERVICE organization extending to every borough and township of Monroe County was outlined Wednesday night by the local unit of the American Cancer Society.

The plan was one of the highlights of a regular meeting of the unit held at the YMCA with Dr. Joseph Viglione, president, in charge.

Viglione was making his first official appearance as president of the board. In his introductory address, he pointed out that workers for the Cancer Society are a "representative cross-section of all of Monroe County."

"Our concern with cancer is the cause, the cure and the socio-economic aspects of the disease," the president said. "We are a part of one million volunteers in the U. S. and Canada."

"The society's main purpose is to conquer cancer," he continued. "Until cancer is brought under control by medical and surgical means, the job of the local unit is threefold. It includes education, service and the provision of funds to help the national organization to finance research."

Funds Retained

Viglione pointed out that 60 per cent of all funds collected in the annual Cancer Crusade here stays within Monroe County for use in this area. Of the remaining funds 25 per cent goes for national research, 12 per cent is used for medical grants and fellowships and 12 per cent is contributed to the nationwide programs of the National Cancer Society.

The president then introduced the officers of the unit and major committee chairmen. Those introduced were: Joseph McCluskey, vice president; John Watt, treasurer; Mrs. James Cummings, county captain; Mrs. Mae Baggott, secretary; Alfred Munson and Dr. Evan C. Reese, educational committee; Mrs. John Regan Jr., publicity; Mrs. Elizabeth Eshbach, service chairman and Chester Miller, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Cummings delivered a detailed report on the proposed outline for establishment of community "commanders" to work with the board and the county captain.

The principal idea behind setting up community organizations to work within the overall county unit, Mrs. Cummings said, is to bring about "decentralization" of effort. Establishment of sub-units in townships and boroughs will make it possible for each area to have its own organization and provide its own services with the assistance of the county unit.

Report On Training

Each community commander will select a service chairman and a worker to handle education and campaign matters, Mrs. Cummings said. These persons will, in turn, work closely with the county executive board, she said.

Mrs. Cummings reported on the training program for county captains held two months ago by State headquarters. She noted that Monroe County schools were praised highly at the conference on training for "their exceptional job in making cancer education available."

This year, the captain said, the local society unit will concentrate a part of its efforts on bringing cancer education to industry and other areas of employment in Monroe County.

The board also announced that, later this year through its project committee, headed by McCluskey, the Cancer Society unit will present a piece of equipment to Monroe County General Hospital for use in fighting cancer.

The goal of the Cancer Society locally is to "save life and ease pain", Viglione said. To do this, the unit provides nursing care, medication, sedatives and bandages for cancer victims.

Local members of the society were reminded of the State cancer conference. The meeting will be held Oct. 28, 29 and 30 at Pocono Manor Inn.

Car, Truck Collide On W. Main St.

AN ESTIMATED $100 damage was caused to a convertible which was in collision with a truck on W. Main St. shortly after 10:15 yesterday morning.

Stroudsburg Police Chief James McConnell identified the operators involved as Richard Walters, 29, Hillcrest Farms, RD 3, Stroudsburg, and Henry J. Rode, 40, 22 N. Third St., a driver for the John R. Lesoine trucking company.

McConnell quoted Walters as saying that he was driving east on W. Main St. when the truck, which he was following, pulled over the white line.

Thinking that Rode was going to make a left turn, McConnell said, Walters started to pass on the right, when the truck suddenly pulled back over the line, damaging the left side of the auto.

The truck driver told police he had his right turn signal on and had pulled left so that he could make a better right hand turn into a driveway. About $25 damage was caused to the truck.

Police said Horr threw the rifle on the bar when he was denied a drink and the gun discharged. The bullet hit Mrs. Hunter in the chest.

Freight Volume Dips Slightly

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Railroad freight volume eased off a little last week but continued at levels above the corresponding weeks in 1954 and 1953.

The Assn. of American Railroads reported today that loadings for the week ending Oct. 8 totaled 807,035 cars. This was 13,27 cars or 1.6 per cent below the previous week.

Israel's population has approximately tripled since 1948 to more than 1,700,00.

Bill Offered To Share Motor Fines

State Would Claim Half Of Monies

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—Local municipalities would have to surrender to the state half the money collected in truck overloading and auto speeding fines under a bill that moved speedily through the House tonight on a second try.

The 50-50 split would apply to three sections of the motor code taking in overloading, maximum speed limitations and special permits for vehicles of excessive size and weight.

A 126-58 vote, without debate, sent the bipartisan sponsored proposal supported by the administration to the Senate. On Sept. 27, when the bill was first considered, it failed to gain approval. At that time the vote was 97-84 or nine shy of the 106 necessary to pass a bill.

No estimate of the amount of money involved is available but House leaders have described it as "enormous."

For Roads, Bridges

Money received by the state would go directly into the motor license fund which can be spent only on road and bridge work. State officials have long contended that the fines should be shared since the Commonwealth bears the major share of maintaining roads upon which the violations occur and also because the state police are responsible for a great number of the arrests which result in fines.

In the only debate before the first vote Rep. Edwin N. Tompkins (R-Cameron) called the bill unconstitutional because it doesn't exclude Philadelphia.

Some lawmakers contend the 50-50 arrangement, if enacted finally, would tend to eliminate so-called speed and gyp traps established by local communities to enlarge their treasuries.

Emphasis of last night's meeting, however, was not on rental units—but rather on home construction while the Federal Government has relaxed its demands in disaster areas.

But there were no rosy promises made. And, in fact, a few persons walked out after representatives of the Federal agencies represented outlined their restrictions and demands.

The greatest hope appeared to come from John J. Doyle of the Philadelphia office of the Federal Housing Authority, and Malcolm M. MacFarlane, executive secretary, Region 3 Committee, Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program.

However MacFarlane was quick to point out that he didn't want to raise anyone's hopes too greatly, and frankly admitted there were problems to be faced.

Stoner Denies Rumor

J. H. Stoner, East Stroudsburg flood rehabilitation coordinator, also appeared at the session to inform flood victims of the 30-acre tract donated by a public-spirited property owner for home development by persons affected by the flood.

Scotching rumors that the lots would only be given to East Stroudsburg residents and persons planning to build homes in the $25,000 bracket, Stoner said applications will be accepted from any Monroe County flood victim regardless of his race, creed or color.

Stoner indicated that the 55 to 60 available lots will be distributed on a "first come-first served" basis. He therefore urged prospective home owners to apply for a lot at the borough secretary's office.

He disclosed that it will cost between $15,000 and $16,000 to provide street enough to release 43 lots. Money for such purposes is being sought from local service clubs and about half the amount has already come in.

He said a building control committee will be set up to insure against anyone obtaining a lot for speculation purposes, and to see that all homes are of "a reasonable size and neat and clean."

No Restrictions

However, Stoner stressed there are no restrictions on the value of the housing units.

The group heard next from Mr. Doyle who noted that the FHA can insure loans of up to $7,000 for the full amount, and over a 30-year period.

This would mean that the total monthly payment—which includes principal, interest, taxes and insurance—would come to about $47.83 for a $7,000 30-year loan, Doyle said. The mortgage should have a net income of at least $160 monthly.

The FHA can insure up to 95 per cent of any mortgage up to $9,000 and up to 75 per cent of any amount in excess of that figure, Doyle said.

A $9,000 home would require the mortgagee to have a net income of at least $240 a month and the ability to pay an estimated $60.54 each month for 30 years, he reported.

Doyle also disclosed the possibility of his agency guaranteeing up to 85 percent of the cost of construction for a housing development undertaken by a responsible builder.

Concern Expressed

This would mean the FHA would sign commitments up to 85 percent so the builder could get construction money from a local lending institution, he said.

Concern was evident over the fact, however, that local banks could not handle any large number of mortgage applications.

However, Mr. MacFarlane disclosed that the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program, which he represents, was established to help make mortgage money available for loans insured by the FHA and the VA.

"The program," he explained, "acts as a clearinghouse, endeavoring to bring together eligible borrowers and willing lenders."

Those is attendance also heard from R. P. Yomer of the Small Business Administration, who noted that his agency can offer loans to both businesses and home owners to restore their properties to their pre-flood status.

SBA loans, however, would not be available to persons who rented up until the disaster, he said.

Red Cross Represented

Dan Bachman and John Hopkins represented the American Red Cross and reported that the organization's job in Monroe County is just about complete.

Bachman said the Red Cross received 930 applications for assistance and has completed work on 923 of them.

He noted that the Red Cross offered grants—not loans—to persons without adequate income, resources and credit.

Leader Puts Taxes Ahead Of School Aid

since Senate Republicans rejected his classified income tax last July, said the lawmakers must "finally face up to the facts" on school appropriations.

"In the month of October we have long since passed the point to temporize," he declared.

The governor made that statement when asked if he would be willing to slice the huge educational bill to 100 million dollars so that school districts can get immediate financial relief.

Other Priorities

Leader, in making his position clear that he thought teachers were underpaid, said:

"I think in any increase in state programs that industrial development and mental health have top priority. I think next then is teachers' salaries."

The governor said he wouldn't want "to sacrifice" his proposed 25 million dollar industrial program and 40 million dollar plan for mental health expansion to boost teachers' pay.

"I would like to do both if there are sufficient taxes," he said.

The governor said he hoped conferences will be resumed soon on a tax compromise but disclosed he has had a report from Sen. Joseph E. Barr, Democratic state chairman, the Senate Republicans won't go along with any tax program until after the Nov. 8 municipal election.

Pigeons Report To Hunters' Kin

CALDWELL, Idaho, Oct. 14 (AP)—Farmer Dallas Waterman took eight homing pigeons along on a four-day hunt in the Elk Mountain region.

The birds were dispatched home at intervals to let the Waterman family know that the six-man party was safe and well, but encountered no elk.

Entertainment To Highlight Benefit Dance

TONIGHT AT Bartonsville Hotel firemen and musicians are sponsoring a "flood relief" dance and show.

Proceeds from the entertainment will go toward relief of flood victims in Monroe County. The band and the entertainers at tonight's show are being donated by Local 577, American Federation of Musicians Union which serves Bangor and Stroudsburg areas.

Firemen from both boroughs are sponsoring the event. Included on the roster of entertainers will be the following stars:

Jill Whitney, Coral recording star who is a native of Bangor; The Collegians, a group now nationally known which had its origins in Hazleton; John Laurenz, a Jubilee record star who has appeared in movies and on radio as the Cisco Kid and The Rhythmettes, RCA recording stars who have appeared with Arthur Godfrey.

Music for dancing will be served up from the beginning of the festivities right straight through to the end, a spokesman said. All residents of the area are invited to attend "and have a good time for a good cause", union and fire company officials said last night.

Army Engineers Seek Bids On Dredging Project

THE ARMY Engineers have invited bids for maintenance dredging in the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J. According to Col. Allen F. Clark Jr., district engineer, bids will be opened Oct. 19.

The site of the work is located in the Delaware River channel and extends from a line on Delair Range about one-half mile upstream from the Delair Railroad bridge to a line on Perriwig Range about one mile downstream from the Marine Terminal, Trenton, N. J. The total distance involved is about 25.5 miles.

It is estimated that approximately 1,145,000 cubic yards of material will have to be removed to restore the channel to a depth of 25 feet between Philadelphia and the upper end of Newbold Range opposite the U. S. Steel Co. plant and from that point a depth of 15 feet to Trenton, N. J., with a width of 300 feet.

The work is scheduled for completion in about six months.

Luther League Plans Party

AT THE WELL attended meeting of the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran Church on Wednesday night plans were completed for the annual Halloween party to be held in the Wyckoff Recreation Hall on Friday night, Oct. 28.

Committees were appointed and indications are that it will be the largest social affair that the league has ever sponsored. It was decided to have a number of the Teachers College freshmen as guests at the party. The committee charged with the distribution of the Lutheran Church Year Calendars reports that only a few calendars are left.

Mrs. Delores Decker, adviser of the youth group, led in the discussion of the topic: "Stewardship of Time, talents and money." Two new members were elected into the group at the business session. At the close of the meeting refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served.

North Carolina State College experts estimate it would cost 42 cents today to buy almost any other foods that would give the same nourishment as a quart of milk.

Cohen, Yosko Appointed To Study Group

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert B. Cohen and Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) today were appointed by Gov. Leader to a committee set up to study the operation of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

The committee, already consisting of three members from the House was set up under a resolution calling for a study of the operation, administration, financial policies and laws of the commission.

Other members of the five-man committee are Reps. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe), August Metz Jr. (R-Pike) and A. Patrick Brennan (D-Bucks).

Group Tours UN Building In New York

A GROUP of 27 adults from Monroe County toured the United Nations yesterday.

The trip was arranged by Miss Lillian Stark, social studies and history teacher at Stroud Union High School. Those making the trip came from Mount Pocono (about one third of the total number), Stroudsburg, Tobyhanna and Delaware Water Gap.

Leaving Stroudsburg at 7 a.m. the group arrived in New York about two hours later, spent the entire day at the UN. The county residents spent about 45 minutes at a "briefing session" and took a one-hour guided tour of the UN building.

They "sat in" during a session of the Security Council and attended a committee meeting on trusteeships. After having dinner in the delegates' dining room, the group returned home. They arrived back in Stroudsburg at 9 p.m., according to Miss Stark.

If all the iron ore, coal and limestone consumed by the steel industry in one year were placed in railroad cars and coupled together, the vast train would be 38,228 miles long.

Pennsylvania To Broaden Salk Program

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Department of Health said today that regulations governing the distribution of Salk anti-polio vaccine will be eased in Pennsylvania to permit a broadening of priority groups.

Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, secretary of health, said the department's action is in compliance with a recommendation of the national advisory committee for polio vaccine.

Under the new regulations, it will mean that all children from birth through 14 will become immediately eligible to receive the vaccine. Previously only children 5 through 9 could receive the vaccine.

The department said pregnant women will also be included in the new priority group.

Dr. Mattison said the extension of the priority age group was based on the increased production of Salk vaccine by commercial drug manufacturers.

Stroudsburg, Stroud Planning Commissions Of Major Importance To Regional Development

The need for a sound "follow-through" on the Aug. 18-19 flood becomes more evident each day. It is recognizable, the subject of discussion and great interest on the part of many citizens in the flood areas.

The normal day-to-day process of municipal government, we believe, are being competently carried out, but, that is not enough, if the Stroudsburgs, Stroud Township and vicinity are to achieve the greater municipal area with all the attendent benefits, which many citizens now recognize is possible.

The answer then, is a regional planning operation with Stroudsburg and Stroud Township operating through their own Planning Commissions to collaborate with a commission already functioning in East Stroudsburg.

Existence of a Planning Commission does not by any stretch of imagination mean any outlay of municipal funds. That outlay would come only for retention of a planning consultant. That may come later, but there's nothing mandatory about having a consultant now.

In fact, without a Planning Commission, there can be no planning consultant hired. And even after such a Commission is named by Stroudsburg and Stroud Township, both of these municipalities may well find their existing engineers and consulting engineers, can serve as consultants.

There are so many functions of an immediate nature, and so many long-range matters on which a regional planning commission can function, that it is almost self-evident that both Stroudsburg and Stroud Township should create commissions.

These conmmissions would function on planning within their own municipal spheres in the first instance. The delegates they appoint to the regional commission would provide the means for exchange of constructive ideas on functions of a regional nature.

We see in the immediate picture the need for collaboration on flood control on the Brodheads and Pocono Creeks; the possibility of regional development of sanitary sewers, and the regional development of a sound water system which must be projected many years hence.

These three basic fields of regional planning are waiting now for joint planning by the three municipalities. They, most certainly, will lead to many others such as parks, zoning in flood areas to permit proper, long-lasting flood control installations.

Stroudsburg Council has unanimously passed a motion to have an ordinance drawn for adoption setting up a Planning Commission. Stroud Township should do the same.

Stroudsburg council has nothing to lose, no expendtiture to make and a great deal to gain by setting up a Planning Commission. The issue of a Planning Consultant is not of import in creating a commission now.

The issue of a Planning Commission to plan on a regional basis in collaboration with other communities is of utmost importance.

Sordoni's Attack On Enforcement Of Traffic Laws Comes With Poor Taste

Andrew J. Sordoni, former secretary of commerce in our state, put on his badge as president of the American Automobile Association at its recent convention and had this to say:

"The spirit of the 'crackdown' is abroad in the land today. Helicopters hover overhead, unmarked police cars and cops not in uniform lie in wait; over a thousand radar and other speed detection devices line our major highways; fee-splitting constables and justices of the peace make small communities potential traffic traps."

As president of the association that has done much over the years to foster safer driving, it is of more than passing moment that Mr. Sordoni now finds it reprehensible that authorities should be cracking down to reduce law violations.

For it it only the violators against whom the crackdown is aimed. It is designed to curb the driver whose carelessness, recklessness and plain lack of common sense contributed to last years' 36,000 traffic deaths in this country.

Mr. Sordoni should know—and we believe he does—that motorists who obey the law and who is most of them, don't have anything to fear from helicopters, unmarked police cars, cops in plain clothes, or, for that matter, any manner of law enforcement official bent on carrying out his duty.

Those who are caught, are caught because they are flouting the law. They are not trapped by anything but their own arrogance or ignorance, and neither is excusable.

What Mr. Sordoni could have done, with far better grace, would have been to lead applause.

George Sokolsky Says . .

Question Of Running Younger Man For Presidency May Fade Before Convention

The doctors' report that the President is not likely to be in the White House until January 1, gives witness to a country that goes about its business, in both governmental and private activities, without disturbances. Despite President Eisenhower's unusual personal popularity and the distress at his misfortune, the constitutional system of government survives. We have plenty of officials to do the business of the nation and they have not yet stepped on each other's toes nor have there been such displays of temper or temperament as are usually attributed to opera singers but are much more to be noted in politicians, particularly those whose aspirations for office give them a penchant for the expansion of the ego.

There has naturally been some jealousy of Vice President Nixon's pre-eminence but that was settled by the 1952 Convention of the Republican Party and cannot be diminished or increased now because of President Eisenhower's illness. The Vice President will take over should the President or his doctors decide against finishing out his term. No one can prevent Nixon from being President in such circumstances except by a revolution against the Constitution, which would not have a ghost of a chance. Once Congress is in session, some names now bobbing up on the Republican side will disappear in a flood of ridicule from the Republican side.

So far as the Democrats are concerned, they have, as would be expected, avoided taking advantage of the President's illness, except for a few professionals who talk too much lest no one know that they are alive. The top men of the Party have followed the American tradition of withholding a blow or a kick when the opponent is stricken.

The Democrats, like the Republicans, are going through preliminary motions to find not only a candidate for the Presidency, but a probable President. As long as Eisenhower was likely to be the Republican candidate, the Democrats were willing to run a man who would make a good campaign, hold the party together, but who would not be elected because he could not be. Now that it is to be an open campaign, the Democrats hope to win and therefore their attitude toward the candidacy has changed.

Adlai Stevenson's stock has moved downward because it is not believed that a man once defeated can be elected. Only Grover Cleveland broke that precedent which the various nominations of William Jennings Bryan confirmed.

On the Republican side, Thomas E. Dewey will suffer because he has twice been defeated. On the other hand, the supposition of some White House politicos that they can so maneuver the New York situation that Jacob Javits can be made to replace Dewey as the state leader only displays their ignorance of the New York situation. Tom Dewey is not a person over whose personality even his friends grow excessively laudatory. However, in a contest for power between Dewey and Javits," Dewey will win hands down because there is a continuing suspicion that Javits has not yet got over a juvenile Left-Wingism which is no longer the fashion in New York State. So it must be taken for granted in any calculation that Dewey will control the New York delegation and that he will be a candidate in the event of a tied convention.

The Democratic candidates now to the fore evoke little enthusiasm among the rank and file of the Party and therefore new names will appear. Among them is likely to be Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio and several who are now being spoken of as candidates for the Vice Presidency. Of the currently discussed candidates, Averell Harriman is regarded most favorably because of his vast experience during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

The documentation of Harriman's position on Russia during those Administrations will probably show that time has upheld his judgment which will do him no harm as a candidate. The only objection to him that goes the rounds is that he is approximately Eisenhower's age and that the country will respond to the President's illness by wanting a younger man in that office. Few younger men have had the experience or have developed the maturity or the significance in the eyes of the public. This is a moot question at present and may not have much importance next Summer when the Conventions are gathered in Chicago and San Francisco.

The Daily Record
Dear Sir:

Former President Truman has joined the Advisory Council of the Atlantic Union Committee, as reported in that organization's monthly publication. In so doing, Mr. Truman joins a bi-partisan group of Americans headed by General George C. Marshall, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and our own Representative Francis E. Walter in sponsoring a congressional resolution proposing that delegates from the United States and other NATO democracies meet in a convention "to explore and report to what extent their people might further unite within the framework of the United Nations, and agree to form, federally or otherwise, a defense, economic, and political union".

Coming at a time when Communist efforts are bent upon a weakening of western unity and singleness of purpose, this prudent proposal which commits us only to exploration—deserves support.

Sincerely,

Hypnotism Should Make Good World-Wide Weapon

Someday we may be sorry we waged this cold war with such impeccable sportsmanship against adversaries who never heard of the Marquis of Queensbury and are glad of it.

We are playing in a league where they pay off on the final score and don't even keep track of the number of first downs you roll up.

I don't say the end justifies all means, but the end we have in mind in this case is certainly worth the benefit of all doubts. And we have already been pressured into some means that don't exactly square with our traditional principles.

Besides, we have made clear our intention to use some pretty horrible weapons if it comes to a showdown — H-bombs, to-whom-it-may-concern missiles and the like. Undoubtedly we have gas and bacterial weapons that could be used if an enemy forced us to it.

So why are we so squeamish about resorting to relatively humane and innocuous methods like, say hypnotism?

You read these pieces in the digest magazines about how hypnotism is more than just entertaining hokum. Many reputable physisians recognize it as a sound and legitimate technique in certain types of medical cases, we are told. Properly used by competent practitioners, they say, it can produce some almost miraculous results.

If this is so, why limit its use so largely to making asses of volunteer stooges before theater and after-dinner audiences? Why wouldn't it be a handy tool in international diplomacy?

Most of us have seen hypnotists put accommodating people into trances and plant suggestions that make the subjects' elbows itch three days later. This serves no useful purpose whatever.

But what if we were to include one of these professional spellbinders on our team the next time we get into a diplomatic staring match with some of those Red Chinese "negotiators?"

While the two parties were sitting there at the conference table spinning their wheels and getting nowhere, this fellow could be giving the head man of the other crowd the works. A hypnotically planted time-fuse suggestion might induce that functionary to go back to China and ship all the American hostages home on the first boat.

One good journeyman Svengali swinging his watchfob in front of Krushchev's eyes at a "summit" powwow might get more heartening action out of the Kremlin than 10 volumes of Dulles speeches.

So maybe using hypnotism for such purposes wouldn't be altogether cricket. If it got results the Chinese or Russians could always sue us later.

And if it didn't work, what would we be out except a little high-voltage willpower from some vaudeville performer who has it to burn?

The method would kill no innocent women or children and I say there's no harm in trying it. Why wait for the Commies to spring it on us first?

Robert S. Allen Reports

Taylor Blasts Cuts In Army Strength, Funds

Washington — General Maxwell Taylor, the Army's new Chief of Staff, is unexpectedly jolting his Pentagon bosses.

The noted paratrooper and battle commander is vigorously balking at cuts in Army strength and funds.

Ridgway failed to get a second term because of adamantly opposing such reductions. If Taylor was expected to agree to them, he is militantly refusing to do that. Not only is he resisting in inner Pentagon councils, but he proposes to wage his fight on a larger stage than Ridgway did.

Taylor is going to take the issue of further Army reductions directly to the public in a series of speeches.

The first of them is in Boston this week.

Others so far scheduled are in New Orleans and New York next week, the latter at a memorial dinner for Alfred E. Smith; at Fort Benning, Ga., in November, and in New York again on December 7.

Defense Secretary Charles Wilson is much concerned by the determined stand of the Army's new Chief of Staff. It comes on the heels of a similar disconcerting challenge from Navy Secretary Charles Thomas. The Texan was so aroused by a secret proposal that $500,000,000 of Navy funds be "frozen", that he hotly threatened to resign.

Thomas bluntly told Wilson, "As long as I am Secretary of the Navy, I will not accept such a cutback. I will resign before I do that. The Navy simply cannot stand such a reduction and meet its commitments throughout the world."

General Taylor's determined opposition is causing so much uneasiness that he was asked to tone down a speech.

Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary Carl Honaman, in charge of public relations, was sent to Taylor with that request. The latter agreed to make some changes in text, but not in his views. He stood pat in arguing against new Army cuts.

Note: Another unannounced Pentagon slash is $85,000,000 from the National Guard's budget. This is approximately one-fourth of the $308,000,000 Congress voted for the Guard for the current fiscal year. Secretary Wilson ordered the money be impounded to assist in balancing the budget by next July 1.

What He Says — General Taylor has two chief arguments in insisting it is essential to maintain the Army's present strength:

(1) The Army must be prepared at all times for any type of warfare; (2) war in the future will not necessarily be atomic and of short and cataclysmic duration; it may be fought with other weapons and may last years.

On the first point, Taylor's views can be summarized as follows:

"Military planning must take into account the increasing reluctance of people all over the world to embark on atomic war. It is imperative that the utmost attention be given to developing and maintaining an army capable of fighting all types of warfare, particularly in the defense of the weak members of the free-nation community. They are in constant danger of subversion from within and aggression from without, and it is essential for them and for us to be constantly ready to protect and help them."

Against the widely-held contention that future warfare will be limited to atomic weapons, Taylor argues:

"I rate this one-type war concept as not necessarily the most likely in the future, particularly as atomic destructive capabilities grow greater and more terrible all the time. To me, it seems increasingly improbable that an aggressor would intentionally embark on the gamble of an atomic world war. Some nation may attempt local acts of aggression to which our massive atomic retaliatory power may not apply.

"That's why it is vital that we always have ready for instant use an instrument which does not require mass destruction to obtain its end. Our military planning is compelled to take into account, if it is to be based on sound doctrine, the increasing reluctance of peace-loving people everywhere to embark on general atomic war."

Significantly, these views are strikingly similar to those expressed by General Ridgway in his farewell letter last June to Secretary Wilson. As Ridgway did, Taylor warns the Iron Curtain empire may be better able to withstand atomic warfare.

"Communist forces are so deployed," Taylor points out, "that even if their homelands are devasted, the impact on their armed forces probably would not be felt for a considerable time. If during that time, Communist forces are occupying the friendly or potentially friendly countries, ultimate victory would be of comparative little consequence to the free world. This bleak possibility makes it abundantly clear why it is so vital that the enemy's ground forces be defeated as close to the Communist periphery as it is possible to do so.

"The U. S. must, therefore, develop its own armed strength, along with that of our allies, so that we can defeat the enemy's initial aggressive moves, including his aggressive advances on the ground. Such strategy requires the participation of an army with versatility and effective size to cope with any form of aggression."

Note: As Secretary Wilson sees it, he has two kinds of problems. The Defense chief described them in a private talk to a group of businessmen as follows: "I sometimes define our problems as falling into two categories; the really serious and worthwhile things such as military planning, missiles, new types of planes, warning systems, and how we divide the money; and then we have what I call the tremendous trifles. We usually have one or two of these blow-ups every day and they take quite a bit of time in one way or another. They usually involve people, and that's the reason the public is so interested in these problems, because a great many people can imagine these things might happen to them."

Accident Deaths Decrease

—by H. G. Heller

A couple of traffic statisticians have run across a rather strange phenomenon while idling with a calculator and a copy of last year's Accident Facts.

The statisticians represent the Pennsylvania and New York highway safety departments. In a sense they've vindicated each other's findings. Here's what they discovered and the inferences they draw:

The fact is that while accidents in Pensylvania have nearly doubled in number since 1946, deaths in those accidents have actually decreased. We have no wish to hit you in the face with long columns of statistics here — but we think we can show you our meaning by asking you to consider just a few figures.

In 1946, there were 69,968 accidents reported in Pennsylvania. In these, 1794 persons were killed. Last year (1954), there were 130,326 accidents, and 1538 deaths. Percentage-wise in 1946, the deaths amounted to 2.56% of the accidents. Through the years to 1954, that figure declined regularly each year until last year it stood at 1.18%. Incidentally, partial figures for this year seem to indicate that the figure will continue to decline for 1955. From January to May, there were 605 deaths in 56,747 accidents—a percentage of 1.06.

Why is this happening? We don't know. We're willing to hazard a guess, though. Cars are getting safer, roads are improving, and perhaps—just perhaps—people are harkening to the call of all those who have urged them to slow down and live.

While it is all too true that the death rate is still tragically high, and we have little to really crow about, it is nevertheless also true that in the light of the huge number of cars on the road, things could be a lot worse. Perhaps the fact that they are not is a good indication that all this talk about safety is catching on. At least, that's one interpretation.

There's another possibility, though. Maybe people are driving less carefully—maybe they are getting into more accidents and are just being lucky in not being killed in them quite so often.

Whatever the reasons, we welcome any development which gives us the opportunity to look at some reasonably optimistic statistics for a change.

Court Upholds Conviction Of Puerto Ricans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Four Puerto Rican fanatics who received long prison terms for a wild pistol attack on the House of Representatives, had a fair trial, the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled today.

"Their guilt was clear, and their convictions must stand," the court said in unanimously rejecting the terrorists' appeal.

Five House members were wounded in the March 1, 1954 shooting, but all recovered.

The appellate court said the Puerto Ricans, led by fiery little Lolita Lebron, were "indigent strangers unable to speak our language," but were "ably represented by capable, conscientious counsel" appointed by the court.

Five Charges

The jury convicted her on five charges of assault with a dangerous weapon, but acquitted her on five charges of assault with intent to kill. She received a sentence of 16 years and 8 months to 50 years. The men—Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero, and Irving Flores Rodriquez — were convicted on all ten counts and got sentences of 25 to 75 years.

The Puerto Ricans are serving their sentences in different federal prisons. Miranda is in Alcatraz.

Montgomery Unrealistic But Right

By J. M. Roberts

Associated Press News Analyst

Field Marshal Montgomery, suggesting merger of the Free World's air forces under one command, is in the position of being unrealistic while still being right.

Air forces are so pertinent to a nation's defense that surrender of direct control would seriously undercut national sovereignty and might endanger security.

This applies not only to tactical air power which may be strictly defensive, to which Montgomery was not referring, but to strategic forces which were his principal consideration. For one of the chief uses of strategic force is to slow down and interfere with attacks which the defensive forces must stop.

Would Handicap U. S.

Even the commanding nation, which Montgomery recognized should be the United States because of her superior strategic air strength, would be handicapped on defense by its obligations to its Allies. If attacked, alone, such a nation would have to consider such obligations along with the need for immediate retaliation, whereas the United States is now prepared, on her own, with constantly alerted forces, to launch strategic—that means atomic — attacks without considering even momentarily anything except stopping the attacker.

This point can be emphasized by reference to the different situations affecting American strategic bombers located in England and those located at home. Those located at home could move, would move, immediately. As for those in Britain, a decision would have to be made whether their use would be worth the attack on that country which it would bring on. Such decisions would involve other governments as well as any joint military command such as the United States now heads in NATO.

The same considerations and the same unreality apply to Montgomery's suggestion for complete unification of air, naval and land forces of the Free World alliance.

Unified Force Powerful

Unified forces, even a unified strategic air force, undoubtedly would be more powerful and a greater deterrent to war w greater deterrent to war than what has been able to work it out even for its own forces. The United States tried, but had to compromise with a joint superstructure of civilian control through a joint chiefs of staff organization, without actual merger of the services through officers trained, as Montgomery suggests, for joint command.

These are practical drawbacks, not criticisms of Montgomery for the suggestions. He was obviously speaking of something that his NATO superior, General Gruenther, and the British government, for which he works, consider an ideal, else he would not have spoken.

Gruenther himself, only the day before, had suggested that the air forces assigned to NATO should be unified, instead of standing behind individual frontiers awaiting a call. Defense Secretary Wilson said at least a mutual air warning system should be developed.

Wilson, commenting on the Montgomery suggestions, said the marshal was "overstating it in order to make progress" in coordination.

C-C Contends Depressions Can Be Avoided

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States today published a pamphlet report which concludes that serious depressions can be avoided "unless we take complete leave of our wits."

"If we have the courage to avoid excessive booms and the wit to use what we know," the report says, "there is reason to believe that future instability can be kept within fairly tolerable limits."

This prospect, the chamber says, is based on increased understanding of the business cycle, new methods of stabilization available to both business and government, and increasing recognition that something can be done to avoid serious setbacks.

The report is the result of a one-year study by the chamber's Committee on Economic Policy, headed by Harry A. Bullis, board chairman of General Mills, Inc.

Farview Aides Disagree On Recent Escapes

SCRANTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Supt. John Shovlin said today the recent wave of escapes at the Farview State Hospital for the Criminal Insane merely reflect a normal fall trend. His assistant at the same time said new state policy in such institutions was "making us lax."

And a newspaper editorial sharply criticized State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro for refusing to release for publication pictures of two "dangerous" inmates still at large after the escape of six Farview patients Oct. 4.

Dr. Shovlin said the recent outbreak of escapes at Farview can not be considered an "epidemic." An increase in escape attempts is normal toward the end of each summer, he said.

During the past three months, 23 patients have escaped from Farview. All but Paul Cook, 34, Beaver Falls, and Richard Williams, Johnstown, have been recaptured.

Three Mass Breaks

"The so-called 23 escapes that the newspapers have been talking about really are only three mass breaks," said Dr. Shovlin.

A study of hospital records shows, he added, that attempted escapes and attacks on guards grow more frequent in the months of September and October.

Dr. Asa L. Hickok, 79, assistant superintendent at Farview, said "We've been compelled to be lax. It's like letting down the bars."

The physician made his comments in response to questions about the recent disorders at Farview.

Previous Practice

Asked whether he thought cell doors should be locked in the hospital's maximum security ward at night to prevent "ganging up" of patients on guards, he said "that has always been the practice."

Secretary Shapiro recently issued orders forbidding the locking of cell doors on the grounds that such action constituted "inhumane restraint." Shapiro ruled that solitary confinement was to be utilized only when absolutely necessary and then on a temporary basis.

The Scranton Times today published an editorial criticizing Shapiro for his refusal to release pictures of Cook and Williams.

Power Policy Details Asked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Democrats on a House investigating group demanded today that the White House divulge details of several executive conferences on public power policy in Georgia, a lively political issue.

Rep. Chudoff (D-Pa) said the group he heads has evidence that the Interior Department "has made every attempt to evade" a Justice Department ruling that Georgia's rural electric cooperatives have first call on federal power produced at the Clark Hill Dam on the Savannah River.

Chudoff dispatched a telegram to Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide, calling for information on the number of power policy meetings held at the White House, when they were held and who was there.

Opinions Differ

Democratic members of his House Government Operations subcommittee have expressed indignation over an Interior Department plan, now shelved, to sell the dam's output to the Georgia Power Co., a private utility, for resale to some 17 co-ops.

Republican members, however, are crying "politics," and they voiced immediate protests against bringing the White House into the investigation.

Rep. Dawson (D-Ill), chairman of the full Government Operations Committee, backed Chudoff and said the hearings already had shown "that there's a studied purpose to keep these co-ops from getting the power they are entitled to."

Asst. Secretary of the Interior Fred G. Aandahl disclosed that the conferences had been held in testimony before the subcommittee yesterday.

But Aandahl refused to furnish any details. "Any information on a conference at the White House should come from the White House," he said.

Chudoff said he thinks there has been "violation of the statutes" which give cooperatives and other public agencies preference for federal power.

Nickel Diverted To Industry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Office of Defense Mobilization today ordered another six million pounds of nickel diverted to industry to relieve a persistent shortage.

Bank Clearings Noted

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Total Bank clearings in the week ended Oct. 12 amounted to $17,641,783,000 compared with $22,196,120,000 the week before, Dun & Bradstreet Inc. reported today. Clearings in the same week last year totaled $16,421,497,000.

California Democrats Back Adlai

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP)—A group of California Democrats, claiming support throughout the state, today urged Adlai Stevenson to become a candidate for president and to enter next June's presidential primary in California.

The group, headed by Atty. Gen. Edmund (Pat) Brown, titular head of the party in California, claimed support of four of California's five top party officials.

Joining Brown in the move were Paul Ziffren, Democratic national committeeman of Los Angeles; Roger Kent, of San Francisco, Northern chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder, of Los Angeles, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Mrs. Clara Shirpser, of Berkeley, national committeewoman, said the move was premature and refused to join in it. Kent said she had expressed loyalty to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee who won the California Democratic presidential primary in 1952.

Kent said the Stevenson-for-president movement in California had "nothing at all" to do with the arrival here last night of Carmine G. DeSapio, Tammany Hall leader and cheerleader for Gov. Averell Harriman, of New York.

Kent said: "We have known for many weeks that Mr. DeSapio was coming here at this time." He explained that the action was triggered Monday by reports that former President Truman was modifying his support for Stevenson.

"This is not anti-Harriman; this is not anti-Kefauver," Kent said.

"This is strictly pro-Stevenson."

Asked about DeSapio's statement last night that October of 1955 was too early a date to pick a candidate for the 1956 convention, Kent said:

"That may be true but I am sure that Mr. DeSapio has already picked his candidate."

Gov. Knight Not Convinced Nixon Can Win

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 (AP)—Republican Gov. Goodwin Knight of California was quoted as saying today he opposed Vice President Nixon as a possible presidential candidate because, "I just don't think Dick can win."

Knight, in an interview with a Mirror-News correspondent, said also that he doesn't believe that Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) can win either. Knowland has been mentioned along with Nixon as a GOP presidential prospect in case President Eisenhower doesn't run for re-election next year.

"I was in five losing battles (for Republican tickets during the Roosevelt-Truman administrations) and I don't want to be in another," the governor was quoted.

Claims No Animosity

Knight, in a story bylined by the paper's political editor, Richard C. Bergholz said that there was no animosity in his attitude and added that he worked hard for Nixon during the latter's 1950 fight for U. S. senator. Nixon was elected.

"I hope he won't think I'm knifing him across the country," Knight said. "But I suppose he will." Nixon is a Californian.

The governor reiterated that he plans to lead the potent 70-vote California delegation to the GOP national convention in San Francisco next August as a nominal "favorite son," even if it means an all-out fight with Nixon.

And if President Eisenhower intercedes in behalf of Nixon?

"If the President asks me, I'll tell him just what I'm telling you," the governor declared. "I'll tell him that he may like the boy, but we just can't elect him.'

Girl Showered With Cards On Eve Of Brain Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP)—The mailman and switchboard operator at Children's Hospital are working under pressure these days but they don't mind one bit.

The reason for their extra effort is Marjorie Lee Elder, 12, of Lewistown, Pa., who is scheduled for a delicate brain operation tomorrow.

When the pretty, dark-haired child arrived here last Monday, one of her greatest worries was that she wouldn't receive any postal cards while she was away from home.

1,000 Cards Received

The story of her concern and desire for cards was spread by the newspapers, radio stations and wire services.

Today, the hospital reported more than 1,000 cards have been received and a Boston station sent word even more than that number were on their way from the Boston area.

Marjorie was particularly concerned about not hearing from her many friends in the Lewistown area, where well-wishers banded together to help finance her long fight back to good health.

Since she was six, Marjorie has suffered from intense headaches. As she grew older the attacks grew to the extent that they brought on partial blindness and paralysis.

It is hoped that the surgery to be performed tomorrow will relieve her condition.

Former President Of Mexico Dies

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13 (AP)—Manuel Avila Camacho, 58, president of Mexico from 1940 to 1946, died today of a heart ailment at his ranch near the capital.

Impeachment Faces Judge Who Permitted Recording Of Jury Deliberations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Two investigating senators tonight made what looked like a move toward possible impeachment proceedings against U. S. District Judge Delmas Hill of Wichita, Kans., for permitting secret tape recordings to be made of jury deliberations.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) referred the case to the House Judiciary Committee for possible further action. It is that committee which looks into complaints against federal judges to determine whether impeachment proceedings are warranted.

The Senate subcommittee had heard testimony that Judge Hill let a University of Chicago research team listen in with a planted microphone to what went on in a jury room in his court. It was part of a broad study of the workings of the jury system.

Hill, a Democrat, has been on the federal bench since 1949.

Claim Jurisdiction

Eastland and Jenner, in referring to case to the House group, explained only that their own committee, being part of the Senate, "could not properly inquire into the official conduct of any federal judge."

They refused to elaborate, but two possible reasons were aparent:

1. They thought there might be some House action toward possible impeachment of Judge Hill.

2. They considered the House committee might act swiftly to make jury "bugging" a federal offense.

Any impeachment proceedings must originate in the House. Impeachment is the calling to account of a public official for alleged misconduct in office. The House votes on whether to impeach the accused, and the Senate sits in trial if an impeachment is voted. It could remove the official if it deemed him guilty.

Defends Jury Study

The two senators said they were transmitting to the House group "for its information" the transcript of hearings, which ended today, into the Wichita incidents.

Dean Edward H. Levi of the University of Chicago Law School said in a statement of his own that the hearings prove "our jury study has been carried on carefully under carefully established safeguards" and "has the approval of many outstanding lawyers, judges, and legal scholars in all parts of the country."

"Its purpose," Levi said, "is solely to improve the jury system."

In wind-up testimony today, Paul Kitch, a corporation lawyer from Wichita, identified himself as the sparkplug of the university's jury room "bugging" project. He

Flick a switch and,
SUDDENLY, IT'S HOME!

No matter how short the winter sunshine hours, no matter how dreary the evening, your home becomes warm, cheery and bright through the magic of electric lighting . . . if your lighting is planned properly to do all those things.

For instance, a bare bulb gives off lots of light, but, reading, writing, or working by it would tire your eyes in a matter of minutes. Properly located and shaded this bulb becomes a source of comfort and pleasure.

The same is true of all lighting. Walk down any street. Which houses are the most inviting? The bright, cheery, well-lighted ones, of course. And such attractiveness is not expensive. By simply combining five elements you can bring to your home high levels of beauty, charm and see-ability. These elements are:

Adequate wiring to provide electrical outlets wherever desired;

Portable floor and table lamps, correctly designed and tastefully chosen;

Wall and ceiling fixtures specifically selected for the type and size of home;

Placement of all lighting elements to do specific jobs of illumination;

Lamp bulbs of proper size and type for the fixture or lamp. (and, remember, even a 100-watt bulb gives you three hours of see-ability for a penny).

Good lighting is an economical way to re-decorate your home, too. Properly set up it can serve to accent and high-light each room's features, giving it a brand new personality.

This winter, and all year through, let your lighting really serve you for greater home beauty and greater eye-comfort. Your electrical contractor or your lamp and fixture dealer will be glad to help you select the lighting plan best suited to your needs.

WHILE RUMORS PERSISTED in London that an official announcement will soon answer all questions concerning his romance with Princess Margaret, Group Captain Peter Townsend arrives at Lydd Airport, London. Ostensibly on a vacation, he evaded the questions of reporters concerning a possible marriage with the Princess, who incidentally came to London shortly after his arrival. Captain Townsend, now an air attache of the British government in Brussels said merely: "Sorry, I can't say anything."

Townsend Pays Visit To Royal Family

By Alvin Steinkoff

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Peter Townsend visited Princess Margaret's home an hour and 20 minutes tonight and left in a high good humor. His call at stately Clarence House strengthened belief that an announcement about their reported romance is imminent.

But Townsend was closemouthed, although smiling gaily, he cried "No! No! No!" to newsmen pressing him for a statement. Photographers, flash bulbs drew a bit of further comment: "My goodness, I am being blinded," he said as he headed for his car.

Court officials were mum. No responsible official would say why Townsend called or what transpired during his visit. Even after he arrived at Clarence House, a press officer of the royal family said she could not confirm that he was there.

As far as is known, he and Margaret had not met in more than two years—since he was named British air attache in Brussels. Before then he was a royal equerry and they saw each other nearly every day for 10 years.

Townsend was given the post in the royal household as a reward for his World War II services. A Battle of Britain hero, the 40-year-old divorced father of two children is a Royal Air Force group captain, the equivalent of a colonel in the American Air Force.

Both the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth were at home when Townsend called. He drove up to Clarence House, on the treelined mall near Buckingham Palace, at 6:56 p.m.

He was alone in the car, dressed in an ordinary business suit. It appeared unlikely that he had been invited to dinner. Parking his car in the courtyard of St. James's Palace—across a side street from Clarence House—he walked to the door of Margaret's home.

Lights flashed on in several rooms of the big house as he stepped in. The Queen Mother, who shares the mansion with Elizabeth, arrived home from her vacation only an hour before Townsend called. She had flown to London from the Castle of Mey, on Scotland's remote north coast.

Outside the house, the usual three Scots Guards in scarlet tunics and bearskin hats marched patrol. Two policemen kept the crowd of newsmen and photographers moving up and down in the palace courtyard across the street.

When Townsend came out he climbed behind the wheel of his French car with an unidentified man at his side. He had trouble finding the ignition switch.

Wheeling the car out of the courtyard through the crowds of spectators, he narrowly missed hitting an automobile moving down the street. The two cars screeched to a stop only a foot apart. Then Townsend sped away in a rush.

Margaret had arrived at Clarence House only this morning from a vacation at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. She came back to London with a gay smile, but without a word on romance.

Townsend's visit came as 50 million Britons and a large part of the rest of the world itched with curiosity over whether he would wed the princess.

At 10 p.m., the switchboard operator at Buckingham Palace said he understood no court circular would be issued tonight. The circular is a handout outlining the activities of the royal family. The first palace statement about Margaret and Townsend could appear in it and newsmen had been tensely awaiting its release.

There was no explanation why one was not issued. Although the palace often skips a circular, one had been expected tonight, at least to report the return of the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

PRINCESS MARGARET of Britain, smiles to well-wishers at Aberdeen, Scotland as she left for London amid a flurry of rumors concerning whether or not she will marry Group Captain Peter Townsend, 40, a divorced commoner. The captain reached England on a "vacation" shortly before the arrival of the Princess.

Trip Marks Maders' 25th Anniversary

Swiftwater — Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mader, of Woodland Road, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on October 6. They enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls and other points, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Grant Nauman, same address, who will observe their 27th anniversary in November.

From Niagara, they went by the Queen Elizabeth Way to the Thousand Islands, through the Adirondack Mountains to Lake Placid and White Face Mountain, down through Cooperstown and over route 30 around the Downsville Dam.

The Maders were especially interested in the progress of the dam, this being their third visit there. Two years ago they saw work being done to clear the valley; last year they saw where the 25 mile tunnel goes through the mountain, and were told that filling was started. This year, all of the farms and other dwellings, except several near Margaretville, have been removed from the bridge near the center completed. Fed by a branch of the Delaware River, it will serve as a reservoir for supplying New York City, and is approximately 13 miles long. Upon inquiry they were told it would take about 48 more feet of water to completely fill the dam.

They saw the foliage in upper New York state at its peak of color, although there seemed to have been only slight frost damage to gardens.

Bereans Sponsor Christmas Gifts For Orphans

Bartonsville — The Berean class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday school met at the parish house on Friday night, October 7. Mrs. Clyde Beehler presided and led in the opening prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Elmer Marsh.

Rev. John B. Bergstresser spoke to the group about the mission services to be held in the Hamilton Lutheran charge in November and urged all members to attend.

Pastor Bergstresser also told of mission work being done in Germany and read a letter from a former classmate who is now an Army chaplain in Munich. This letter told how last Christmas 500 orphans had been made happy by gifts presented to them and the hope was expressed that this year there would be more gifts to distribute. A very generous cash contribution was given by the class members and plans were also made to send toys. A box will be placed in the church vestibule and wrapped toys, marked for boy or girl and age group between three and fifteen years for which the toy is suitable, should be placed therein before November 1. Gifts from any interested person will be appreciated. Price range suggested is between 50c and $1.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marsh, of Saylorsburg, invited the class to hold the November meeting at their home.

Refreshments featuring apple pie were served from a table decorated with a variety of seasonal flowers. Hostess was Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes.

Members present were Rev. John B. Bergstresser, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marsh, Mrs. Archie Ace, Mrs. Margaret Halstead, Mrs. Floyd Cyphers, Mrs. Daisy Alleger, Mrs. Clyde Beehler, Mrs. Samuel Dunbar, Mrs. Richard Metzgar, Mrs. Thomas G. Plan Bake Sale

The Married Couples Class of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hold a bake sale at Wyckoff's starting at 10 a.m. Saturday.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

The column today will be short and, we hope, sweet because there's actually only one thing on our minds at Wyckoff's this morning. It's the Identify the Voice contest which begins today on our Wyckoff Shopper radio program over WVPO at 9:45 to 10 o'clock.

During the program this morning, three of our Wyckoff salespeople will appear, reading their favorite nursery rhymes. An extra verse has been added which gives a clue to their identity or to the department in which they work. All three have been serving you for years . . . more years, perhaps, than Rip Van Winkle slumbered.

The contest will continue each morning through Thursday, October 20th, inclusive. This means there will be five broadcasts in all —today's, Monday's, Tuesday's, Wednesday's, and Thursday's . . . a total of fifteen voices to be identified.

To further simplify things, we're going to have each of the salespeople return to the mike at the close of each broadcast to ask the question you hear voiced by them most frequently: May I help you?

We don't expect that anyone will identify every voice . . . so if you don't recognize one now and then, don't feel you haven't a chance. Someone may be particularly expert and guess every one . . . which would be ideal. But if not the prizes will go to the persons who have the greatest number correct.

There will be a gift from The Wyckoff Shopper program for the first ten persons to enter today! There are prizes for the three contestants with the greatest number correct answers at the contest's close—These follow:

First—a $10 gift certificate
Second—a $7.50 gift certificate
Third—a $5.00 gift certificate

These may, of course, be spent in any Wyckoff or Sears department. Everyone is entitled to enter, except Wyckoff employees and their immediate families.

Here's all you do . . . listen to the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast at quarter of ten this morning. Have a paper and pencil handy so you can jot down clues as they are presented.

In order to qualify for the first ten gifts, CALL THE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT AT WYCKOFF'S, 400, immediately after the broadcast goes off the air at 10 o'clock. Simply give your name and address and say, "I'm going to enter the Identify the Voice contest." When the contest is completed, if you have actually entered you will receive your gift even though none of your guesses is correct. You will likewise receive any other prize you may have earned.

All entries should be submitted at the contest's close on Thursday, October 20th. They may be brought into the store and left at the cashier's cage, or mailed to Identify The Voice, c/o A. B. Wyckoff, Stroudsburg, Pa. Winners will be announced Saturday, October 22nd.

It should be fun. We hope you will enjoy it as much as we enjoy sponsoring it for you. And remember—to keep listening: not just to the radio but to the voices of Wyckoff-Sears selling personnel when they serve you.

Army And Navy To Draft 18,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today issued a draft call for 18,000 men in December — 8,000 for the Army and the remainder for the Navy.

The Army quota for December is 2,000 below the 10,000 level maintained since last May. December will be the second month, since World War II, in which the Navy has asked for draftees. It is drafting 10,000 in November.

Harriman Dinner Postponed By N. Y. Democrats

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—New York Democrats have postponed a $100-a-plate dinner which had been scheduled for Oct. 31. Political observers had expected Gov. Averell Harriman to indicate then whether he would be receptive to overtures for the party presidential nomination.

No new date was set for the gathering as State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast announced the postponement.

The only reason for the move cited by Prendergast was that National Chairman Paul Butler thought it ought to be held "later in the fall" to permit more time for completing arrangements.

Blair Plans Dedication Of Infirmary

ANOTHER chapter in the history of the 108-year-old Blair Academy will be written Saturday when the cornerstone of a new 20-bed infirmary will be laid. School officials, faculty, alumni, and students will take part in a brief ceremony scheduled for 11:50 a.m.

The building, the second to be erected since World War II, follows closely the dedication on May 10, 1952, of Memorial Hall, erected and dedicated in memory of the 73 alumni who gave their lives in the two World Wars.

Jay Duncan, of Holmdel, class of 1915, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, will give the address marking the initial stages of construction of the new functional unit for the school. He will be introduced by James M. Howard, headmaster of the academy. Dr. Richard Hunter, school chaplain will give the benediction. Duncan was the donor of the carillon for Memorial Hall.

Seal Box In Cornerstone

A copper box will be sealed in the cornerstone. In the box will be coins and copies of Blair publications.

The main part of the T-shaped building measures 100 by 40 feet and will contain 12 rooms, including sick rooms, doctor's office, x-ray and therapy rooms. The other section measuring 40 by 31 feet will contain eight isolation rooms.

On the second floor will be living quarters for nurses and housekeeper. Provision has been made to add to the building in the future if necessary.

The building is expected to be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of the year.

A large number of alumni are expected to be present for the ceremony as the day is also Alumni Leader's Day. Sports teams will play teams from Lawrenceville during the afternoon.

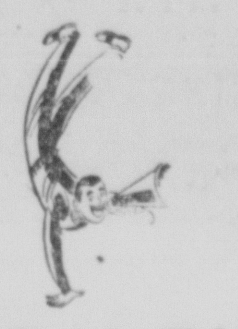
Stroudsburg Renews Long Rivalry With Bangor Foe

life of ---



RILEY

Sports Editor

JOE SHEA, former star tackle on the East Stroudsburg High football team, played 10 minutes at left tackle for Army against Michigan last Saturday. Indications are that Joe, who is currently wearing a special brace on his injured shoulder, will see a lot more action against Syracuse this Saturday. John "Juice" Arnst, opposite tackle to Shea in high school days, saw plenty of service for Penn State last Saturday against Virginia.

Karl Weingartner, former outstanding three-letter athlete at Stroudsburg High, started at quarterback for the Lafayete Freshman team against the Muhlenberg football squad yesterday. Gordon Strunk, coach of the Navy entry in the East Stroudsburg Midget Football League, has a story published in Argosy magazine this month and has another coming up in the Adventure magazine next month. The basketball team at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will feature new uniforms this season.

During a recent football game at Memorial Stadium, East Stroudsburg against Bangor to be exact, Coach Jack Kist was chased off the field by an official when the likeable mentor tried to visit an injured player. The official pointed out in no uncertain terms that the rule was in the book that no coach is allowed on the field in case of an injured player when a doctor is available. It was the first time in his coaching career that Jack was ever chased from the field.

It is this reporter's humble opinion that a coach who doesn't go on the field to inspect an injured member of his team shows a distinct weakness. But, even if officials are delegated to keep coaches off the field as mentioned above, I believe it time that the men in the striped shirts work up some sort of uniform policy on the subject. Last Saturday night the Lehighton coaching staff was all over the field on at least two occasions during disputes with officials.

The Lehighton coaches were never chased from the field and neither were the Minersville and Nazareth mentors last Saturday afternoon, even though the official in mention worked in a lesser capacity than referee in the Minersville-Nazareth contest. If the rule is in the book, I believe that all officials should interpret it in the same manner. If a coach is allowed on the field in one game, he certainly should be allowed on the playing area in the next contest, especially in the case of an injured player.

Returning to last Saturday's tussle between East Stroudsburg and Lehighton, I would like to say that I don't blame head coach Charley Gernerd a bit for running on the field in the third quarter to protest an occurance. Due to a mixup on the downs markers, East Stroudsburg was given five downs instead of four at one point early in the second half. P.S.—The Cavaliers still failed to make the required 10 yards to retain possession of the ball.

John Wellington, nephew of John Wellington, of the local Bell Telephone office, is a starting tackle on the Columbia University football squad this season. Les Slutter, who once played three sports at Stroudsburg High, is holding down a halfback position on the Second Infantry Division's Provisional Regiment football team at Fort Lewis, Wash. Les was a defensive back under Coach Jerry Stulgaitis at Stroudsburg.

Slutter, who worked for the Stroudsburg Typewriter Co. before entering the Army last winter, is also a typewriter repairman in the Army. Art Wall, Pocono Manor's touring golf pro, has earned $17,215 on the tournament trail this year. Johnny Addie, famous fight announcer, is currently vacationing at Mike and Helen Kurzdorfer's Mountain Rest hotel in Newfoundland. Mrs. Malinda Wernett, mother of John Wernett, secretary of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, will be 92 next Wednesday. She is currently spending some time with a daughter in Grantville, Pa.

Congratulations are certainly in order for Harry Oblitz, head golf pro at Shawnee Inn and Country Club. Harry was recently named "Pro of the Year" by the Philadelphia PGA. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy. He works hard and always has the best interests of golf in mind. Saturday, October 22, will be the biggest local football weekend of the season. ESSTC and West Chester clash on Normal Hill during the afternoon, while East Stroudsburg and Wilson Borough collide under the lights at Memorial Stadium the same night.

Arch Rivals Sport Identical Season Marks

STROUDSBURG and Bangor High Schools will clash in the 34th renewal of their football rivalry that dates back to 1922 tonight under the lights at Bangor's Memorial Park. The kickoff is slated to take place at 8 p. m.

Bangor will enter tonight's contest with a 17-11 edge in games won and lost, while five of the contests have resulted in deadlocks.

Stroudsburg last defeated Bangor in 1953, when Karl Weingartner, now a Lafayette student, paced the Mountaineers to a favorable nod.

The Mountaineers and Slaters will enter tonight's fray with identical records for the season of one victory and three setbacks.

Scores

Stroudsburg lost successive games to Lehighton, 13-6; Emmaus, 20-7, and Palmerton, 13-12, before breaking into the win column last Saturday night against Pen Argyl, 15-0.

Bangor pried the lid off the present campaign with a 27-0 verdict over Palmerton, but since that time has lost three successive outings. The Slaters fell before Catasauqua, 25-2; East Stroudsburg, 20-13, and Wilson Borough, 26-6.

Both clubs are determined to improve upon their season's record tonight.

Bob Phillips and Gary Guthrie will see service in the backfield, as will Ronnie Hallett. Guthrie suffered a gash over the eye in practice this week, but will be ready for tonight's contest.

Coach John Whitehead last night reported his Stroudsburg charges in good physical condition and revealed that spirit was high.

Changes

Coach Granville "Granny" Evans announced yesterday that his starting Bangor line would play both offense and defense in tonight's encounter.

The home town forward wall will consist of Sam Heard and Anthony Ruggerio at the ends; Charley Woolley and Jim Warrick, tackles; Bob Butz and Dick Marinelli, guards, and Don Evans, center.

"Jabby" Williams, quarterback, and Glen Heard, left halfback, are the only Bangor backs certain of a starting post tonight, Evans announced yesterday.

Either Jim Freeman, a converted quarterback, or Bob Finelli, slightly injured speedster, will get the call at right half, while either Dale Miller or Jack Stenlake receive the green light at fullback. Finelli is currently hampered by a bruised arm, but should be ready for duty by kickoff time.

On defense Bangor will have Freeman and Miller backing up the line, while Williams and Stenlake man the halfback posts and Heard handles the safety duties.

Kermit LaBar, veteran Bangor tackle, will be out of the lineup for at least five weeks because of a neck injury.

Pacific Coast Conference Club Seeks Football Revenge Today

By Rip Watson
The Associated Press

TONIGHTS THE NIGHT when the Pacific Coast Conference hopes to get a little revenge on the Big 10 for previous indignities in their Rose Bowl series. All that the coast adherents are asking is that Southern California knock off the nation's No. 6 team, Wisconsin.

The intersectional renewal of the 1953 Rose Bowl contest, plus Duke's visit to Ohio State and Baylor's journey to Washington, are just about the only important intersectional games on tap this weekend as the heavy-firing begins in the various conferences races.

Eighth

Ohio State's victory over virtually the same Southern California team last Jan. 1 was the eighth Big Ten victory in the nine games since the Rose Bowl tieup started back in 1947. But the Trojans' route to revenge tonight may be a rocky one, unless they can find more scoring punch than they showed last week in bowing to Washington.

Wisconsin coaches, of course, can be counted on to remind their athletes that the Badgers' loss to Southern Cal in 1953 is the only bad mark for the proud Big 10 in the intersectional bowl series.

Drake Favored Over Baldoni In Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)— Ray Drake of Geneva is an 8-5 favorite today to defeat young Tony Baldoni of Wilkes Barre, Pa., in a 10-round middleweight fight here tomorrow night.

Drake, 25, has lost only 3 of 25 professional fights.

Baldoni, 23, has been out of the U. S. Marines for a year and has won three pro fights in that time. As a Marine, he had 35 fights and won every tile in his weight division.

Promising

Both fighters are promising middleweights who could jump into title contention.

Their fight (NBC, radio-TV, 10 p.m. EDT) will be the third of three 10-rounders on the card promoted jointly by Norm Rothschild's Arena Boxing Club and the International Boxing Club.

The others will pit Pat Manzi of Syracuse against Juan Tejeda, a Spanish import now fighting out of nearby Oneida, and Tommy Bain of Syracuse against Charley McGarrity of Brooklyn.

Only the Drake-Baldoni bout will be telecast and broadcast.

Major Leagues To Hold Draft

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 13 (AP)— The major league draft will be held here Monday, Nov. 28, and the minor league selections the next two days, President George M. Trautman of the minors said today.

The boss of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues said he expects more than 1,000 persons connected with the national sport to attend the five-day convention.

Featherman Rolls 298

KEN FEATHERMAN, a member of the Al Besecker's Diner entry in the Monroe County League, rolled a near-perfect 298 game at Harmon's Recreation last night.

Featherman rolled 11 straight strikes before he came in "high" with his 12th ball.

Two Stand

A split resulted in the 12th frame and the six and 10 pins refused to fall.

Al Besecker's Diner was rolling against Central Labor Union in last night's match.

Tobyhanna Wins Three All-Star Berths

SCRANTON — Tobyhanna, playoff champion in the Pocono Mountains Baseball Asociation, and pennant winning Moscow, each placed three players on the circuit's annual All-Star team it was announced yesterday by Stanley A. Prokop, circuit president. Five of the six teams in the league were represented on the first team.

The all-star team has batting power and a staff of twirlers that can compare with the best. The defensive potential is a matter of conjecture and will, of course, have to be proven when the club gets into actual play against the Wayne County League All-Stars on Sunday at Stourbridge Field, Honesdale.

Long Rivalry

This scheduled contest for Sunday will be the 10th annual mountain classic between the two loop all-star congregations, which had its inception in 1926.

Stanley Prokop, Pocono leader and Joe Henshaw, president and Keith Sutton, secretary of the Wayne County loop, have decided that umpires from both loops will officiate at Sunday's game which is scheduled to start promptly at 2 p.m.

In naming the Pocono team for 1955 the managers showed greatest favor to the following members of the aggregation: Deo Heffernan, Gouldsboro; Dick Dunning, Tobyhanna; Jerry Stepinski, Moscow; Sam Curtis, Gouldsboro received solid support from six of the seven selectors.

Two of the closest contests for places on the first team were that of first base and catcher: Vincent Fischi, Daleville led Bob Carey, Moscow by one point while Ray Bell, Moscow just edged out Tom Burke of Tobyhanna by one point.

The contest for the outfield was very close with Al Caruth, Hamlin, Steve Ferke, Moscow and Mike Shimko, Tobyhanna, leading Al Schoch, Tom Williams and Ray Ornosky by slight margins.

The star selections as announced by Prokop follows:

First Team

The first team consists of Fischi, Daleville, first base; Heffernan, Gouldsboro, second base; Dick Dunning, Tobyhanna, third base; Al Konopka, Tobyhanna, shortstop; Bell, Moscow, catcher; Sam Curtis, Gouldsboro, and Jerry Stepinski, Moscow, pitchers; and Caruth, Hamlin, Ferke, Moscow, and Shimko, Tobyhanna, outfielders.

Placed on the second team were Carey, Moscow, first base; Ray Van Benscoten, Tobyhanna, second base; Al Leshinsky, Moscow, third base; Bob Payne, Moscow, shortstop; Burke, Tobyhanna, catcher; Ed Smith, Hamlin, and Bob Haines, Daleville, pitchers, and Schoch, Tobyhanna, Williams, Gouldsboro and Ornosky, Mount Cobb, outfielders.

The honorable mention list includes Donald Patterson, Hamlin; Clair Johnson, Daleville; Wayne Harris, Mount Cobb; John Ognosky, Mount Cobb; Paul Smith, Hamlin; Dick McLain, Moscow; Charley Deubler, Tobyhanna; Bob Stegline, Daleville; Mike Kronick, Gouldsboro; Jack Dunning, Tobyhanna; Howard Bird, Hamlin, and Jack Zeigler, Moscow.

All-Star selections were made by the following managers: Frank "Candy" Dailey, Tobyhanna; I. J. Stepinski, Moscow; Harry Sebring, Gouldsboro; Frank Kurdzeil, Daleville; Les Black, Hamlin; Pat Craven, Mount Cobb, and Prokop.

DOUG SCHOONOVER will make his Monroe County coaching bow today when his East Stroudsburg Junior High School football squad plays host to Hackettstown Junior High at Memorial Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 3:15 p. m.

The youthful Cavaliers have been working hard for the past number of weeks and at the present time have a four-game schedule, although a fifth contest may be added in the near future.

Schoonover, who was graduated from Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is being assisted this year by Les Dimmick and Bob "Booter" Miller.

Sam Wins Grid Wager--But

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dan Sayad, 30, an accountant, will pay off that house-painting bet with his brother in San Francisco for the Chicago Bears' 20-19 loss to the 49ers Sunday.

But, brother Sam, himself a house-painter, must let Dan select the colors. Dan's choice: Black top, white bottom and orange window sills—the colors of the Chicago Bears.

Crimson Hose Release Joost, Sign Eight Young Hopefuls

BOSTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Boston Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin today announced the outright release of infielder Eddie Joost and the purchase of eight minor league players.

Joost, picked up as a free agent in the spring to aid the Red Sox' injury-riddled infield, was given his release after waivers had been received from the other American League teams. Joost, who managed the Athletics their last season in Philadelphia a year ago, saw only spot service as a pinchhitter and fill-in.

Contract

At the same time the Red Sox signed the contract of catcher Guy Morton to their Louisville farm club, Cronin said.

Five of the added players are from the Louisville club—righthanded pitcher Jerry Casale, shortstop Don Buddin and outfielders Marty Keough, Bob Jenkins and Gordon Windhorn.

The other three players included in the Red Sox purchase are from Greensboro of the Class B Carolina League. They are righthanded pitcher Joe Albanese, southpaw hurler Roy Tinney and catcher Jerry Zimmerman.

Injuries Hit Big Names In College Ranks

By Bob Hoobing
The Associated Press

OL' MAN injury, attacking football's national championship aspirants with impartial vigor, is dishing out more miseries than usual to headline players this season.

Michigan's Ron Kramer, Maryland's Tom Selep, Princeton's Royce Flippin, Army's Bob Kyasky and Doyle Traylor of Baylor head an imposing wounded list with the campaign only one third completed.

Kramer, the great end, suffered a chest injury in last week's game with Army and will miss the Northwestern contest. How soon after that he'll be back is not certain.

Before the season opened, Maryland's second ranked Terrapin learned that starting fullback Selep would not be available because of knee trouble. Since then, star end Bill Walker has missed a game because of a foot injury and tackle Al Wharton has come up with a damaged leg.

Notre Dame

At Notre Dame, where sophomores are carrying a heavy load, the most publicized of them all hasn't played yet. Newcomer Dick Wilkins, a fullback, has been out with a dislocated elbow and may make his debut against Michigan State. Guard Ray Lemek, only line regular left over from '54, has been able to see only spot service because of a brittle knee.

Kyasky, faster than Glenn Davis when healthy, according to Army coach Earl Blaik, suffered broken collarbones in his plebe and second years. In early September a knee gave way and after limited tests under battle conditions he trudged to the sidelines for the last time in '55.

Len Dawson, Purdue's slingshot passer who ranked third in the nation a year ago as a sophomore, suffered a painful jammed thumb in preseason practice. As a result, he came in only to convert against College of the Pacific and was held to 18 minutes playing time in the Minnesota game.

Traylor, perhaps the most heralded Texas schoolboy since Doak Walker, still is waiting to play his first game for Baylor. Hurt before the '54 season, he decided to save his eligibility for another year. The day before the Bears opened camp this fall, he got a fractured collarbone in a sandlot workout.

Princeton's talented tailback, Flippin, jammed his knee in a scrimmage. His playing time totals three plays—the time it took him to reinjure the joint against Columbia.

Unbeaten Yale lost its starting fullback and best linebacker for the duration in its first game.

✚ ✚ Predictions ✚ ✚

By Jim Riley

TWO WEEKEND football games will highlight area action, with three of the four local clubs to play. Last week we broke even, winning two of four contests to bring the season's total to a very weak seven right and six wrong as far as local grid machines are concerned.

Bangor and Stroudsburg meet for the 34th time tonight. Both teams take a season's record of one victory and three defeats into the battle at Bangor.

The Slaters have speed to burn and a stronger offensive unit. But, Stroudsburg's brilliant second half play against Pen Argyl has sparked the Mountaineers.

If Stroudsburg can play an entire game against Bangor as they played against Pen Argyl in the second half, the Mountaineers will be in the thick of the battle right up to the final whistle.

On a hunch, we'll pick Stroudsburg, but the Mountaineers will have to play better than any time during the present campaign. They must continue, or even improve upon, their tackling as demonstrated against Pen Argyl.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will journey to Mansfield for a Pennsylvania State Teachers College Football Conference contest.

The Warriors are still smarting from a 26-7 lacing at the hands of Shippensburg last week. The pick here is the Warriors, but only after a close battle.

East Stroudsburg High enjoys an open date on the football schedule this week.

Baltimore Releases Lopat

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Eddie Lopat's major league pitching career which covered 12 years including five as a mainstay of pennant winning New York Yankee teams, appeared over today with his unconditional release by the Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles indicated no other major league was interested in him since he now can be bought from them for $1. They gave about $10,000 to the Yankees for him last July 30.

It was reported earlier this week that Lopat already had decided to go in the insurance business.

Losing Seasons

The chunky lefthander, known as the "junk man" because of his floating pitches, had only two losing seasons and one of them was the last in the American League.

He won 10 and lost 13 in his second year with the Chicago White Sox in 1945. The past season he won seven and lost 12 for the Yankees and Baltimore. He won his first game for Baltimore but was used only sparingly thereafter and wound up with a 3-4 mark for the Orioles and an earned run average of 4.22.

Lopat started playing organized baseball as a first baseman for State League in 1937. He turned Greensburg in the Pennsylvania pitcher in the same year.

In all, Lopat pitched in 340 major league games, winning 166 and losing 112.

AP Scribe Likes Duke Over State

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—"Blood battles" and intense intersectional rivalries put a monkey-wrench squeeze on the harried football prophet this weekend.

There seems little hope of bettering last week's score of 37-9 for .804, the season's best, or the season's mark of 135-39 for .776.

Notre Dame 28, Michigan State 21: Good upset possibilities here with the Spartans fired to a fever pitch. But the Fighting Irish, as proved against Miami, are too poised and too good.

Southern California 14, Wisconsin 7: The Trojans—big, strong and deep—avenge last January's Rose Bowl defeat by knocking off the No. 6 team in the country.

Duke 21, Ohio State 20: Maybe no more than a point difference in these two strong clubs. Ohio State slightly favored at home but Duke has the incentive.

Michigan 28, Northwestern 0: The Wolverines fight to hold their No. 1 position. The Army game proved them an undeniable power.

Texas Christian 21, Texas A&M 7: Jim Swink gives the home team momentum the title-hungry Aggies can't stop.

Navy 14, Penn State 0: The Midshipmen remain unscored-upon, while George Welsh gives them a pair of TDs.

West Virginia 40, William & Mary 0: Pappy Lewis even pulls jack rabbits out of his hat in Morgantown.

The others:

Friday: Vanderbilt 21, Chattanooga 6; Utah 20, Denver 13; Boston College 13, Detroit 7.

Saturday

EAST—Army 28, Syracuse 12; Harvard 19, Columbia 7; Dartmouth 24, Lafayette 0; Pennsylvania 20, George Washington 13; Pittsburgh 28, Nebraska 6; Princeton 14, Colgate 7; Yale 21, Cornell 7.

MIDWEST—Iowa 14, Purdue 7; Colorado 20, Kansas State 6; Missouri 14, Iowa State 6; Indiana 28, Villanova 14; Illinois 13, Minnesota 14, Cincinnati 13; Oklahoma 34, Kansas 0.

SOUTH—Kentucky 14, Mississippi State 0; Wake Forest 21, North Carolina State 7; Mississippi 20, Tulane 0; Georgia 20, Florida State 6; Maryland 34, North Carolina 6; Tennessee 7, Alabama 0; Georgia Tech 21, Auburn 14.

SOUTHWEST—Texas 21, Arkansas 13; Houston 28, Oklahoma A&M 14; Rice 20, SMU 14.

FAR WEST—UCLA 20, Stanford 6; Oregon 20, California 13; College of Pacific 13, Oregon State 7; Washington 20, Baylor 14.

Hutchinson Faces Task Of Teaching Cardinals Lesson He Failed To Learn While With Tigers

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Freddie Hutchinson, the new St. Louis manager, faces a difficult task in realigning the Cardinals' pitching staff. Particularly is this true in the matter of gopher balls—pitches that are belted for home runs.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press disclosed today that the Cards' inept pitching corps established a major league record last season by giving up 185 home runs. The old mark was 179 set by Cincinnati's pitchers in 1953.

Harvey Haddix, who yielded 27 homers, Tom Poholsky, with 26, and Larry Jackson, with 25, were the St. Louis gopher ball leaders. Every one of the 20 pitchers the Cards used, except Vic Raschi, allowed at least one homer. And Raschi worked only 1 2/3 innings before he was released.

Hutchinson can speak with authority on gophers. The former Detroit pitcher and manager still holds the American League record of 32 home run serves, a mark he established in 1948.

None of the gopher ball troubles experienced by the Cardinals' pitchers last season, however, compared with those of Robin Roberts, the ace righthander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

By allowing 41 homers, Roberts shattered the major league standard of 39 set by Murray Dickson with the Cards in 1948. Roberts, who also paced the National League in home run deliveries in 1954 with 35, partially can be excused for his performance in this category. He pitched 305 innings—the most in the majors.

Steve Gromek, Detroit's veteran righthander, topped the American League in gophers for the second straight campaign. He permitted 26 in 181 innings.

The Kansas City A's, baseball's newest members, also had the unenviable distinction of setting a gopher ball park. Their pitchers allowed 174 homers, topping the American League record of 154 set by Detroit's hurlers in 1953.

Czech Track Star May Quit In 1956

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — Triple Olympic champion Emil Zatopek hinted today that he will quit international track and field competition after the 1956 Olympics—but he left the door wide open for a change of heart.

The Czech, 34, relaxed at his London Hotel after his defeat last night over 10,000 meters and said: "As I feel at the moment it is quite likely that I shall not run again for my country after the 1956 Olympics."

Losing Teams Tops Offense

By The Associated Press

IT'S ONE of the oddities of the small college football competition this year that some of the finest statistical performances are being turned in by Hamline University, a team which hasn't won a game.

Although beaten in its first four starts, the St. Paul, Minn., institution has the nation's top offensive player among the smaller colleges, the best passer and receiver and the best team record for aerial accomplishments.

Freshman Jim Foley of Hamline is the passing leader with 59 completions in 111 attempts for 727 yards and three touchdowns. Although he has lost ground in 10 running plays, he has the total offense lead with 687 yards.

In losing to St. John's of Minnesota last week, Foley threw 62 passes and completed 33 with no interceptions.

Total

In all, Hamline threw 63 passes and completed 34 to tie the attempt record and set an all-time team completion record for one game. Loyola of California had completed 33 of 63 against Florida in 1951.

Foley's 62 passes were a record for a small college performer in a single game and his 33 completions equalled the collegiate one-game mark set by Don Klosterman of Loyola in the Florida game.

Foley's battery mate, end Dick Donlin, grabbed 18 of the passes to set an all-time college mark for one-game receptions. The previous high was 16 grabs by Oklahoma A&M's Alex Loyd against Kansas in 1949. With 27 catches for the year and 290 yards, Donlin is well ahead of Geneva's Bob Price (198 yards) and American International's Tom Rhychlec (174 yards) for aerial yardage.

Far Ahead

Hamline's 805 yards in the air in four games puts it far ahead of Oberlin (Ohio) with 362.

Mike Karas of Geneva is Foley's "closest" challenger in the passing division, but he has only 29 completions for 297 yards.

Gettysburg of Pennsylvania is the team offense leader with 414 yards per game.

Dwight Eisenhower Related To Daniel Boone; Common Ancestor Born In England In 1666

By John Koenig Jr.

HARRISBURG, Pa. Oct. 13 (P)—Old Dan'l Boone, if he were alive today, would be right proud to know a kinsman of his now occupies the White House.

The fabled frontier scout and all members of the numerous Boone clan around the United States should have no qualms about calling President Dwight Eisenhower "cousin."

Genealogical records in the Pennsylvania State Library—and the Keystone State was the first home in America of both Eisenhowers and Boones—show the relationship.

Came To U. S. in 1717

Six generations back, on his mother's side, Ike had a common ancestor with Daniel Boone. That was George Boone III, born near Exeter, England, 1666, and who sailed for America in 1717.

George III settled with his seven sons and two daughters in what is now Berks County, but then a part of Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. One of the sons, Squire Boone— a proper name, and not a title—became the father of famed Daniel Boone and in 1750 moved southward to North Carolina. Daniel was then 16 years old.

Meanwhile one of Squire's sisters, Sarah Boone, had married a Swiss settler, named Jacob Stover, (also Stauber and Stowber), at Christ Church in Philadelphia and also settled in Berks County. Like her brother Squire, Sarah also had a son named Daniel—a first cousin of Daniel Boone.

Married Eisenhower

This Daniel Stover was the great grandfather of Ida Elizabeth Stover, who married David Jacob Eisenhower, at college in Kansas. David and Ida in 1890 became the parents of the future 34th President of the United States.

Ike's paternal origins are quite well-known. The founder of the family in America was Hans Nicol Eisenhower, who like the Boones entered through the colonial port of Philadelphia. He arrived from Rotterdam on the ship Europa in 1741.

Nicholas, as the founder later became known, settled with his sons in Bethel Township, in then Lancaster now Lebanon County. Here in this rugged frontier country just east of the mid-Pennsylvania Mountains—barrier to the west in those days—Nicholas' home was burned by the Indians in 1756.

President Ike has closed the circle in the wanderings of his family in the United States. His farm home at Gettysburg is approximately 60 miles from his direct ancestors' last previous home in Pennsylvania.

And the commonwealth itself preserves for posterity the boyhood home of Daniel Boone, near Reading, Pa. It's a large stone farmhouse built by Squire Boone, his father, and where the boy Daniel learned to hunt and shoot.

Children 1 To 11 Eligible For Shots

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (P)—Maryland health authorities today made all youngsters more than a year old and not yet 11 eligible for polio vaccine shots.

They said there is no need now to make pregnant women eligible for the shots, since the incidence of polio is expected to be only slight from now until next July 1.

Matteo Dave Remodels Store, Replaces Damaged Equipment

MATTEO DAVE, operator of a grocery, meat and green goods store on Main St., Stroudsburg since 1919, has reopened his store at 344 Main St., one of the business establishments hit hard by the Aug. 18-19 flood.

While yesterday was the first day of business at the completely remodeled establishment, Mr. Dave and his son, James, plan a grand opening celebration in about two weeks when all of the stock he has ordered is placed on display counters.

Mr. Dave has replaced damaged equipment, such as display cases and other facilities with completely new installations

The store room and all adjacent facilities have been thoroughly cleaned, sterilized, decorated and approved. Not the slightest evidence of the flood damage exists.

Once again, in addition to a full line of quality groceries, meats and green goods, Mr. Dave will carry a full line of fine Italian foods.

Commenting yesterday on his long career in the business, Mr. Dave was full of gratitude for many friends who joined with him and his family after the flood for a cleanup and for others who aided him in his plans to restore the business.

WALTER E. Schlough, Stroudsburg staff manager for the Prudential Insurance Co., will attend a field management advisory committee conference in the company's home office at Newark, N. J., on Oct. 19, 20 and 21.

A 20-man group which Mr. Schlough will join at Newark, reviews current practices and suggests and considers major changes affecting district agencies operations. Each committee member has an outstanding sales management record. Last year Mr. Schlough headed an agency group which was cited as the top sales unit in the entire East Penn region.

Mr. Schlough joined Prudential in 1927. He was advanced to a staff managership in 1932. He lives at Analomink Lake.

Major Donald R. Holmgren, manager of the Triangle Shoe Store in Stroudsburg, leaves today on a two-week tour of active duty with the U. S. Air Force. Major Holmgren will report to the New Castle County Airport, Wilmington, Del., for a familiarization course in cross country flying and the latest Air Force flying techniques. This two-week tour is a part of the specialized reserve training program of the Air Force which is active in the Monroe County area.

Art Singer, owner-operator of the Friendly Inn, 324 Main St., Stroudsburg has completed remodeling the establishment which was hit hard by the Aug. 18-19 flood.

The taproom-restaurant portions of the building exposed to flood waters has been thoroughly cleaned, sanitized and decorated. The Board of Health has inspected, approved and passed for operation the entire establishment, Mr. Singer said.

Mr. Singer has had a new floor and covering installed, booths and a great deal of new equipment for the service of both beverages and foods.

B. E. Weber of B. E. Weber's Garage, East Stroudsburg Studebaker dealer, attended a major Studebaker dealer meeting in New York at which 1800 dealers from the eastern division were given a confidential preview of the new line of Studebaker cars and trucks for 1956.

The new passenger car line seen by Mr. Weber is reported to be the only all-new automobile line in the low price field in 1956.

The new Studebakers are said to be the biggest, inside and outside, in the company's history, at the same time they offer dramatic new advances in mechanical and comfort features. It was also revealed that the new Studebakers, despite their new bigness and power, are designed to retain their position of leadership in fuel economy.

Public introduction of the new Studebaker cars and trucks in dealer showrooms across the country is scheduled for November.

Darwin (Bub) Learn, of Tannersville, has taken over operation of the Gulf Service station at the Bartonsville intersection.

Learn has had almost seven years experience in service station, garage and general auto repair and service work. He is a native of Tannersville.

The service station is modern and completely equipped to provide all types of road service to motorists and truckers.

Foodstains Top Cleaner's List

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)— Next time you spot your clothes, the odds are that it will be with gravy or something else off your plate.

More foodstains are removed in dry cleaning than anything else, the National Institute of Dry Cleaning reported today after a survey.

Bloodstains come next, followed closely by the drippings of coffee, tea and other drinks, paint stains and cosmetic smears.

White Python

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)— Heard of white elephants? Peter Ryhiner, big game trapper, has a white python, with blue eyes yet. Rhyiner says he captured it in east Bengal last spring and it's the only white one ever discovered, despite references to white snakes in mythology.

National Nurse Week Spotlights Future Nurses Club Here

JUST BEGINNING — A Future Nurses Club has been organized this year in East Stroudsburg High School for the first time sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society. From left to right are Miss Charlotte Shupp, school nurse, who will be advisor to the group; Mrs. T. I. Metzgar, chairman of the Medical Auxiliary's Nurse Recruitment committee this year; Jean Stine, president of the East Stroudsburg Future Nurses; and Joyce Rusling, vice president. The other pictures on this page are from the Stroudsburg club which has been in operation a full year. Later the Medical Auxiliary hopes to organize clubs in Tobyhanna, Chestnuthill and Barrett High Schools.

THE NEED FOR HELPING HANDS, trained to minister to the world's ills has created a crying need for more and more nurses. To answer that need and to interest girls in nursing as a career, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society has launched a nurse recruitment program. An essential part of that program is the Future Nurses Club which reaches girls directly through the high schools.

With the approval of the school authorities and the cooperation of a faculty member to serve as advisor, the Future Nurses Club have a three-fold purpose: to interest high school students in personal and community health; to encourage them in finding out what nursing requires and what it offers; and to help them decide wisely about professional or practical nursing as a career.

First Future Nurses Club in the county was organized last year at Stroudsburg High School. Through their programs and field trips they had an opportunity to learn first hand about nursing; through their projects they gave service to their school and community; through their social activities they learned to know each other better.

Betsy Hamblin

HANDS TRAINED — to service. Jackie Torzillo finds this part of nursing comes naturally. The Stroudsburg Future Nurses last year visited the General Hospital, where they read to the patients in the children's ward. They also visited St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Allentown on one of their field trips, and studied the requirements for entering Schools of Nursing and the various specialties open to nurses.

HEARTS TUNED to sympathy. Barbara Levy finds that sympathetic interest in people and ability to win their confidence is also an essential part of nursing. The club through its programs heard from nurses in active service—hospital nursing, visiting nursing, public health and industrial nursing. They learned first hand of the opportunities, rewards, and drawbacks of nursing as a career.

A MIND FOR STUDY—Patricia Dodson, first president of the Stroudsburg Future Nurse Club, has been graduated and is now enrolled in nursing school. She is here shown watching the procedure at the Red Cross Blood Donor Center last year with Mrs. Horace Butler, now president of the Medical Auxiliary, who as last year's Nurse Recruitment Chairman, was responsible for setting up the first Future Nurse Club in the county.

Bev Feilencer

NOT ALL GIRLS who join Future Nurses Clubs will become nurses. A vague romantic notion of what nursing entails is exchanged for full knowledge. Those who do become nurses will enter training knowing the rewards and drawbacks, the requirements and compensations.

Their sponsors, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society, have pledged themselves to help with the programs, to provide transportation for field trips, and counselling whenever it is needed.

A Future Nurse Club can be organized in any high school when a minimum of eight girls are interested in becoming members.

TURN A [illegible] CORNER — School nurse and [illegible] Martha Kintz demonstrates hospital bed-making as one phase of the Stroudsburg club's program. The club members manned the high school health room during certain hours, they made cancer dressings (which is what the girls in the small pictures are doing) as services to their school and their community.

Reigning Queens Have Always Found Key To Basic Beauty In Their Religious Faith

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Two of America's most beautiful women say beauty consists not of curves—but of convictions.

"It's what you believe and what you do," said Sharon Kay Ritchie, the new Miss America.

"It's what's in your heart," said Mrs. Ramona Deitemeyer, the current Mrs. America. "It must come from the inside out."

Inner Attitude

These two Midwestern lovelies, with charm, good looks and talent to spare, maintain that the inner attitude is more important.

The key to that basic beauty, in their view, is religious faith.

Both of them, cast in the national limelight this year in separate competitions, have been staunch church workers since they were in pigtails.

"It's always been part of my life — as much as eating and sleeping," said Mrs. Deitemeyer, a poised, blue-eyed blonde from Lincoln, Neb. "I just can't imagine living without it.

"I feel that if one puts religion and spiritual education first in the home, everything else will take care of itself."

In Tune With God

Miss Ritchie, a glowing young girl with blue eyes, a soft voice and dark plum-red hair, said that "If I didn't have a religion, a set of beliefs, there are many times when I'd have been completely lost."

"One who lives a Christian life should be the happiest of all people," she said. "They are living in tune with God. I think it is the only way to live."

She taught Sunday school in the First Christian Church in her home town of Grand Island, Neb., and when she went away to Colorado Women's College in Denver, she took over leadership of the daily student chapel there.

"Each morning when I wake up, I meet Jesus in prayer and have Him with me the rest of the day," she said. "I'd feel an awful emptiness when I woke up if there wasn't a God to believe in."

Faith Works

To her, faith is a mover of mountains. "I know it works," she smiled. "If you visualize a goal, believe in it and expect it, in due time you will achieve it." As for her climb to the Miss America title, she said:

"I knew God was with me every step of the way. Without that assurance, I don't think I could have done it."

Mrs. Dietemeyer, mother of five little children—three girls and two boys—teaches Sunday school in Lincoln's Christ Lutheran Church, of the Missouri Synod.

So does her husband Carl, who is president of the congregation.

"I don't think a home can be secure and happy without a religious base," she said. "Too many people think they can handle life all by themselves. Often, too late, they find out they can't."

Explains Motive

Her main motive in entering the Mrs. America contest, she said, was in hope that it might prove a means by which she could tell the story of the importance of faith in the home.

On the morning of the finals, she said, she turned to a random scripture, Hebrews 12:1—

"Wherefore seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

That verse, she said, "indicated to me that I would be a witness through this activity. So wherever I go, wherever I make a speech, I relate the experiences by which we have found family strength through religion."

Mistaken Idea

Any idea that the reign of these two American "queens" involves a big social whirl and rounds of night life is badly mistaken, when it comes to this pair. Neither smokes or drinks. Neither likes night clubs.

"I'd rather go for a buggy ride in Central Park," said Miss Ritchie, who has been carefully scheduling her Sundays so she'll get to attend all the noted churches in New York.

U. S. Requests Reinstatement Of Nelson Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Enforcement of state sedition laws is not barred by the federal Smith Act, the government contended yesterday.

A Justice Department brief filed in the Supreme Court asked reinstatement of a Pennsylvania state court conviction of Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist party leader.

Nelson was convicted in state court in Pittsburgh of violating the Pennsylvania Sedition Act. He received a prison sentence of 20 years and a $10,000 fine plus costs of the prosecution.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court threw out the conviction on the ground that the state sedition act was suspended by enactment of the federal Smith Act in 1940. Many Communists have been convicted under the Smith Act on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

India produces about 36,800,000 sheep and goat hides annually.

VFW To Issue Furniture And Clothing

PAUL V. WEARY, commander of Post 2540, V. F. W., said yesterday that anyone who was in the flood areas and in need of clothing and furniture, may obtain them Saturday.

Since the flood, the local VFW post has issued tons of food, clothes and furniture. The food supply is exhausted for the present, but the post has on hand a good supply of furniture and clothing, Weary said.

This will be given out from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the storage building at the VFW Memorial Park. Howard Mount, service officer and a crew of helpers will be on hand to assist applicants.

Councilmen's Cars To Display Shields

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Councilmen have passed a measure to allow elected city officials, who include councilmen, to display an official shield on their automobiles.

Opponents of the idea argued it's just a gimmick to dodge a parking summons. But Councilman Edward Cunningham, whose measure was carried 17-4, insisted:

"We just want the police to know we are councilmen on official business."

Coal Industry Hits Proposal To Import Gas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—U. S. coal industry spokesmen fired a barrage of press statements today against what they described as a proposal to import Canadian natural gas into mid-western states and export American gas into eastern Canada.

The proposal was submitted to the Federal Power Commission Monday by Midwestern Gas Transmission Co., a newly formed affiliate of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. on the Canadian side of the venture is Trans-Canada Pipeline, Ltd.

The National Coal Assn., representing the bituminous producers, described it as "another attempt to have Americans subsidize the building of the all-Canadian natural gas pipeline" from Alberta to Toronto.

Joins Protest

Joining in the coal industry and railroad protests, Harry See, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said he saw in the plan to set up a competing fuel system "a threat to the security of Canada and the United States."

"The vital railroad transportation systems of both countries depend upon the movement of coal to maintain road and rolling stock at a point of readiness in time of sudden emergency," he said.

383 Enrolled In School At Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND—Three hundred and eighty-three students reported for classes at the Greene-Dreher-Sterling School as it made its belated opening on Oct. 3, according to figures released light night by Leland Cramer, supervising principal.

The delayed opening, latest in the school's history, was necessitated by damage caused by the August 18-19 flood. Complete renovation of the basement areas of the high school and elementary buildings was required and cleanup of grounds and other buildings was accomplished before sessions were begun.

Enrollment is rather evenly split between the three townships making up the jointure with Greene Township (Pike County) sending 133 students, Sterling Township (Wayne County) listing 123 and Dreher Township (Wayne County) 113. Other districts enrolling students on a tuition basis are Lehigh, 11; Madison, two, and Palmyra, one.

Breakdown By Grades

Greene's total includes 77 elementary pupils and 56 high school students; Dreher 59 elementary and 54 high school; Sterling 68 elementary and 55 high school. There are a total of 207 enrolled in the first six grades; 176 in grades seven through 12.

Enrollment by grades: first—34; second—36; third—31; fourth—34; fifth—35; sixth—37; seventh—36; eighth—31; ninth—36; tenth—32; eleventh—22; twelfth—19.

The school's cafeteria was put into operation on opening day, Mrs. Phyllis Nash, home economics instructor, is in charge. Employed kitchen help are Mrs. Harry Simons, Mrs. Myrtle Waltz and Mrs. Melvin Manhart.

Only change in the school staff is that of school nurse. Mrs. Constance Marcy, employed jointly by Salem Township, Lake Township, Cherry Ridge Township and the local jointure, replaces Mrs. Paul Strada, resigned.

Due to the late start, the current school year will be of 170 days duration, rather than the customary 180 period, Cramer said. Curtailment of recesses will allow school to be dismissed the first week in June, the principal stated.

Labor Board Neutral, Says Acting Chief

LAS VEGAS, Nev. Oct. 10 (AP)—Philip Ray Rodgers, acting chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, said today any claims that the NLRB is "antilabor" are "completely false and utterly worthless."

In a talk prepared for the annual convention of the American Mining Congress, Rodgers said only one-half of one per cent of the cases acted on by the board in the last two fiscal years were decided by votes "along so-called political or philosophical lines."

Rodgers said 3,071 cases out of 3,197 brought unanimous decisions while only 14 brought split decisions along party lines.

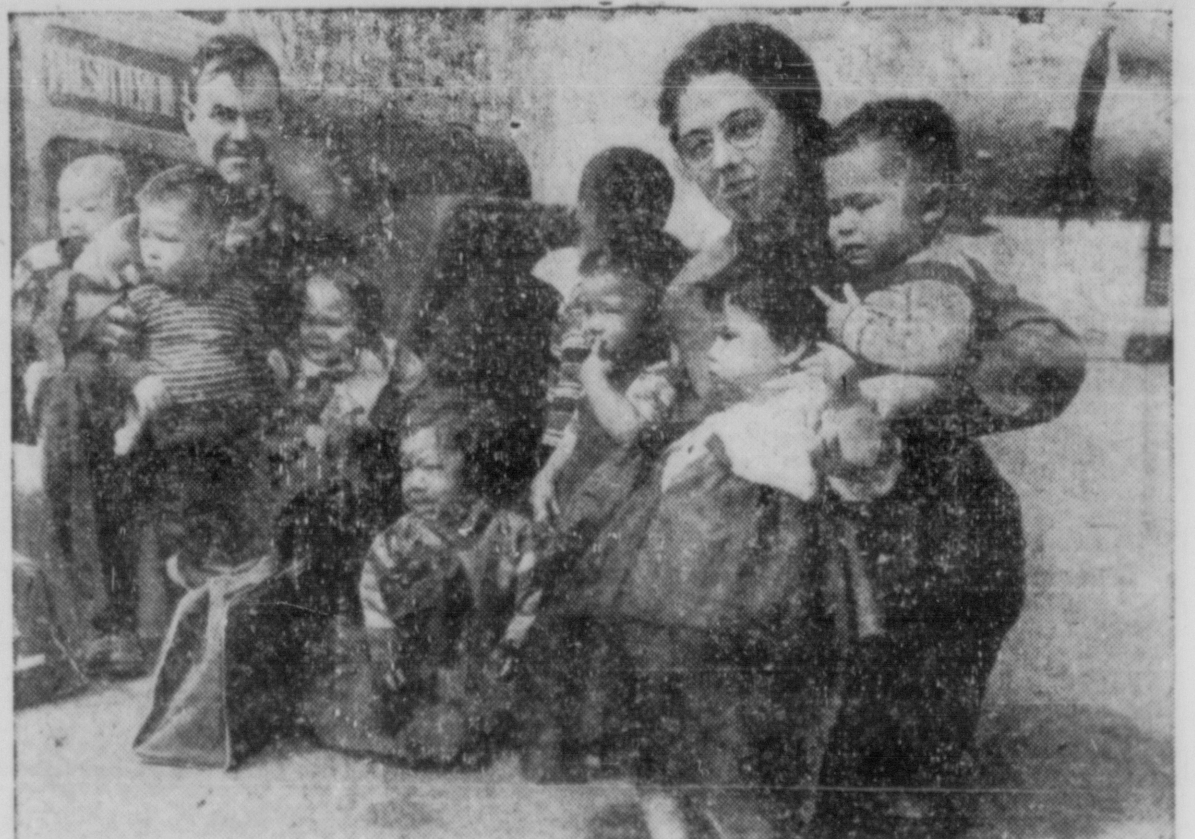
"These contests," he added, "must not become the subject of public debate, trial by newspaper and political propaganda, if a free society based on the supremacy of law is to survive."

World War I Hero Honored

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Samuel Woodfill, rated by Gen. John J. Pershing in 1921 as the greatest World War I hero, will be paid an overdue last military tribute Oct. 16-17.

Woodfill died four years ago at simple Madison, Ind., grave. His body is being brought here by a group of Indiana dignitaries next Sunday and will be buried the next day in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors.

Demand for black pepper among U. S. cooks and chefs pushed the imports of this popular spice to about 35½ million pounds in 1954.



HARRY S. HOLT, an Oregon farmer, poses with the eight Korean orphans he has adopted and will soon take back home to live in his "nice big house" in Cresswell. To assure his "family" of a perfect homecoming. Holt recently took the children to the Seoul airport on a "dry-run" of departure. Shown with the enlarged Holt family is Miss Katherine Cowan, a nurse, who will take care of the children on their flight from Korea to their new home in the United States.

NATO Bloc, Already Weak, Faces Real Danger If Separate Nations Decide To Go Own Way

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Great Britain announced more than a year ago, soon after a similar decision by the United States, that she would streamline her armed forces to get along with less manpower.

Nevertheless, her announcement that she will reduce her army by more than 10 per cent, coupled with other developing political and military troubles for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, adds to an already disturbing atmosphere.

Secretary Dulles said yesterday the new face on Russian foreign policy had not yet lessened the need for maintenance of Allied power, but it is being weakened just the same.

France Weakened

France has greatly weakened her contribution to NATO forces in Europe in her effort to subdue revolt in North Africa. That situation also has put her at political odds with much of the non-Communist world.

West Germany's government has just taken an election beating from opponent's of its pro-Nato rearmament policy, and Russia is developing a powerful campaign making German reunification dependent on an end to that policy.

The Greek-Turkish-Yugoslav entente has just been made virtually inoperative by conflict between Greece and Turkey over their attitudes toward British possession of Cyprus and by Tito's decision to return to what he calls a more "normal" relationship with Russia and the Communist satellites.

Egypt, where the Allies had hoped to obtain a measure of cooperation in return for British military evacuation, is playing footsie with Moscow.

Middle East Upset

Generally disturbed conditions in the Middle East are interfering with practical operation of the Turkish - Iraq - British - Pakistan pact, and with the effort to get Iran to join it.

The future of American air bases in North Africa, which carry the most direct threat of retaliation for any Communist aggression, is highly questionable as a result of the nationalist revolts.

The British position in predominantly-Chinese Singapore, headquarters for all her military force in the Far East, is far from secure.

Some of these situations are inherent in the fact that the world is moving away from colonialism, and are being exploited by the Communists for their own purposes. Some, despite the protestations of Allied statesmen, are being produced by Russia's sweetness and light campaign.

Insofar as this latter applies, Winston Churchill made a most timely statement yesterday:

"What improvement there may have been during the past few years in international affairs we owe to the unity of the Western world and to . . . a strong, bold and united front."

If this easement continues, he added, there may be a tendency to drift apart again and go their own way. That, he said, "would surely lead sooner or later to a catastrophe such as mankind has never known."

Six Killed In Air Crash

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 10 (AP)—A two-engine Yugoslav Airlines plane with 29 persons aboard crashed and burned in the foggy Vienna woods today, killing at least six persons. At least 15 were injured, some seriously.

Some of the others, including Americans, were able to walk away from the accident with only slight injuries.

The plane, en route from Belgrade to Vienna, crashed on a hill overlooking the Austrian capital and only a short distance from the Danube River just before it was due to land.

Among those hospitalized was Frank P. Irwin of Iuka, Ill. He was thrown out of the plane and was reported seriously hurt.

U. S. Army Chaplain, Lt. Col. John I. Rhea, stationed at Heidelberg, Germany, suffered a slight foot injury. Also slightly injured was Princess Schwarzenberg, wife of the Austrian ambassador in London, and her daughter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Closed-circuit television will bring two English courses to New York University students twice a week beginning Monday. Full college credit will be given for the televised lectures, which will be supplemented by a one-hour tutoring session.

Hall Thinks Democrats To 'Dump' Adlai

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Leonard W. Hall, the GOP national chairman, said today it looks as if Adlai Stevenson "may be dumped in midstream."

He made the comment on Democratic affairs for the benefit of newsreel and TV cameras prior to an address at the National Republican Club.

The reference was to the possible 1956 presidential candidacy of Illinois' former Gov. Stevenson, who was the 1952 Democratic standard bearer.

"I see Mr. Truman is sidling up to Mr. Harriman," he said referring to the former president and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Predicts Ike Sweep

Asked to comment on the effect of President Eisenhower's illness on the 1956 campaign, Hall reiterated:

"My opinion is that Eisenhower in 1956 will sweep the country, just as he did four years ago."

Replying to what he said was "gratuitous" advice from "some of our opponents," Hall declared:

"I say that the Republican party is the strongest it has been in 25 years. We're in that shape because President Eisenhower has led us along the way."

Democratic Senator Johnston Claims Postal Jobs Being Sold

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) announced today the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee is investigating what he called "the illegal and political removal" of postmasters.

He said the committee has received information indicating that postal jobs have been sold to the highest bidder. He accused the Eisenhower administration of using Hitler-like tactics to oust postmasters for political reasons.

Promising a sweeping inquiry, Johnston said in a statement that "some hearings in the local communities will be held and on-the-spot investigations are now in progress."

No date was set for the start of hearings, but a committee aide said in Johnston's absence that they might begin in a month or so.

Pennsylvania Included

Johnston referred specifically to Michigan, Texas, California, Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and North Carolina in charging illegal and political removal of postmasters.

He said the committee "has information indicating that the jobs of postmasters and postal employes in Texas and several in some other states have been sold to the highest bidder."

"There also is much evidence indicating that the sale of rural mail carrier jobs in many areas are being used as a device to replenish the coffers of the local Republican committees," he added.

In his 11 years in the Senate, Johnston said, he never had known "the morale of postmasters and postal employes to be so low." He said this naturally has caused "a very serious decrease" in their efficiency.

All Parties In Dispute Confer Today

Action Put Off By Tobyhanna, Barrett Twps.

SWIFTWATER — Six districts announced last night that their boards have approved a proposed Pocono Mountains Jointure.

Delegates to a temporary steering committee for jointure also heard two other districts say that their boards have taken no action as yet on the proposed combination for school purposes.

Districts in which boards have approved the jointure are: Coolbaugh, Mount Pocono, Jackson, Pocono, Paradise and Tunkhannock. Barrett and Tobyhanna representatives said their boards met to consider the jointure this month but took no final action.

Tentative articles of agreement have been drawn up for establishment of the jointure. It is these articles which the six districts have given approval.

Barrett's objection to the proposed articles centers on the matter of equal representation. Members of this board have maintained that their district should have more voice on the joint school committee than ofhers in the jointure.

The Old "Site" Problem

The second objection — voiced tentatively by Tobyhanna's board —dea's with the problem of selecting a site for the proposed joint high school.

Neither of the problems is new. Both have dogged school district combinations previously while setting up their joint articles. In the current case, however, directors have forseen minor differences of opinion and have inserted a clause to facilitate selection of a site.

This is Article 12. It says: "A period of six months shall be a'lowed the member districts for the selection of a site for construction of a new high school building. If after six months have passed and no selection has been made the Department of Public Instruction wi'l be requested to select a site from all the proposals submitted."

Tobyhanna asked the steering committee if it were possible to give some indication of the location of the school before the agreement was signed. Members of the committee noted that, until a jointure is actually in effect, there is little point in trying to resolve the site question.

Next Meeting

On motion of Anthony Bolyn, Paradise delegate, the committee set Thursday, Nov. 17 as the date for its next meeting. This date comes after the individual boards will have held their next monthly meetings—including Barrett and Tobyhanna.

This action followed an effort on the part of Harold Kresge, a Coolbaugh delegate, to set a "deadline" for decision on whether the districts intend to enter jointure. This motion first came to a tie vote—four to four.

The tie was broken by Harry J. Drennan, Barrett, temporary chairman of the steering committee. Drennan is empowered to vote in cases of ties.

The chairman opposed the motion on the grounds that Bolyn's proposal, previously made, would give boards an opportunity to make up their minds before the next meeting.

The Nov. 17 meeting will be held at Paradise school near Swiftwater, the site of last night's meeting.

Trainer Clawed By Circus Lion As 3,000 Watch

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—With 3,000 horrified circus-goers looking on, a lion clawed and seriously injured his Austrian trainer in a performance today.

Charles Elleneb, 43, chief trainer of Billy Smart's Circus was putting eight lions through their paces when one of the big cats—a male named Caesar—jumped from his pedestal and attacked. Another lion moved in, growling menacingly.

A hush fell over the big top as Walter Milde, Elleneb's German assistant, stepped into the caged ring and drove the lions off.

Caesar also attacked Elleneb about 12 months ago during a performance in Oldham, Lancashire. Although bleeding from face and arm injuries, the trainer was able that time to finish the act before going to the hospital.

Flood Hero Badly Hurt In Automobile Accident

A HERO OF THE recent flood was critically injured yesterday morning when his car crashed into a tree and burned after sideswiping another vehicle on Route 209, three miles west of Stroudsburg.

Ronald C. Holland, 23, of 72 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, was still in critical condition at General Hospital late last night with fractures of the skull, pelvis, hip and leg.

Holland had been credited with saving more than 70 persons from drowning during the height of the flood when he burned out a motor while making some 30 trips in his plywood skiff, ferrying stranded persons to higher ground.

Car Ahead Turning

SEtate police said the mishap occurred at 7:55 a. m. yesterday, about a half mile beyond the Shafer Schoolhouse, when a 1950 sedan, driven by William F. Hartranft, 39, Stroudsburg RD 3, began to make a left turn into a private driveway.

Holland, a real estate appraiser, was attempting to pass the other vehicle at the same time, according to Pfc. Evan R. Chaplin, who investigated the case. After sideswiping the Hartranft auto, Holland's car continued across the road and into a large tree.

Raymond Howell, Stroudsburg RD 2, a nearby resident, told state police he heard the crash and looked outside. Within that short space of time, he said, the car had begun to burn.

Ronald Holland

Chaplin said Howell and two other persons removed Holland from the wreckage. In the meantime, a couple of passing motorists played small fire extinguishers on the burning car, but to no avail.

The blaze was finally extinguished by the Stroud Township Fire Department and Holland was removed to General Hospital in an ambulance.

The other motorist was uninjured, state police said. About $200 damage was caused to his car, which was later able to drive away.

Didn't See Anyone

State police quoted Hartranft as saying he had turned on his left turn signal prior to the crash, and did not see anyone coming when he began to negotiate the turn into the driveway.

As a partial reward for his lifesaving efforts during the flood, Holland recently was presented with a new outboard motor to replace the one he burned out.

When asked about his rescue work, Holland told a reporter, "I didn't do anything special."

Legionnaires Vote Against U.N. Break

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP)—The American Legion today beat down a move calling for the United States to withdraw completely from the United Nations.

Then the legionnaires, winding up their annual convention, elected J. Addington (Add) Wagner, 41, Battle Creek, Mich., attorney, as national commander of their three-million-member organization. He is a wounded Navy veteran.

The legion yesterday called for abolishment of the United States National Commission for UNESCO but was unwilling to go along with an Illinois move today for a complete break with the U.N.

The legion's Americanism Commission has contended Communist sympathizers have infiltrated UNESCO—the U.N. Educational, Eientific and Cultural Organization.

The legion, on its final convention day, also:

Called on the United States government to refuse to give any material aid to India. The legion said India, in the guise of a neutral, aided Communist Russia.

Defeated a resolution that would have asked the government to pay $100-a-month pensions to all World War I veterans when they become 60 years old. The average age of World War I veterans now is 61 plus.

Ike In Happy Mood On Eve Of 65th Birthday Anniversary

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower recovered sufficiently for the Denver White House to announce he will confer here Monday with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In a "happy mood" on the eve of his 65th birthday, he was well enough, too, to sip a cup of coffee and wave to fellow patients from an 8th floor hospital sundeck.

And Mrs. Eisenhower left the hospital for the first time since the President's heart attack, Sept. 24, spending an hour and a half visiting her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, and taking a drive in the sunshine.

The decision to see Wilson and Radford, for a talk on defense and security, was announced by White House news secretary James C. Hagerty after a long distance telephone talk with Sherman Adams, the President's chief deputy, who was in Washington for tomorrow's Cabinet meeting.

Humphrey Visit

Wilson's visit will follow a conference the President will have Saturday with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The 5:30 p.m. MST medical bulletin, said the President "had a quiet restful afternoon" reading and listening to music. He had steak, hominy grits, asparagus tips, beets, fruit salad, whole wheat muffins, strawberry jello and a glass of buttermilk for lunch. His condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

Reds To Speed Arms To Arabs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Russia is expected to move quickly in getting arms to Egypt, possibly at cut-rate prices, and thereby hastening Middle East tensions toward a crisis.

An explosion of the Palestine truce into Arab-Israeli war was seen as a definite possibility whenever Red Czechoslovakia starts delivery on its cannon-for-cotton deal with Egypt.

American officials made no bones today about their fear of the results of the Soviet's military and economic trade incursions into the area. Nor did they play down apprehension over what Israel might do as a counter to Arab purchases of Red arms.

The National Security Council, top policy-making body in the U. S. government, took up the question at its secret session today.

Vice President Nixon presided in the absence of President Eisenhower.

Leader Puts Taxes Ahead Of School Aid

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—Gov. Leader said today state aid to schools—one of the most torrid issues now confronting the 1955 Legislature—should be held up until a tax agreement is reached.

At the same time, he placed industrial development and mental health ahead of further teacher salary boosts in any sharing of additional tax money.

"We can't appropriate tremendous amounts of money, such as is involved in education which is the single biggest bite of the budget, until we have gotten some agreement on taxes to pay for it," he told his weekly news conference.

Differs With House

But his statement ran counter with plans by the Democratic-controlled House to:

1. Approve quickly 535 million dollars for state aid to schools for the two-year fiscal period starting last June 1. Of that figure, 100 millions is due to school districts in October and November.

2. Accept a Senate bipartisan plan appropriating 31 millions to give teachers a pay boost of $150 for each of the next two years in addition to $200 a year they will get automatically under existing laws.

3. Restore five million dollars which Senate Republicans cut from a plan to continue to pay bonuses for school district jointures, mergers and consolidations.

The House also received a brand new version of a Democratic proposal for 7 per cent state tax on the amount Pennsylvanians pay in deral income tax returns.

Due Dec. 15

The levy, sponsored by Speaker H. G. Andrews (D—Cambria), is estimated to yield 350 million dollars over a 20-month period. The first tax payments would be due Dec. 15 on the basis of an estimate of one-fourth of a taxpayer's income in 1955.

After that, the state tax would be paid at the same time the federal return is due—April 15.

The December 15 gimmick was inserted in the measure, explained Rep. Albert S. Readinger, House Democratic floor leader, to provide a positive legal basis for a quick appeal to the state Supreme Court.

This type of tax-on-tax has been attacked as unconstitutional and Democrats don't want to be in the position of finding the state in a worse financial hole should the high courts throw it out after weeks of litigation.

Leader Uncertain

The governor, when asked by newsmen, said he is viewing the levy with "mixed emotions" although he made it plain it wasn't his idea. Asked whether he would sign it, Leader replied:

"Frankly, I would have to give a lot of study to it."

Big Airlines To Purchase Jet Transports

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—The age of jet air transport was brought a big step nearer today as Pan American World Airways announced 269 million dollars in contracts to buy jet transports.

The contracts, the first by an American airline, were made with Douglas Aircraft Co., Boeing Airplane Co. and United Aircraft Corp.'s Pratt & Whitney Division whose engines will be used.

Of 45 aircraft ordered, 25 will come from Douglas and 20 from Boeing. Douglas has 160 million dollars worth of the orders and Boeing 109 million.

Both aircraft have a contract cruising speed of 575 miles an hour at 30,000 feet and will bring most major cities of the free world within 12 hours of the United States.

While some other airlines have stated their intentions of buying jet transports, Pan American was the first to sign a formal contract and the contract was by far the biggest of any jet transport plans announced thus far.

Falls From Bus

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—An incomplete pass resulted in a 13-year-old boy taking a tumble from a bus and ending up in a hospital. James Boggs leaned from the window of a moving bus to catch a football tossed at him by a friend on the street. He missed. He also leaned out too far.

Real Settlement Impossible Without Unselfish Approach

(An Editorial)

LABOR DISPUTES—even when they're between two unions—have a way of building up pressures at the slightest provocation. That's exactly what's happening in the jurisdictional dispute affecting the Coates Board & Carton Co.

These pressures serve no good purpose for any of the parties involved. They will serve no good purpose in the meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. today when Building Trades Council, Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers, Coates and contractors representatives meet with a citizens committee to discuss the dispute.

The occurrences, some of them we think petty in nature, which have developed in a single day after Coates furloughed 70 workers, 15 of them flood victims, because of the jurisdictional dispute over who shall do rehabilitation work at the plant, must be left outside this meeting.

Number One consideration must be for 15 flood-hit families out of work, 55 other families who already have lost because the flood hit their place of work, the loss of $8,000 payroll and the possibility, a firm already tired of trouble, may toss in the sponge.

The solution here, as we indicated yesterday, is everybody's responsibility. It can be solved if the approach is unselfish, without rancor and on a humanitarian basis. A settlement, we are confident, will bring nothing but gratitude from this community to every party at interest.

Flood Victims Encouraged To Purchase Own Homes; Davlin Endorses Authority

FLOOD VICTIMS LAST NIGHT were encouraged to take advantage of existing opportunities and become home-owners.

Many of them turned out to a courthouse meeting where they heard it was now possible for them to obtain a free site on which to build and up to a $7,000 mortgage without any down-payment.

"Every person who can possibly do so should try to work out a program of home-ownership," said Rev. Roger C. Stimson, pastor of Stroudsburg Methodist Church, who presided at the session.

"I find that people who own their own homes have a higher ideal in life," he said. "This is the greatest opportunity you'll ever have."

Request Certification

Earlier in the day, Stimson traveled to Harrisburg with Harold A. Swenson, executive secretary, Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, to request State certification of a Monroe County Housing Authority.

The clergyman returned with a letter from Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin which noted that the State is "strongly in sympathy with the needs of the community and feels that the formation of this authority is a step in the right direction."

Mr. Stimson said he would present the letter to county commissioners at their meeting next Monday.

"If the board sets up an authority," said the clergyman, "we have a good chance to get some of the 45,000 Federal housing units which the Government has approved for this year."

Yetter Calls For Probe Of Health Dept.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—A Democratic lawmaker today cited "apparent irregularities" in the state Health Department and asked for an immediate report to the Legislature.

Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr. (D—Monroe) submitted a resolution calling for the report and said "there appears to be no definite program on the subject of polio, its prevention and treatment."

The resolution also states that "it is apparent that state laws governing the filling of vacancies in the department is being ignored" and that "apparently the department has not been run economically."

Yetter asked the House to have the Health Department answer questions on the three topics before Dec. 1 in a report to the House Public Health and Sanitation Committee.

Health department officials declined immediate comment pending a study of the resolution which was referred to the Rules Committee.

McCarthy Blasts Harvard President At Red Hearing

BOSTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy, quiet-voiced through most of two days as a federal court witness, broke out late today in a slashing attack on Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey.

His voice rising as he sat in the witness chair, the Wisconsin Republican vigorously asserted:

"I have no respect for a man who will harbor Fifth Amendment Communists . . . I think a man who does this should not be a college president. Pusey should be exposed. An educational institution which harbors Communists should be exposed."

McCarthy, a witness against Leon J. Kamin, former Harvard research aid who is charged with contempt of Congress, continued that his first contact with Pusey came in 1952 "during my campaign and I've had no particular love for the man since."

Pusey, then president of Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., had opposed McCarthy in his successful try for reelection.

U. N. Requested To Seat Poland

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The Soviet Union declared today attempts by the United States to keep Communist Poland from winning a seat on the U. N. Security Council are damaging the spirit of Geneva and putting a stumbling block in the path of international cooperation.

Committee Strives For Settlement

FORMER - SENATOR Montgomery F. Crowe, president of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce yesterday created a special committee to discuss and seek avenues of settlement in the jurisdictional dispute involving who shall do maintenance work at the Coates Board & Carton Co. at Minisink Hills. The group meets at 2 p. m. today in Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Outstanding element of encouragement was the unhesitating pledge yesterday morning before the committee was created from all parties involved that they would sit down and "talk it over."

Chester Wilson, president of Coates, made the pledge along with Ray L. Derhammer, representing the Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers (AF. of L) Union.

Paul To Attend

Later Ralph Paul, who represents the Plumbers and Steamfitters in the Building Trades Council here, said he wou'd be present. Paul, ill for the past two days, said: "I'll be there if I'm able to stand on two feet."

Paul said he would notify Earl Krocker, Easton, representative of the electricians in the Building Trades Council and ask him to be present.

These two A. F. of L. unions of the Building Trades Council are demanding jurisdiction over the rehabilitation work in their fields at the Coates plant.

Crowe said his committee will consists of Herbert Stoner, East Stroudsburg borough coordinator and industrial engineer; Frank S. LaBar, LeRoy Mikels, Clifford Cramer.

The Chamber president said he would also contact Paul Edinger, contractor who has a $70,000 contract to do carpentry and masonary work at the plant. Edinger and his men are A. F. of L.

Normal Work

These men left the job when the other two Building Trades unions protested they should have the remainder of the rehabilitation work and put a picket on the job.

The Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill workers claim they have the right to do the rehabilitation work invo'ving steamfitting, plumbing and electrical work under their contract with the Coates firm. Mr. Derhammer said it is normal work under such contracts for maintenance crews in all paper mills.

When Edinger's men left the job, the Coates firm decided to furlough 70 employes with an $8,000 weekly payroll and including 15 flood hit workers, until the jurisdictional dispute is settled.

Said Mr. Wilson yesterday:

"This is purely a jurisdictional dispute and we're not involved."

Notifies International

Mr. Paul said he had called his plumber's union international headquarters and filed a protest against Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers for claiming work which belongs to his group in the Building Trades Council. He said Mr. Krocker acted similarly in beha'f of the electrical workers.

Paul indicated that by moving to international union level, a decision on rights can be obtained more swiftly. The international headquarters of Pulp, Sulphite & Paper Mill Workers will be advised, Paul said.

The discussion at the international level, Paul indicated, could produce a ruling in short time and thereby prevent paper mill workers now on furlough from being out of work an extended period of time.

House Group Cuts Fund For Resorts

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee tonight approved the expenditure of $100,000 to boost Pennsylvania as a vacation land.

The bill, sent to the floor, does not specify where the advertising would be done.

It is sponsored by Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr. (D-Monroe), who represents the Pocono Mountain area of northeastern Pennsylvania, one of the state's top resort sections.

Yetter's original proposal suggested the appropriation be $900,000 but that sum was sharply reduced by the committee.

MUSIC FOR A GOOD CAUSE tonight at Bartonsville Hotel will be provided by a special band made up of members of Local 577, American Federation of Musicians. The local is contributing services of the band without charge to play for the "Flood Relief Dance" sponsored by Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg firemen. The band swings, plays good music for dancing — all varieties — a spokesman said. Public is urged to attend. Members of band shown here are (back row), Lowell Fellman, David Lantz and John Altieri; (front) Rod Stanard, Albert Koster, Fred Whitman, Duane Walck. Man on drums is leader Robert Hartman; at piano, Robert Neyhart, as pianist Roger Acker looks on. (Staff Photo By Randolph)

Car, Truck Collide On W. Main St.

AN ESTIMATED $100 damage was caused to a convertible which was in collision with a truck on W. Main St. shortly after 10:15 yesterday morning.

Stroudsburg Police Chief James McConnell identified the operators involved as Richard Walters, 29, Hillcrest Farms, RD 3, Stroudsburg, and Henry J. Rode, 40, 22 N. Third St., a driver for the John R. Lesoine trucking company.

McConnell quoted Walters as saying that he was driving east on W. Main St. when the truck, which he was following, pulled over the white line.

Thinking that Rode was going to make a left turn, McConnell said, Walters started to pass on the right, when the truck suddenly pulled back over the line, damaging the left side of the auto.

The truck driver told police he had his right turn signal on and had pulled left so that he could make a better right hand turn into a driveway. About $25 damage was caused to the truck.

Husband Indicted In Wife's Slaying

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 13 (AP)—Francis Horr, formerly of Oswego, N. Y., is in jail here awaiting trial Oct. 24 on a first degree murder indictment in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Rosemary Davis Hunter, Youngstown waitress.

Mrs. Hunter, 28, was slain by a shot from a deer rifle last May 3 in the bar where she worked.

Police said Horr threw the rifle on the bar when he was denied a drink and the gun discharged. The bullet hit Mrs. Hunter in the chest.

Outline Of Cancer Society's County-Wide Operation Given

A FULL-SCALE SERVICE organization extending to every borough and township of Monroe County was outlined Wednesday night by the local unit of the American Cancer Society.

The plan was one of the highlights of a regular meeting of the unit held at the YMCA with Dr. Joseph Viglione, president, in charge.

Viglione was making his first official appearance as president of the board. In his introductory address, he pointed out that workers for the Cancer Society are a "representative cross-section of all of Monroe County."

"Our concern with cancer is the cause, the cure and the socio-economic aspects of the disease," the president said. "We are a part of one million volunteers in the U. S. and Canada."

"The society's main purpose is to conquer cancer," he continued. "Until cancer is brought under control by medical and surgical means, the job of the local unit is threefold. It includes education, service and the provision of funds to help the national organization to finance research."

Funds Retained

Viglione pointed out that 60 per cent of all funds collected in the annual Cancer Crusade here stays within Monroe County for use in this area. Of the remaining funds 25 per cent goes for national research, 12 per cent is used for medical grants and fellowships and 12 per cent is contributed to the nationwide programs of the National Cancer Society.

The president then introduced the officers of the unit and major committee chairmen. Those introduced were: Joseph McCluskey, vice president; John Watt, treasurer; Mrs. James Cummings, county captain; Mrs. Mae Baggott, secretary; Alfred Munson and Dr. Evan C. Reese, educational committee; Mrs. John Regan Jr., publicity; Mrs. Elizabeth Eshbach, service chairman and Chester Miller, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Cummings delivered a detailed report on the proposed outline for establishment of community "commanders" to work with the board and the county captain.

The principal idea behind setting up community organizations to work within the overall county unit, Mrs. Cummings said, is to bring about "decentralization" of effort. Establishment of sub-units in townships and boroughs will make it possible for each area to have its own organization and provide its own services with the assistance of the county unit.

Report On Training

Each community commander will select a service chairman and a worker to handle education and campaign matters, Mrs. Cummings said. These persons will, in turn, work closely with the county executive board, she said.

Mrs. Cummings reported on the training program for county captains held two months ago by State headquarters. She noted that Monroe County schools were praised highly at the conference on training for "their exceptional job in making cancer education available."

This year, the captain said, the local society unit will concentrate a part of its efforts on bringing cancer education to industry and other areas of employment in Monroe County.

The board also announced that, later this year through its project committee, headed by McCluskey, the Cancer Society unit will present a piece of equipment to Monroe County General Hospital for use in fighting cancer.

The goal of the Cancer Society locally is to "save life and ease pain", Viglione said. To do this, the unit provides nursing care, medication, sedatives and bandages for cancer victims.

Local members of the society were reminded of the State cancer conference. The meeting will be held Oct. 28, 29 and 30 at Pocono Manor Inn.

Flood Victims Encouraged To Purchase Own Homes; Davlin Endorses Authority

Emphasis of last night's meeting, however, was not on rental units—but rather on home construction while the Federal Government has relaxed its demands in disaster areas.

But there were no rosy promises made. And, in fact, a few persons walked out after representatives of the Federal agencies represented outlined their restrictions and demands.

The greatest hope appeared to come from John J. Doyle of the Philadelphia office of the Federal Housing Authority, and Malcolm M. MacFarlane, executive secretary, Region 3 Committee, Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program.

However MacFarlane was quick to point out that he didn't want to raise anyone's hopes too greatly, and frankly admitted there were problems to be faced.

Stoner Denies Rumor

J. H. Stoner, East Stroudsburg flood rehabilitation coordinator, also appeared at the session to inform flood victims of the 30-acre tract donated by a public-spirited property owner for home development by persons affected by the flood.

Scotching rumors that the lots would only be given to East Stroudsburg residents and persons planning to build homes in the $25,000 bracket, Stoner said applications will be accepted from any Monroe County flood victim regardless of his race, creed or color.

Stoner indicated that the 55 to 60 available lots will be distributed on a "first come-first served" basis. He therefore urged prospective home owners to apply for a lot at the borough secretary's office.

He disclosed that it will cost between $15,000 and $16,000 to provide street enough to release 43 lots. Money for such purposes is being sought from local service clubs and about half the amount has already come in.

He said a building control committee will be set up to insure against anyone obtaining a lot for speculation purposes, and to see that all homes are of "a reasonable size and neat and clean."

No Restrictions

However, Stoner stressed there are no restrictions on the value of the housing units.

The group heard next from Mr. Doyle who noted that the FHA can insure loans of up to $7,000 for the full amount, and over a 30-year period.

This would mean that the total monthly payment—which includes principal, interest, taxes and insurance—would come to about $47.83 for a $7,000 30-year loan, Doyle said. The mortgagee should have a net income of at least $160 monthly.

The FHA can insure up to 95 per cent of any mortgage up to $9,000 and up to 75 per cent of any amount in excess of that figure, Doyle said.

A $9,000 home would require the mortgagee to have a net income of at least $240 a month and the ability to pay an estimated $60.54 each month for 30 years, he reported.

Doyle also disclosed the possibility of his agency guaranteeing up to 85 percent of the cost of construction for a housing development undertaken by a responsible builder.

Concern Expressed

This would mean the FHA would sign commitments up to 85 percent so the builder could get construction money from a local lending institution, he said.

Concern was evident over the fact, however, that local banks could not handle any large number of mortgage applications.

However, Mr. MacFarlane disclosed that the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program, which he represents, was established to help make mortgage money available for loans insured by the FHA and the VA.

"The program," he explained, "acts as a clearinghouse, endeavoring to bring together eligible borrowers and willing lenders."

Those is attendance also heard from R. P. Yomer of the Small Business Administration, who noted that his agency can offer loans to both businesses and home owners to restore their properties to their pre-flood status.

SBA loans, however, would not be available to persons who rented up until the disaster, he said.

Red Cross Represented

Dan Bachman and John Hopkins represented the American Red Cross and reported that the organization's job in Monroe County is just about complete.

Bachman said the Red Cross received 930 applications for assistance and has completed work on 923 of them.

He noted that the Red Cross offered grants—not loans—to persons without adequate income, resources and credit.

Leader Puts Taxes Ahead Of School Aid

since Senate Republicans rejected his classified income tax last July, said the lawmakers must "finally face up to the facts" on school appropriations.

"In the month of October we have long since passed the point to temporize," he declared.

The governor made that statement when asked if he would be willing to slice the huge educational bill to 100 million dollars so that school districts can get immediate financial relief.

Other Priorities

Leader, in making his position clear that he thought teachers were underpaid, said:

"I think in any increase in state programs that industrial development and mental health have top priority. I think next then is teachers' salaries."

The governor said he wouldn't want "to sacrifice" his proposed 25 million dollar industrial program and 40 million dollar plan for mental health expansion to boost teachers' pay.

"I would like to do both if there are sufficient taxes," he said.

The governor said he hoped conferences will be resumed soon on a tax compromise but disclosed he has had a report from Sen. Joseph E. Barr, Democratic state chairman, the Senate Republicans won't go along with any tax program until after the Nov. 8 municipal election.

The birds were dispatched home at intervals to let the Waterman family know that the six-man party was safe and well, but encountered no elk.

Entertainment To Highlight Benefit Dance

TONIGHT AT Bartonsville Hotel firemen and musicians are sponsoring a "flood relief" dance and show.

Proceeds from the entertainment will go toward relief of flood victims in Monroe County. The band and the entertainers at tonight's show are being donated by Local 577, American Federation of Musicians Union which serves Bangor and Stroudsburg areas.

Firemen from both boroughs are sponsoring the event. Included on the roster of entertainers will be the following stars:

Jill Whitney, Coral recording star who is a native of Bangor; The Collegians, a group now nationally known which had its origins in Hazleton; John Laurenz, a Jubilee record star who has appeared in movies and on radio as the Cisco Kid and The Rhythmettes, RCA recording stars who have appeared with Arthur Godfrey.

Music for dancing will be served up from the beginning of the festivities right straight through to the end, a spokesman said. All residents of the area are invited to attend "and have a good time for a good cause", union and fire company officials said last night.

State Would Claim Half Of Monies

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—Local municipalities would have to surrender to the state half the money collected in truck overloading and auto speeding fines under a bill that moved speedily through the House tonight on a second try.

The 50-50 split would apply to three sections of the motor code taking in overloading, maximum speed limitations and special permits for vehicles of excessive size and weight.

A 126-58 vote, without debate, sent the bipartisan sponsored proposal supported by the administration to the Senate. On Sept. 27, when the bill was first considered, it failed to gain approval. At that time the vote was 97-84 or nine shy of the 106 necessary to pass a bill.

No estimate of the amount of money involved is available but House leaders have described it as "enormous."

For Roads, Bridges

Money received by the state would go directly into the motor license fund which can be spent only on road and bridge work. State officials have long contended that the fines should be shared since the Commonwealth bears the major share of maintaining roads upon which the violations occur and also because the state police are responsible for a great number of the arrests which result in fines.

In the only debate before the first vote Rep. Edwin N. Tompkins (R-Cameron) called the bill unconstitutional because it doesn't exclude Philadelphia.

Some lawmakers contend the 50-50 arrangement, if enacted finally, would tend to eliminate so-called speed and gyp traps established by local communities to enlarge their treasuries.

TC Yearbook Wins Honors

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers College and two area high schools won high honors in the 21st annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association's yearbook contest yesterday in New York.

The college yearbook—"The Stroud"—won a first place certificate in the "offset" printing category for colleges. Adviser to the yearbook staff is Dr. Ruth B. Kistler. Michael Soltys was editor of the yearbook for 1954-55, the year entered in the competition.

Other winners, in high school division, included Pen Argyl High School, medalist in the offset field for junior-senior high schools and Roseto's Pius X School, medalist for offset printed yearbook in the senior high field.

The Columbia Scholastic Press Association is organized to recognize and honor outstanding student efforts in the field of publication each year on both high school and college levels.

Army Engineers Seek Bids On Dredging Project

THE ARMY Engineers have invited bids for maintenance dredging in the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J. According to Col. Allen F. Clark Jr., district engineer, bids will be opened Oct. 19.

The site of the work is located in the Delaware River channel and extends from a line on Delair Range about one-half mile upstream from the Delair Railroad bridge to a line on Perriwig Range about one mile downstream from the Marine Terminal, Trenton, N. J. The total distance involved is about 25.5 miles.

It is estimated that approximately 1,145,000 cubic yards of material will have to be removed to restore the channel to a depth of 25 feet between Philadelphia and the upper end of Newbold Range opposite the U. S. Steel Co. plant and from that point a depth of 15 feet to Trenton, N. J., with a width of 300 feet.

The work is scheduled for completion in about six months.

Luther League Plans Party

AT THE WELL attended meeting of the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran Church on Wednesday night plans were completed for the annual Halloween party to be held in the Wyckoff Recreation Hall on Friday night, Oct. 28.

Committees were appointed and indications are that it will be the largest social affair that the league has ever sponsored. It was decided to have a number of the Teachers College freshmen as guests at the party. The committee charged with the distribution of the Lutheran Church Year Calendars reports that only a few calendars are left.

Mrs. Delores Decker, adviser of the youth group, led in the discussion of the topic: "Stewardship of Time, talents and money." Two new members were elected into the group at the business session. At the close of the meeting refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served.

North Carolina State College experts estimate it would cost 42 cents today to buy almost any other foods that would give the same nourishment as a quart of milk.

The committee, already consisting of three members from the House was set up under a resolution calling for a study of the operation, administration, financial policies and laws of the commission.

Group Tours UN Building In New York

A GROUP of 27 adults from Monroe County toured the United Nations yesterday.

The trip was arranged by Miss Lillian Stark, social studies and history teacher at Stroud Union High School. Those making the trip came from Mount Pocono (about one third of the total number), Stroudsburg, Tobyhanna and Delaware Water Gap.

Leaving Stroudsburg at 7 a.m. the group arrived in New York about two hours later, spent the entire day at the UN. The county residents spent about 45 minutes at a "briefing session" and took a one-hour guided tour of the UN building.

They "sat in" during a session of the Security Council and attended a committee meeting on trusteeships. After having dinner in the delegates' dining room, the group returned home. They arrived back in Stroudsburg at 9 p.m., according to Miss Stark.

If all the iron ore, coal and limestone consumed by the steel industry in one year were placed in railroad cars and coupled together, the vast train would be 38,228 miles long.

Pennsylvania To Broaden Salk Program

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Department of Health said today that regulations governing the distribution of Salk anti-polio vaccine will be eased in Pennsylvania to permit a broadening of priority groups.

Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, secretary of health, said the department's action is in compliance with a recommendation of the national advisory committee for polio vaccine.

Under the new regulations, it will mean that all children from birth through 14 will become immediately eligible to receive the vaccine. Previously only children 5 through 9 could receive the vaccine.

The department said pregnant women will also be included in the new priority group.

Dr. Mattison said the extension of the priority age group was based on the increased production of Salk vaccine by commercial drug manufacturers.

Stroudsburg, Stroud Planning Commissions Of Major Importance To Regional Development

The need for a sound "follow-through" on the Aug. 18-19 flood becomes more evident each day. It is recognizable, the subject of discussion and great interest on the part of many citizens in the flood areas.

The normal day-to-day process of municipal government, we believe, are being competently carried out, but, that is not enough, if the Stroudsburgs, Stroud Township and vicinity are to achieve the greater municipal area with all the attendent benefits, which many citizens now recognize is possible.

The answer then, is a regional planning operation with Stroudsburg and Stroud Township operating through their own Planning Commissions to collaborate with a commission already functioning in East Stroudsburg.

Existence of a Planning Commission does not by any stretch of imagination mean any outlay of municipal funds. That outlay would come only for retention of a planning consultant. That may come later, but there's nothing mandatory about having a consultant now.

In fact, without a Planning Commission, there can be no planning consultant hired. And even after such a Commission is named by Stroudsburg and Stroud Township, both of these municipalities may well find their existing engineers and consulting engineers, can serve as consultants.

There are so many functions of an immediate nature, and so many long-range matters on which a regional planning commission can function, that it is almost self-evident that both Stroudsburg and Stroud Township should create commissions.

These conmmissions would function on planning within their own municipal spheres in the first instance. The delegates they appoint to the regional commission would provide the means for exchange of constructive ideas on functions of a regional nature.

We see in the immediate picture the need for collaboration on flood control on the Brodheads and Pocono Creeks; the possibility of regional development of sanitary sewers, and the regional development of a sound water system which must be projected many years hence.

These three basic fields of regional planning are waiting now for joint planning by the three municipalities. They, most certainly, will lead to many others such as parks, zoning in flood areas to permit proper, long-lasting flood control installations.

Stroudsburg Council has unanimously passed a motion to have an ordinance drawn for adoption setting up a Planning Commission. Stroud Township should do the same.

Stroudsburg council has nothing to lose, no expendtiture to make and a great deal to gain by setting up a Planning Commission. The issue of a Planning Consultant is not of import in creating a commission now.

The issue of a Planning Commission to plan on a regional basis in collaboration with other communities is of utmost importance.

Sordoni's Attack On Enforcement Of Traffic Laws Comes With Poor Taste

Andrew J. Sordoni, former secretary of commerce in our state, put on his badge as president of the American Automobile Association at its recent convention and had this to say:

"The spirit of the 'crackdown' is abroad in the land today. Helicopters hover overhead, unmarked police cars and cops not in uniform lie in wait; over a thousand radar and other speed detection devices line our major highways; fee-splitting constables and justices of the peace make small communities potential traffic traps."

As president of the association that has done much over the years to foster safer driving, it is of more than passing moment that Mr. Sordoni now finds it reprehensible that authorities should be cracking down to reduce law violations.

For it it only the violators against whom the crackdown is aimed. It is designed to curb the driver whose carelessness, recklessness and plain lack of common sense contributed to last years' 36,000 traffic deaths in this country.

Mr. Sordoni should know—and we believe he does—that motorists who obey the law and who is most of them, don't have anything to fear from helicopters, unmarked police cars, cops in plain clothes, or, for that matter, any manner of law enforcement official bent on carrying out his duty.

Those who are caught, are caught because they are flouting the law. They are not trapped by anything but their own arrogance or ignorance, and neither is excusable.

What Mr. Sordoni could have done, with far better grace, would have been to lead applause.

Question Of Running Younger Man For Presidency May Fade Before Convention

The doctors' report that the President is not likely to be in the White House until January 1, gives witness to a country that goes about its business, in both governmental and private activities, without disturbances. Despite President Eisenhower's unusual personal popularity and the distress at his misfortune, the constitutional system of government survives. We have plenty of officials to do the business of the nation and they have not yet stepped on each other's toes nor have there been such displays of temper or temperament as are usually attributed to opera singers but are much more to be noted in politicians, particularly those whose aspirations for office give them a penchant for the expansion of the ego.

There has naturally been some jealousy of Vice President Nixon's pre-eminence but that was settled by the 1952 Convention of the Republican Party and cannot be diminished or increased now because of President Eisenhower's illness. The Vice President will take over should the President or his doctors decide against finishing out his term. No one can prevent Nixon from being President in such circumstances except by a revolution against the Constitution, which would not have a ghost of a chance. Once Congress is in session, some names now bobbing up on the Republican side will disappear in a flood of ridicule from the Republican side.

So far as the Democrats are concerned, they have, as would be expected, avoided taking advantage of the President's illness, except for a few professionals who talk too much lest no one know that they are alive. The top men of the Party have followed the American tradition of withholding a blow or a kick when the opponent is stricken.

The Democrats, like the Republicans, are going through preliminary motions to find not only a candidate for the Presidency, but a probable President. As long as Eisenhower was likely to be the Republican candidate, the Democrats were willing to run a man who would make a good campaign, hold the party together, but who would not be elected because he could not be. Now that it is to be an open campaign, the Democrats hope to win and therefore their attitude toward the candidacy has changed.

Adlai Stevenson's stock has moved downward because it is not believed that a man once defeated can be elected. Only Grover Cleveland broke that precedent which the various nominations of William Jennings Bryan confirmed.

On the Republican side, Thomas E. Dewey will suffer because he has twice been defeated. On the other hand, the supposition of some White House politicos that they can so maneuver the New York situation that Jacob Javits can be made to replace Dewey as the state leader only displays their ignorance of the New York situation. Tom Dewey is not a person over whose personality even his friends grow excessively laudatory. However, in a contest for power between Dewey and Javits, Dewey will win hands down because there is a continuing suspicion that Javits has not yet got over a juvenile Left-Wingism which is no longer the fashion in New York State. So it must be taken for granted in any calculation that Dewey will control the New York delegation and that he will be a candidate in the event of a tied convention.

The Democratic candidates now to the fore evoke little enthusiasm among the rank and file of the Party and therefore new names will appear. Among them is likely to be Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio and several who are now being spoken of as candidates for the Vice Presidency. Of the currently discussed candidates, Averell Harriman is regarded most favorably because of his vast experience during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

The documentation of Harriman's position on Russia during those Administrations will probably show that time has upheld his judgment which will do him no harm as a candidate. The only objection to him that goes the rounds is that he is approximately Eisenhower's age and that the country will respond to the President's illness by wanting a younger man in that office. Few younger men have had the experience or have developed the maturity or the significance in the eyes of the public. This is a moot question at present and may not have much importance next Summer when the Conventions are gathered in Chicago and San Francisco.

Dear Sir:

Former President Truman has joined the Advisory Council of the Atlantic Union Committee, as reported in that organization's monthly publication. In so doing, Mr. Truman joins a bi-partisan group of Americans headed by General George C. Marshall, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and our own Representative Francis E. Walter in sponsoring a congressional resolution proposing that delegates from the United States and other NATO democracies meet in a convention "to explore and report to what extent their people might further unite within the framework of the United Nations, and agree to form, federally or otherwise, a defense, economic, and political union".

Coming at a time when Communist efforts are bent upon a weakening of western unity and singleness of purpose, this prudent proposal which commits us only to exploration—deserves support.

Sincerely,

Hypnotism Should Make Good World-Wide Weapon

Someday we may be sorry we waged this cold war with such impeccable sportsmanship against adversaries who never heard of the Marquis of Queensbury and are glad of it.

We are playing in a league where they pay off on the final score and don't even keep track of the number of first downs you roll up.

I don't say the end justifies all means, but the end we have in mind in this case is certainly worth the benefit of all doubts. And we have already been pressured into some means that don't exactly square with our traditional principles.

Besides, we have made clear our intention to use some pretty horrible weapons if it comes to a showdown — H-bombs, to-whom-it-may-concern missiles and the like. Undoubtedly we have gas and bacterial weapons that could be used if an enemy forced us to it.

So why are we so squeamish about resorting to relatively humane and innocuous methods like, say hypnotism?

You read these pieces in the digest magazines about how hypnotism is more than just entertaining hokum. Many reputable physisians recognize it as a sound and legitimate technique in certain types of medical cases, we are told. Properly used by competent practitioners, they say, it can produce some almost miraculous results.

If this is so, why limit its use so largely to making asses of volunteer stooges before theater and after-dinner audiences? Why wouldn't it be a handy tool in international diplomacy?

Most of us have seen hypnotists put accommodating people into trances and plant suggestions that make the subjects' elbows itch three days later. This serves no useful purpose whatever.

But what if we were to include one of these professional spellbinders on our team the next time we get into a diplomatic staring match with some of those Red Chinese "negotiators?"

While the two parties were sitting there at the conference table spinning their wheels and getting nowhere, this fellow could be giving the head man of the other crowd the works. A hypnotically planted time-fuse suggestion might induce that functionary to go back to China and ship all the American hostages home on the first boat.

One good journeyman Svengali swinging his watchfob in front of Krushchev's eyes at a "summit" powwow might get more heartening action out of the Kremlin than 10 volumes of Dulles speeches.

So maybe using hypnotism for such purposes wouldn't be altogether cricket. If it got results the Chinese or Russians could always sue us later.

And if it didn't work, what would we be out except a little high-voltage willpower from some vaudeville performer who has it to burn?

The method would kill no innocent women or children and I say there's no harm in trying it. Why wait for the Commies to spring it on us first?

Taylor Blasts Cuts In Army Strength, Funds

Washington — General Maxwell Taylor, the Army's new Chief of Staff, is unexpectedly jolting his Pentagon bosses.

The noted paratrooper and battle commander is vigorously balking at cuts in Army strength and funds.

Ridgway failed to get a second term because of adamantly opposing such reductions. If Taylor was expected to agree to them, he is militantly refusing to do that. Not only is he resisting in inner Pentagon councils, but he proposes to wage his fight on a larger stage than Ridgway did.

Taylor is going to take the issue of further Army reductions directly to the public in a series of speeches.

The first of them is in Boston this week.

Others so far scheduled are in New Orleans and New York next week, the latter at a memorial dinner for Alfred E. Smith; at Fort Benning, Ga., in November, and in New York again on December 7.

Defense Secretary Charles Wilson is much concerned by the determined stand of the Army's new Chief of Staff. It comes on the heels of a similar disconcerting challenge from Navy Secretary Charles Thomas. The Texan was so aroused by a secret proposal that $500,000,000 of Navy funds be "frozen", that he hotly threatened to resign.

Thomas bluntly told Wilson, "As long as I am Secretary of the Navy, I will not accept such a cutback. I will resign before I do that. The Navy simply cannot stand such a reduction and meet its commitments throughout the world."

General Taylor's determined opposition is causing so much uneasiness that he was asked to tone down a speech.

Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary Carl Honaman, in charge of public relations, was sent to Taylor with that request. The latter agreed to make some changes in text, but not in his views. He stood pat in arguing against new Army cuts.

Note: Another unannounced Pentagon slash is $85,000,000 from the National Guard's budget. This is approximately one-fourth of the $308,000,000 Congress voted for the Guard for the current fiscal year. Secretary Wilson ordered the money be impounded to assist in balancing the budget by next July 1.

What He Says — General Taylor has two chief arguments in insisting it is essential to maintain the Army's present strength:

(1) The Army must be prepared at all times for any type of warfare; (2) war in the future will not necessarily be atomic and of short and cataclysmic duration; it may be fought with other weapons and may last years.

On the first point, Taylor's views can be summarized as follows:

"Military planning must take into account the increasing reluctance of people all over the world to embark on atomic war. It is imperative that the utmost attention be given to developing and maintaining an army capable of fighting all types of warfare, particularly in the defense of the weak members of the free-nation community. They are in constant danger of subversion from within and aggression from without, and it is essential for them and for us to be constantly ready to protect and help them."

Against the widely-held contention that future warfare will be limited to atomic weapons, Taylor argues:

"I rate this one-type war concept as not necessarily the most likely in the future, particularly as atomic destructive capabilities grow greater and more terrible all the time. To me, it seems increasingly improbable that an aggressor would intentionally embark on the gamble of an atomic world war. Some nation may attempt local acts of aggression to which our massive atomic retaliatory power may not apply.

"That's why it is vital that we always have ready for instant use an instrument which does not require mass destruction to obtain its end. Our military planning is compelled to take into account, if it is to be based on sound doctrine, the increasing reluctance of peace-loving people everywhere to embark on general atomic war."

Significantly, these views are strikingly similar to those expressed by General Ridgway in his farewell letter last June to Secretary Wilson. As Ridgway did, Taylor warns the Iron Curtain empire may be better able to withstand atomic warfare.

"Communist forces are so deployed," Taylor points out, "that even if their homelands are devasted, the impact on their armed forces probably would not be felt for a considerable time. If, during that time, Communist forces are occupying the friendly or potentially friendly countries, ultimate victory would be of comparative little consequence to the free world. This bleak possibility makes it abundantly clear why it is so vital that the enemy's ground forces be defeated as close to the Communist periphery as it is possible to do so.

"The U. S. must, therefore, develop its own armed strength, along with that of our allies, so that we can defeat the enemy's initial aggressive moves, including his aggressive advances on the ground. Such strategy requires the participation of an army with versatility and effective size to cope with any form of aggression."

Note: As Secretary Wilson sees it, he has two kinds of problems. The Defense chief described them in a private talk to a group of businessmen as follows: "I sometimes define our problems as falling into two categories; the really serious and worthwhile things such as military planning, missiles, new types of planes, warning systems, and how we divide the money; and then we have what I call the tremendous trifles. We usually have one or two of these blow-ups every day and they take quite a bit of time in one way or another. They usually involve people, and that's the reason the public is so interested in these problems, because a great many people can imagine these things might happen to them."

Accident Deaths Decrease

—by H. G. Heller

A couple of traffic statisticians have run across a rather strange phenomenon while idling with a calculator and a copy of last year's Accident Facts

The statisticians represent the Pennsylvania and New York highway safety departments. In a sense they've vindicated each other's findings. Here's what they discovered and the inferences they draw:

The fact is that while accidents in Pensylvania have nearly doubled in number since 1946, deaths in those accidents have actually decreased. We have no wish to hit you in the face with long columns of statistics here — but we think we can show you our meaning by asking you to consider just a few figures.

In 1946, there were 69,968 accidents reported in Pennsylvania. In these, 1794 persons were killed. Last year (1954), there were 130,326 accidents, and 1538 deaths. Percentage-wise in 1946, the deaths amounted to 2.56% of the accidents. Through the years to 1954, that figure declined regularly each year until last year it stood at 1.18%. Incidentally, partial figures for this year seem to indicate that the figure will continue to decline for 1955. From January to May, there were 605 deaths in 56,747 accidents—a percentage of 1.06.

Why is this happening? We don't know. We're willing to hazard a guess, though. Cars are getting safer, roads are improving, and perhaps—just perhaps—people are harkening to the call of all those who have urged them to slow down and live.

While it is all too true that the death rate is still tragically high, and we have little to really crow about, it is nevertheless also true that in the light of the huge number of cars on the road, things could be a lot worse. Perhaps the fact that they are not is a good indication that all this talk about safety is catching on. At least, that's one interpretation.

There's another possibility, though. Maybe people are driving less carefully—maybe they are getting into more accidents and are just being lucky in not being killed in them quite so often.

Whatever the reasons, we welcome any development which gives us the opportunity to look at some reasonably optimistic statistics for a change.

Mike Todd flew to the coast right after "Oklahoma" opened at the Rivoli featuring his new process Todd-AO, a circum-sized Cinema-Scope. Todd was miserable over the poor print. (The only print! With nearly fifty million bux at stake!) He was also upset because many of the press got balcony pews and some reviewers (such as the Wall Street Journal's) got only one seat—couldn't bring the wife or friend. Mr. Todd wants them all to know it wasn't his fault. So he flew back rather than face them. "Oklahoma," 3 hours long, has too many arid spots. The stars are Gordon MacRae and Rodgers & Hammerstein.

"Calm down," we counsel'd Mike in the foyer, "the notices were all fine, weren't they?"

Court Upholds Conviction Of Puerto Ricans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Four Puerto Rican fanatics who received long prison terms for a wild pistol attack on the House of Representatives, had a fair trial, the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled today.

"Their guilt was clear, and their convictions must stand," the court said in unanimously rejecting the terrorists' appeal.

Five House members were wounded in the March 1, 1954 shooting, but all recovered.

The appellate court said the Puerto Ricans, led by fiery little Lolita Lebron, were "indigent strangers unable to speak our language," but were "ably represented by capable, conscientious counsel" appointed by the court.

Five Charges

The jury convicted her on five charges of assault with a dangerous weapon, but acquitted her on five charges of assault with intent to kill. She received a sentence of 16 years and 8 months to 50 years. The men—Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero, and Irving Flores Rodriquez — were convicted on all ten counts and got sentences of 25 to 75 years.

The Puerto Ricans are serving their sentences in different federal prisons. Miranda is in Alcatraz.

Montgomery Unrealistic But Right

By J. M. Roberts

Associated Press News Analyst

Field Marshal Montgomery, suggesting merger of the Free World's air forces under one command, is in the position of being unrealistic while still being right.

Air forces are so pertinent to a nation's defense that surrender of direct control would seriously undercut national sovereignty and might endanger security.

This applies not only to tactical air power which may be strictly defensive, to which Montgomery was not referring, but to strategic forces which were his principal consideration. For one of the chief uses of strategic force is to slow down and interfere with attacks which the defensive foreces must stop.

Would Handicap U. S.

Even the commanding nation, which Montgomery recognized should be the United States because of her superior strategic air strength, would be handicapped on defense by its obligations to its Allies. If attacked, alone, such a nation would have to consider such obligations along with the need for immediate retaliation, whereas the United States is now prepared, on her own, with constantly alerted forces, to launch strategic—that means atomic — attacks without considering even momentarily anything except stopping the attacker.

This point can be emphasized by reference to the different situations affecting American strategic bombers located in England and those located at home. Those located at home could move, would move, immediately. As for those in Britain, a decision would have to be made whether their use would be worth the attack on that country which it would bring on. Such decisions would involve other governments as well as any joint military command such as the United States now heads in NATO.

The same considerations and the same unreality apply to Montgomery's suggestion for complete unification of air, naval and land forces of the Free World alliance.

Unified Force Powerful

Unified forces, even a unified strategic air force, undoubtedly would be more powerful and a greater deterrent to war w greater deterrent to war than what has been able to work it out even for its own forces. The United States tried, but had to compromise with a joint superstructure of civilian control through a joint chiefs of staff organization, without actual merger of the services through officers trained, as Montgomery suggests, for joint command.

These are practical drawbacks, not criticisms of Montgomery for the suggestions. He was obviously speaking of something that his NATO superior, General Gruenther, and the British government, for which he works, consider an ideal, else he would not have spoken.

Gruenther himself, only the day before, had suggested that the air forces assigned to NATO should be unified, instead of standing behind individual frontiers awaiting a call. Defense Secretary Wilson said at least a mutual air warning system should be developed.

Wilson, commenting on the Montgomery suggestions, said the marshal was "overstating it in order to make progress" in coordination.

C-C Contends Depressions Can Be Avoided

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States today published a pamphlet report which concludes that serious depressions can be avoided "unless we take complete leave of our wits."

"If we have the courage to avoid excessive booms and the wit to use what we know," the report says, "there is reason to believe that future instability can be kept within fairly tolerable limits."

This prospect, the chamber says, is based on increased understanding of the business cycle, new methods of stabilization available to both business and government, and increasing recognition that something can be done to avoid serious setbacks.

The report is the result of a one-year study by the chamber's Committee on Economic Policy, headed by Harry A. Bullis, board chairman of General Mills, Inc.

Farview Aides Disagree On Recent Escapes

SCRANTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Supt. John Shovlin said today the recent wave of escapes at the Farview State Hospital for the Criminal Insane merely reflect a normal fall trend. His assistant at the same time said new state policy in such institutions was "making us lax."

And a newspaper editorial sharply criticized State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro for refusing to release for publication pictures of two "dangerous" inmates still at large after the escape of six Farview patients Oct. 4.

Dr. Shovlin said the recent outbreak of escapes at Farview can not be considered an "epidemic." An increase in escape attempts is normal toward the end of each summer, he said.

During the past three months, 23 patients have escaped from Farview. All but Paul Cook, 34, Beaver Falls, and Richard Williams, Johnstown, have been recaptured.

Three Mass Breaks

"The so-called 23 escapes that the newspapers have been talking about really are only three mass breaks," said Dr. Shovlin.

A study of hospital records shows, he added, that attempted escapes and attacks on guards grow more frequent in the months of September and October.

Dr. Asa L. Hickok, 79, assistant superintendent at Farview, said "We've been compelled to be lax. It's like letting down the bars."

The physician made his comments in response to questions about the recent disorders at Farview.

Previous Practice

Asked whether he thought cell doors should be locked in the hospital's maximum security ward at night to prevent "ganging up" of patients on guards, he said "that has always been the practice."

Secretary Shapiro recently issued orders forbidding the locking of cell doors on the grounds that such action constituted "inhumane restraint." Shapiro ruled that solitary confinement was to be utilized only when absolutely necessary and then on a temporary basis.

The Scranton Times today published an editorial criticizing Shapiro for his refusal to release pictures of Cook and Williams.

Power Policy Details Asked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Democrats on a House investigating group demanded today that the White House divulge details of several executive conferences on public power policy in Georgia, a lively political issue.

Rep. Chudoff (D-Pa) said the group he heads has evidence that the Interior Department "has made every attempt to evade" a Justice Department ruling that Georgia's rural electric cooperatives have first call on federal power produced at the Clark Hill Dam on the Savannah River.

Chudoff dispatched a telegram to Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide, calling for information on the number of power policy meetings held at the White House, when they were held and who was there.

Opinions Differ

Democratic members of his House Government Operations subcommittee have expressed indignation over an Interior Department plan, now shelved, to sell the dam's output to the Georgia Power Co., a private utility, for resale to some 17 co-ops.

Republican members, however, are crying "politics," and they voiced immediate protests against bringing the White House into the investigation.

Rep. Dawson (D-Ill), chairman of the full Government Operations Committee, backed Chudoff and said the hearings already had shown "that there's a studied purpose to keep these co-ops from getting the power they are entitled to."

Asst. Secretary of the Interior Fred G. Aandahl disclosed that the conferences had been held in testimony before the subcommittee yesterday.

But Aandahl refused to furnish any details. "Any information on a conference at the White House should come from the White House," he said.

Chudoff said he thinks there has been "violation of the statutes" which give cooperatives and other public agencies preference for federal power.

Nickel Diverted To Industry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Office of Defense Mobilization today ordered another six million pounds of nickel diverted to industry to relieve a persistent shortage.

The action brought to 21,750,000 pounds the total of nickel channeled to commercial works this year —approximately 10 per cent of the country's annual supply.

Bank Clearings Noted

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Total Bank clearings in the week ended Oct. 12 amounted to $17,641,783,000 compared with $22,196,120,000 the week before, Dun & Bradstreet Inc. reported today. Clearings in the same week last year totaled $16,421,497,000.

California Democrats Back Adlai

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP)—A group of California Democrats, claiming support throughout the state, today urged Adlai Stevenson to become a candidate for president and to enter next June's presidential primary in California.

The group, headed by Atty. Gen. Edmund (Pat) Brown, titular head of the party in California, claimed support of four of California's five top party officials.

Joining Brown in the move were Paul Ziffren, Democratic national committeeman of Los Angeles; Roger Kent, of San Francisco, Northern chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder, of Los Angeles, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Mrs. Clara Shirpser, of Berkeley, national committeewoman, said the move was premature and refused to join in it. Kent said she had expressed loyalty to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee who won the California Democratic presidential primary in 1952.

Kent said the Stevenson-for-president movement in California had "nothing at all" to do with the arrival here last night of Carmine G. DeSapio, Tammany Hall leader and cheerleader for Gov. Averell Harriman, of New York.

Kent said: "We have known for many weeks that Mr. DeSapio was coming here at this time." He explained that the action was triggered Monday by reports that former President Truman was modifying his support for Stevenson.

"This is not anti-Harriman; this is not anti-Kefauver," Kent said.

"This is strictly pro-Stevenson."

Asked about DeSapio's statement last night that October of 1955 was too early a date to pick a candidate for the 1956 convention, Kent said:

"That may be true but I am sure that Mr. DeSapio has already picked his candidate."

Gov. Knight Not Convinced Nixon Can Win

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 (AP)—Republican Gov. Goodwin Knight of California was quoted as saying today he opposed Vice President Nixon as a possible presidential candidate because, "I just don't think Dick can win."

Knight, in an interview with a Mirror-News correspondent, said also that he doesn't believe that Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) can win either. Knowland has been mentioned along with Nixon as a GOP presidential prospect in case President Eisenhower doesn't run for re-election next year.

"I was in five losing battles (for Republican tickets during the Roosevelt-Truman administrations) and I don't want to be in another," the governor was quoted.

Claims No Animosity

Knight, in a story bylined by the paper's political editor, Richard C. Bergholz said that there was no animosity in his attitude and added that he worked hard for Nixon during the latter's 1950 fight for U. S. senator. Nixon was elected.

"I hope he won't think I'm knifing him across the country," Knight said. "But, I suppose he will." Nixon is a Californian.

The governor reiterated that he plans to lead the potent 70-vote California delegation to the GOP national convention in San Francisco next August as a nominal "favorite son," even if it means an all-out fight with Nixon.

And if President Eisenhower intercedes in behalf of Nixon?

"If the President asks me, I'll tell him just what I'm telling you," the governor declared. "I'll tell him that he may like the boy, but we just can't elect him.'

Girl Showered With Cards On Eve Of Brain Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP)—The mailman and switchboard operator at Children's Hospital are working under pressure these days but they don't mind one bit.

The reason for their extra effort is Marjorie Lee Elder, 12, of Lewistown, Pa., who is scheduled for a delicate brain operation tomorrow.

When the pretty, dark-haired child arrived here last Monday, one of her greatest worries was that she wouldn't receive any postal cards while she was away from home.

1,000 Cards Received

The story of her concern and desire for cards was spread by the newspapers, radio stations and wire services.

Today, the hospital reported more than 1,000 cards have been received and a Boston station sent word even more than that number were on their way from the Boston area.

Marjorie was particularly concerned about not hearing from her many friends in the Lewistown area, where well-wishers banded together to help finance her long fight back to good health.

Since she was six, Marjorie has suffered from intense headaches. As she grew older the attacks grew to the extent that they brought on partial blindness and paralysis.

It is hoped that the surgery to be performed tomorrow will relieve her condition.

Former President Of Mexico Dies

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13 (AP)—Manuel Avila Camacho, 58, president of Mexico from 1940 to 1946, died today of a heart ailment at his ranch near the capital.

The wartime president only recently had left the Mexico City Heart Institute after treatment. He suffered a heart attack this morning and died an hour and 15 minutes later.

Impeachment Faces Judge Who Permitted Recording Of Jury Deliberations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Two investigating senators tonight made what looked like a move toward possible impeachment proceedings against U. S. District Judge Delmas Hill of Wichita, Kans., for permitting secret tape recordings to be made of jury deliberations.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) referred the case to the House Judiciary Committee for possible further action. It is that committee which looks into complaints against federal judges to determine whether impeachment proceedings are warranted.

The Senate subcommittee had heard testimony that Judge Hill let a University of Chicago research team listen in with a planted microphone to what went on in a jury room in his court. It was part of a broad study of the workings of the jury system.

Hill, a Democrat, has been on the federal bench since 1949.

Claim Jurisdiction

Eastland and Jenner, in referring to case to the House group, explained only that their own committee, being part of the Senate, "could not properly inquire into the official conduct of any federal judge."

They refused to elaborate, but two possible reasons were aparent:

1. They thought there might be some House action toward possible impeachment of Judge Hill.

2. They considered the House committee might act swiftly to make jury "bugging" a federal offense.

Any impeachment proceedings must originate in the House. Impeachment is the calling to account of a public official for alleged misconduct in office. The House votes on whether to impeach the accused, and the Senate sits in trial if an impeachment is voted. It could remove the official if it deemed him guilty.

Defends Jury Study

The two senators said they were transmitting to the House group "for its information" the transcript of hearings, which ended today, into the Wichita incidents.

Dean Edward H. Levi of the University of Chicago Law School said in a statement of his own that the hearings prove "our jury study has been carried on carefully under carefully established safeguards" and "has the approval of many outstanding lawyers, judges, and legal scholars in all parts of the country."

"Its purpose," Levi said, "is solely to improve the jury system."

In wind-up testimony today, Paul Kitch, a corporation lawyer from Wichita, identified himself as the sparkplug of the university's jury room "bugging" project. He praised it as a practical step toward building public confidence in the jury system.

Flick a switch and,
SUDDENLY, IT'S HOME!

No matter how short the winter sunshine hours, no matter how dreary the evening, your home becomes warm, cheery and bright through the magic of electric lighting . . . if your lighting is planned properly to do all those things.

For instance, a bare bulb gives off lots of light, but, reading, writing, or working by it would tire your eyes in a matter of minutes. Properly located and shaded this bulb becomes a source of comfort and pleasure.

The same is true of all lighting. Walk down any street. Which houses are the most inviting? The bright, cheery, well-lighted ones, of course. And such attractiveness is not expensive. By simply combining five elements you can bring to your home high levels of beauty, charm and see-ability. These elements are:

Adequate wiring to provide electrical outlets wherever desired;

Portable floor and table lamps, correctly designed and tastefully chosen;

Wall and ceiling fixtures specifically selected for the type and size of home;

Placement of all lighting elements to do specific jobs of illumination;

Lamp bulbs of proper size and type for the fixture or lamp. (and, remember, even a 100-watt bulb gives you three hours of see-ability for a penny).

Good lighting is an economical way to re-decorate your home, too. Properly set up it can serve to accent and high-light each room's features, giving it a brand new personality.

This winter, and all year through, let your lighting really serve you for greater home beauty and greater eye-comfort. Your electrical contractor or your lamp and fixture dealer will be glad to help you select the lighting plan best suited to your needs.

WHILE RUMORS PERSISTED in London that an official announcement will soon answer all questions concerning his romance with Princess Margaret, Group Captain Peter Townsend arrives at Lydd Airport, London. Ostensibly on a vacation, he evaded the questions of reporters concerning a possible marriage with the Princess, who incidentally came to London shortly after his arrival. Captain Townsend, now an air attache of the British government in Brussels said merely: "Sorry, I can't say anything."

Townsend Pays Visit To Royal Family

By Alvin Steinkoff

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Peter Townsend visited Princess Margaret's home an hour and 20 minutes tonight and left in a high good humor. His call at stately Clarence House strengthened belief that an announcement about their reported romance is imminent.

But Townsend was closemouthed, although smiling gaily, he cried "No! No! No!" to newsmen pressing him for a statement. Photographers, flash bulbs drew a bit of further comment:

"My goodness, I am being blinded," he said as he headed for his car.

Court officials were mum. No responsible official would say why Townsend called or what transpired during his visit. Even after he arrived at Clarence House, a press officer of the royal family said she could not confirm that he was there.

As far as is known, he and Margaret had not met in more than two years—since he was named British air attache in Brussels. Before then he was a royal equerry and they saw each other nearly every day for 10 years.

Townsend was given the post in the royal household as a reward for his World War II services. A Battle of Britain hero, the 40-year-old divorced father of two children is a Royal Air Force group captain, the equivalent of a colonel in the American Air Force.

Both the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth were at home when Townsend called. He drove up to Clarence House, on the treelined mall near Buckingham Palace, at 6:56 p.m.

He was alone in the car, dressed in an ordinary business suit. It appeared unlikely that he had been invited to dinner. Parking his car in the courtyard of St. James's Palace—across a side street from Clarence House—he walked to the door of Margaret's home.

Lights flashed on in several rooms of the big house as he stepped in. The Queen Mother, who shares the mansion with Elizabeth, arrived home from her vacation only an hour before Townsend called. She had flown to London from the Castle of Mey, on Scotland's remote north coast.

Outside the house, the usual three Scots Guards in scarlet tunics and bearskin hats marched patrol. Two policemen kept the crowd of newsmen and photographers moving up and down in the palace courtyard across the street.

When Townsend came out he climbed behind the wheel of his French car with an unidentified man at his side. He had trouble finding the ignition switch.

Wheeling the car out of the courtyard through the crowds of spectators, he narrowly missed hitting an automobile moving down the street. The two cars screeched to a stop only a foot apart. Then Townsend sped away in a rush.

Margaret had arrived at Clarence House only this morning from a vacation at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. She came back to London with a gay smile, but without a word on romance.

Townsend's visit came as 50 million Britons and a large part of the rest of the world itched with curiosity over whether he would wed the princess.

At 10 p.m., the switchboard operator at Buckingham Palace said he understood no court circular would be issued tonight. The circular is a handout outlining the activities of the royal family. The first palace statement about Margaret and Townsend could appear in it and newsmen had been tensely awaiting its release.

There was no explanation why one was not issued. Although the palace often skips a circular, one had been expected tonight, at least to report the return of the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

PRINCESS MARGARET of Britain, smiles to well-wishers at Aberdeen, Scotland as she left for London amid a flurry of rumors concerning whether or not she will marry Group Captain Peter Townsend, 40, a divorced commoner. The captain reached England on a "vacation" shortly before the arrival of the Princess.

Trip Marks Maders' 25th Anniversary

Swiftwater — Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mader, of Woodland Road, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on October 6. They enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls and other points, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Grant Nauman, same address, who will observe their 27th anniversary in November.

From Niagara, they went by the Queen Elizabeth Way to the Thousand Islands, through the Adirondack Mountains to Lake Placid and White Face Mountain, down through Cooperstown and over route 30 around the Downsville Dam.

The Maders were especially interested in the progress of the dam, this being their third visit there. Two years ago they saw work being done to clear the valley; last year they saw where the 25 mile tunnel goes through the mountain, and were told that filling was started. This year, all of the farms and other dwellings, except several near Margaretville, have been removed from the bridge near the center completed. Fed by a branch of the Delaware River, it will serve as a reservoir for supplying New York City, and is approximately 13 miles long. Upon inquiry they were told it would take about 48 more feet of water to completely fill the dam.

They saw the foliage in upper New York state at its peak of color, although there seemed to have been only slight frost damage to gardens.

Plan Bake Sale

THE
SHOPPER

The column today will be short and, we hope, sweet because there's actually only one thing on our minds at Wyckoff's this morning. It's the Identify the Voice contest which begins today on our Wyckoff Shopper radio program over WVPO at 9:45 to 10 o'clock.

During the program this morning, three of our Wyckoff salespeople will appear, reading their favorite nursery rhymes. An extra verse has been added which gives a clue to their identity or to the department in which they work. All three have been serving you for years . . . more years, perhaps, than Rip Van Winkle slumbered.

The contest will continue each morning through Thursday, October 20th, inclusive. This means there will be five broadcasts in all—today's, Monday's, Tuesday's, Wednesday's, and Thursday's . . . a total of fifteen voices to be identified.

To further simplify things, we're going to have each of the salespeople return to the mike at the close of each broadcast to ask the question you hear voiced by them most frequently: May I help you?

We don't expect that anyone will identify every voice . . . so if you don't recognize one now and then, don't feel you haven't a chance. Someone may be particularly expert and guess every one . . . which would be ideal. But if not the prizes will go to the persons who have the greatest number correct.

There will be a gift from The Wyckoff Shopper program for the first ten persons to enter today! There are prizes for the three contestants with the greatest number correct answers at the contest's close—These follow:

First—a $10 gift certificate
Second—a $7.50 gift certificate
Third—a $5.00 gift certificate

These may, of course, be spent in any Wyckoff or Sears department. Everyone is entitled to enter, except Wyckoff employees and their immediate families.

Here's all you do . . . listen to the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast at quarter of ten this morning. Have a paper and pencil handy so you can jot down clues as they are presented.

In order to qualify for the first ten gifts, CALL THE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT AT WYCKOFF'S, 400, immediately after the broadcast goes off the air at 10 o'clock. Simply give your name and address and say, "I'm going to enter the Identify the Voice contest." When the contest is completed, if you have actually entered you will receive your gift even though none of your guesses is correct. You will likewise receive any other prize you may have earned.

All entries should be submitted at the contest's close on Thursday, October 20th. They may be brought into the store and left at the cashier's cage, or mailed to Identify The Voice, c/o A. B. Wyckoff, Stroudsburg, Pa. Winners will be announced Saturday, October 22nd.

It should be fun. We hope you will enjoy it as much as we enjoy sponsoring it for you. And remember—to keep listening: not just to the radio but to the voices of Wyckoff-Sears selling personnel when they serve you.

Harriman Dinner Postponed By N. Y. Democrats

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—New York Democrats have postponed a $100-a-plate dinner which had been scheduled for Oct. 31. Political observers had expected Gov. Averell Harriman to indicate then whether he would be receptive to overtures for the party presidential nomination.

No new date was set for the gathering as State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast announced the postponement.

The only reason for the move cited by Prendergast was that National Chairman Paul Butler thought it ought to be held "later in the fall" to permit more time for completing arrangements.

Blair Plans Dedication Of Infirmary

ANOTHER chapter in the history of the 108-year-old Blair Academy will be written Saturday when the cornerstone of a new 20-bed infirmary will be laid. School officials, faculty, alumni, and students will take part in a brief ceremony scheduled for 11:50 a.m.

The building, the second to be erected since World War II, follows closely the dedication on May 10, 1952, of Memorial Hall, erected and dedicated in memory of the 73 alumni who gave their lives in the two World Wars.

Jay Duncan, of Holmdel, class of 1915, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, will give the address marking the initial stages of construction of the new functional unit for the school. He will be introduced by James M. Howard, headmaster of the academy. Dr. Richard Hunter, school chaplain will give the benediction. Duncan was the donor of the carillon for Memorial Hall.

Seal Box In Cornerstone

A copper box will be sealed in the cornerstone. In the box will be coins and copies of Blair publications.

The main part of the T-shaped building measures 100 by 40 feet and will contain 12 rooms, including sick rooms, doctor's office, x-ray and therapy rooms. The other section measuring 40 by 31 feet will contain eight isolation rooms.

On the second floor will be living quarters for nurses and housekeeper. Provision has been made to add to the building in the future if necessary.

The building is expected to be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of the year.

A large number of alumni are expected to be present for the ceremony as the day is also Alumni Leader's Day. Sports teams will play teams from Lawrenceville during the afternoon.

Stroudsburg Renews Long Rivalry With Bangor Foe

life of --- RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

JOE SHEA, former star tackle on the East Stroudsburg High football team, played 10 minutes at left tackle for Army against Michigan last Saturday. Indications are that Joe, who is currently wearing a special brace on his injured shoulder, will see a lot more action against Syracuse this Saturday. John "Juice" Arnst, opposite tackle to Shea in high school days, saw plenty of service for Penn State last Saturday against Virginia.

Karl Weingartner, former outstanding three-letter athlete at Stroudsburg High, started at quarterback for the Lafayete Freshman team against the Muhlenberg football squad yesterday. Gordon Strunk, coach of the Navy entry in the East Stroudsburg Midget Football League, has a story published in Argosy magazine this month and has another coming up in the Adventure magazine next month. The basketball team at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will feature new uniforms this season.

During a recent football game at Memorial Stadium, East Stroudsburg against Bangor to be exact, Coach Jack Kist was chased off the field by an official when the likeable mentor tried to visit an injured player. The official pointed out in no uncertain terms that the rule was in the book that no coach is allowed on the field in case of an injured player when a doctor is available. It was the first time in his coaching career that Jack was ever chased from the field.

It is this reporter's humble opinion that a coach who doesn't go on the field to inspect an injured member of his team shows a distinct weakness. But, even if officials are delegated to keep coaches off the field as mentioned above, I believe it time that the men in the striped shirts work up some sort of uniform policy on the subject. Last Saturday night the Lehighton coaching staff was all over the field on at least two occasions during disputes with officials.

The Lehighton coaches were never chased from the field and neither were the Minersville and Nazareth mentors last Saturday afternoon, even though the official in mention worked in a lesser capacity than referee in the Minersville-Nazareth contest. If the rule is in the book, I believe that all officials should interpret it in the same manner. If a coach is allowed on the field in one game, he certainly should be allowed on the playing area in the next contest, especially in the case of an injured player.

Returning to last Saturday's tussle between East Stroudsburg and Lehighton, I would like to say that I don't blame head coach Charley Gernerd a bit for running on the field in the third quarter to protest an occurance. Due to a mixup on the downs markers, East Stroudsburg was given five downs instead of four at one point early in the second half. P.S.—The Cavaliers still failed to make the required 10 yards to retain possession of the ball.

John Wellington, nephew of John Wellington, of the local Bell Telephone office, is a starting tackle on the Columbia University football squad this season. Les Slutter, who once played three sports at Stroudsburg High, is holding down a halfback position on the Second Infantry Division's Provisional Regiment football team at Fort Lewis, Wash. Les was a defensive back under Coach Jerry Stulgaitis at Stroudsburg.

Slutter, who worked for the Stroudsburg Typewriter Co. before entering the Army last winter, is also a typewriter repairman in the Army. Art Wall, Pocono Manor's touring golf pro, has earned $17,215 on the tournament trail this year. Johnny Addie, famous fight announcer, is currently vacationing at Mike and Helen Kurzdorfer's Mountain Rest hotel in Newfoundland. Mrs. Malinda Wernett, mother of John Wernett, secretary of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, will be 92 next Wednesday. She is currently spending some time with a daughter in Grantville, Pa.

Congratulations are certainly in order for Harry Oblitz, head golf pro at Shawnee Inn and Country Club. Harry was recently named "Pro of the Year" by the Philadelphia PGA. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy. He works hard and always has the best interests of golf in mind. Saturday, October 22, will be the biggest local football weekend of the season. ESSTC and West Chester clash on Normal Hill during the afternoon, while East Stroudsburg and Wilson Borough collide under the lights at Memorial Stadium the same night.

Arch Rivals Sport Identical Season Marks

STROUDSBURG and Bangor High Schools will clash in the 34th renewal of their football rivalry that dates back to 1922 tonight under the lights at Bangor's Memorial Park. The kickoff is slated to take place at 8 p. m.

Bangor will enter tonight's contest with a 17-11 edge in games won and lost, while five of the contests have resulted in deadlocks.

Stroudsburg last defeated Bangor in 1953, when Karl Weingartner, now a Lafayette student, paced the Mountaineers to a favorable nod.

The Mountaineers and Slaters will enter tonight's fray with identical records for the season of one victory and three setbacks.

Scores

Stroudsburg lost successive games to Lehighton, 13-6; Emmaus, 20-7, and Palmerton, 13-12, before breaking into the win column last Saturday night against Pen Argyl, 15-0.

Bangor pried the lid off the present campaign with a 27-0 verdict over Palmerton, but since that time has lost three successive outings. The Slaters fell before Catasauqua, 25-2; East Stroudsburg, 20-13, and Wilson Borough, 26-6.

Both clubs are determined to improve upon their season's record tonight.

Bob Phillips and Gary Guthrie will see service in the backfield, as will Ronnie Hallett. Guthrie suffered a gash over the eye in practice this week, but will be ready for tonight's contest.

Coach John Whitehead last night reported his Stroudsburg charges in good physical condition and revealed that spirit was high.

Changes

Coach Granville "Granny" Evans announced yesterday that his starting Bangor line would play both offense and defense in tonight's encounter.

The home town forward wall will consist of Sam Heard and Anthony Ruggerio at the ends; Charley Woolley and Jim Warrick, tackles; Bob Butz and Dick Marinelli, guards, and Don Evans, center.

"Jabby" Williams, quarterback, and Glen Heard, left halfback, are the only Bangor backs certain of a starting post tonight, Evans announced yesterday.

Either Jim Freeman, a converted quarterback, or Bob Finelli, slightly injured speedster, will get the call at right half, while either Dale Miller or Jack Stenlake receive the green light at fullback. Finelli is currently hampered by a bruised arm, but should be ready for duty by kickoff time.

On defense Bangor will have Freeman and Miller backing up the line, while Williams and Stenlake man the halfback posts and Heard handles the safety duties.

Kermit LaBar, veteran Bangor tackle, will be out of the lineup for at least five weeks because of a neck injury.

Featherman Rolls 298

KEN FEATHERMAN, a member of the Al Besecker's Diner entry in the Monroe County League, rolled a near-perfect 298 game at Harmon's Recreation last night.

Featherman rolled 11 straight strikes before he came in "high" with his 12th ball.

Two Stand

A split resulted in the 12th frame and the six and 10 pins refused to fall.

Al Besecker's Diner was rolling against Central Labor Union in last night's match.

Barton KOs American Foe

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Ron Barton, rising 22-year-old British light heavyweight, knocked out Austin Jones of New York tonight in 1:00 of the second round in their scheduled 10-round bout at Royal Albert Hall.

The unbeaten Briton weighed 175¾ and the American 174.

Pacific Coast Conference Club Seeks Football Revenge Today

By Rip Watson
The Associated Press

TONIGHTS THE NIGHT when the Pacific Coast Conference hopes to get a little revenge on the Big 10 for previous indignities in their Rose Bowl series. All that the coast adherents are asking is that Southern California knock off the nation's No. 6 team, Wisconsin.

The intersectional renewal of the 1953 Rose Bowl contest, plus Duke's visit to Ohio State and Baylor's journey to Washington, are just about the only important intersectional games on tap this weekend as the heavy-firing begins in the various conferences races.

Eighth

Ohio State's victory over virtually the same Southern California team last Jan. 1 was the eighth Big Ten victory in the nine games since the Rose Bowl tieup started back in 1947. But the Trojans' route to revenge tonight may be a rocky one, unless they can find more scoring punch than they showed last week in bowing to Washington.

Wisconsin coaches, of course, can be counted on to remind their athletes that the Badgers' loss to Southern Cal in 1953 is the only bad mark for the proud Big 10 in the intersectional bowl series.

Drake Favored Over Baldoni In Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—Ray Drake of Geneva is an 8-5 favorite today to defeat young Tony Baldoni of Wilkes Barre, Pa., in a 10-round middleweight fight here tomorrow night.

Drake, 25, has lost only 3 of 25 professional fights.

Baldoni, 23, has been out of the U. S. Marines for a year and has won three pro fights in that time. As a Marine, he had 35 fights and won every tile in his weight division.

Promising

Both fighters are promising middleweights who could jump into title contention.

Their fight (NBC, radio-TV, 10 p.m. EDT) will be the third of three 10-rounders on the card promoted jointly by Norm Rothschild's Arena Boxing Club and the International Boxing Club.

The others will pit Pat Manzi of Syracuse against Juan Tejeda, a Spanish import now fighting out of nearby Oneida, and Tommy Bain of Syracuse against Charley McGarrity of Brooklyn.

Only the Drake-Baldoni bout will be telecast and broadcast.

Major Leagues To Hold Draft

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 13 (AP)—The major league draft will be held here Monday, Nov. 28, and the minor league selections the next two days, President George M. Trautman of the minors said today.

The boss of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues said he expects more than 1,000 persons connected with the national sport to attend the five-day convention.

Tobyhanna Wins Three All-Star Berths

SCRANTON — Tobyhanna, playoff champion in the Pocono Mountains Baseball Asociation, and pennant winning Moscow, each placed three players on the circuit's annual All-Star team it was announced yesterday by Stanley A. Prokop, circuit president. Five of the six teams in the league were represented on the first team.

The all-star team has batting power and a staff of twirlers that can compare with the best. The defensive potential is a matter of conjecture and will, of course, have to be proven when the club gets into actual play against the Wayne County League All-Stars on Sunday at Stourbridge Field, Honesdale.

Long Rivalry

This scheduled contest for Sunday will be the 10th annual mountain classic between the two loop all-star congregations, which had its inception in 1926.

Stanley Prokop, Pocono leader and Joe Henshaw, president and Keith Sutton, secretary of the Wayne County loop, have decided that umpires from both loops will officiate at Sunday's game which is scheduled to start promptly at 2 p.m.

In naming the Pocono team for 1955 the managers showed greatest favor to the following members of the aggregation: Deo Heffernan, Gouldsboro; Dick Dunning, Tobyhanna; Jerry Stepinski, Moscow; Sam Curtis, Gouldsboro received solid support from six of the seven selectors.

Two of the closest contests for places on the first team were that of first base and catcher: Vincent Fischi, Daleville led Bob Carey, Moscow by one point while Ray Bell, Moscow just edged out Tom Burke of Tobyhanna by one point.

The contest for the outfield was very close with Al Caruth, Hamlin, Steve Ferke, Moscow and Mike Shimko, Tobyhanna, leading Al Schoch, Tom Williams and Ray Ornosky by slight margins.

The star selections as announced by Prokop follows:

First Team

The first team consists of Fischi, Daleville, first base; Heffernan, Gouldsboro, second base; Dick Dunning, Tobyhanna, third base; Al Konopka, Tobyhanna, shortstop; Bell, Moscow, catcher; Sam Curtis, Gouldsboro, and Jerry Stepinski, Moscow, pitchers; and Caruth, Hamlin, Ferke, Moscow, and Shimko, Tobyhanna, outfielders.

Placed on the second team were Carey, Moscow, first base; Ray Van Benscoten, Tobyhanna, second base; Al Leshinsky, Moscow, third base; Bob Payne, Moscow, shortstop; Burke, Tobyhanna, catcher; Ed Smith, Hamlin, and Bob Haines, Daleville, pitchers, and Schoch, Tobyhanna, Williams, Gouldsboro and Ornosky, Mount Cobb, outfielders.

The honorable mention list includes Donald Patterson, Hamlin; Clair Johnson, Daleville; Wayne Harris, Mount Cobb; John Ognosky, Mount Cobb; Paul Smith, Hamlin; Dick McLain, Moscow; Charley Deubler, Tobyhanna; Bob Stegline, Daleville; Mike Kronick, Gouldsboro; Jack Dunning, Tobyhanna; Howard Bird, Hamlin, and Jack Zeigler, Moscow.

All-Star selections were made by the following managers: Frank "Candy" Dailey, Tobyhanna; I. J. Stepinski, Moscow; Harry Sebring, Gouldsboro; Frank Kurdzeil, Daleville; Les Black, Hamlin; Pat Craven, Mount Cobb, and Prokop.

East Stroudsburg Junior High Opens Grid Season Against Hackettstown Rival Today

DOUG SCHOONOVER will make his Monroe County coaching bow today when his East Stroudsburg Junior High School football squad plays host to Hackettstown Junior High at Memorial Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 3:15 p. m.

The youthful Cavaliers have been working hard for the past number of weeks and at the present time have a four-game schedule, although a fifth contest may be added in the near future.

Schoonover, who was graduated from Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is being assisted this year by Les Dimmick and Bob "Booter" Miller.

Alex Sydelnik and Ed Cramer will also see action in the offensive and defensive backfield, while Earl Gardner replaces Treible as defensive left end. "Buddy" Uhl will back up the line on defense.

Sam Wins Grid Wager--But

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dan Sayad, 30, an accountant, will pay off that house-painting bet with his brother in San Francisco for the Chicago Bears' 20-19 loss to the 49ers Sunday.

But, brother Sam, himself a house-painter, must let Dan select the colors. Dan's choice: Black top, white bottom and orange window sills—the colors of the Chicago Bears.

Crimson Hose Release Joost, Sign Eight Young Hopefuls

BOSTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Boston Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin today announced the outright release of infielder Eddie Joost and the purchase of eight minor league players.

Joost, picked up as a free agent in the spring to aid the Red Sox' injury-riddled infield, was given his release after waivers had been received from the other American League teams. Joost, who managed the Athletics their last season in Philadelphia a year ago, saw only spot service as a pinchhitter and fill-in.

Contract

At the same time the Red Sox signed the contract of catcher Guy Morton to their Louisville farm club, Cronin said.

Five of the added players are from the Louisville club—righthanded pitcher Jerry Casale, shortstop Don Buddin and outfielders Marty Keough, Bob Jenkins and Gordon Windhorn.

The other three players included in the Red Sox purchase are from Greensboro of the Class B Carolina League. They are righthanded pitcher Joe Albanese, southpaw hurler Roy Tinney and catcher Jerry Zimmerman.

Injuries Hit Big Names In College Ranks

By Bob Hoobing
The Associated Press

OL' MAN injury, attacking football's national championship aspirants with impartial vigor, is dishing out more miseries than usual to headline players this season.

Michigan's Ron Kramer, Maryland's Tom Selep, Princeton's Royce Flippin, Army's Bob Kyasky and Doyle Traylor of Baylor head an imposing wounded list with the campaign only one third completed.

Kramer, the great end, suffered a chest injury in last week's game with Army and will miss the Northwestern contest. How soon after that he'll be back is not certain.

Before the season opened, Maryland's second ranked Terrapin learned that starting fullback Selep would not be available because of knee trouble. Since then, star end Bill Walker has missed a game because of a foot injury and tackle Al Wharton has come up with a damaged leg.

Notre Dame

At Notre Dame, where sophomores are carrying a heavy load, the most publicized of them all hasn't played yet. Newcomer Dick Wilkins, a fullback, has been out with a dislocated elbow and may make his debut against Michigan State. Guard Ray Lemek, only line regular left over from '54, has been able to see only spot service because of a brittle knee.

Kyasky, faster than Glenn Davis when healthy, according to Army coach Earl Blaik, suffered broken collarbones in his plebe and second years. In early September a knee gave way and after limited tests under battle conditions he trudged to the sidelines for the last time in '55.

Len Dawson, Purdue's slingshot passer who ranked third in the nation a year ago as a sophomore, suffered a painful jammed thumb in preseason practice. As a result, he came in only to convert against College of the Pacific and was held to 18 minutes playing time in the Minnesota game.

Traylor, perhaps the most heralded Texas schoolboy since Doak Walker, still is waiting to play his first game for Baylor. Hurt before the '54 season, he decided to save his eligibility for another year. The day before the Bears opened camp this fall, he got a fractured collarbone in a sandlot workout.

Princeton's talented tailback, Flippin, jammed his knee in a scrimmage. His playing time totals three plays—the time it took him to reinjure the joint against Columbia.

Unbeaten Yale lost its starting fullback and best linebacker for the duration in its first game.

TWO WEEKEND football games will highlight area action, with three of the four local clubs to play. Last week we broke even, winning two of four contests to bring the season's total to a very weak seven right and six wrong as far as local grid machines are concerned.

Bangor and Stroudsburg meet for the 34th time tonight. Both teams take a season's record of one victory and three defeats into the battle at Bangor.

The Slaters have speed to burn and a stronger offensive unit. But, Stroudsburg's brilliant second half play against Pen Argyl has sparked the Mountaineers.

If Stroudsburg can play an entire game against Bangor as they played against Pen Argyl in the second half, the Mountaineers will be in the thick of the battle right up to the final whistle.

On a hunch, we'll pick Stroudsburg, but the Mountaineers will have to play better than any time during the present campaign. They must continue, or even improve upon, their tackling as demonstrated against Pen Argyl.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will journey to Mansfield for a Pennsylvania State Teachers College Football Conference contest.

The Warriors are still smarting from a 26-7 lacing at the hands of Shippensburg last week. The pick here is the Warriors, but only after a close battle.

East Stroudsburg High enjoys an open date on the football schedule this week.

Baltimore Releases Lopat

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Eddie Lopat's major league pitching career which covered 12 years including five as a mainstay of pennant winning New York Yankee teams, appeared over today with his unconditional release by the Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles indicated no other major league was interested in him since he now can be bought from them for $1. They gave about $10,000 to the Yankees for him last July 30.

It was reported earlier this week that Lopat already had decided to go in the insurance business.

Losing Seasons

The chunky lefthander, known as the "junk man" because of his floating pitches, had only two losing seasons and one of them was the last in the American League.

He won 10 and lost 13 in his second year with the Chicago White Sox in 1945. The past season he won seven and lost 12 for the Yankees and Baltimore. He won his first game for Baltimore but was used only sparingly thereafter and wound up with a 3-4 mark for the Orioles and an earned run average of 4.22.

Lopat started playing organized baseball as a first baseman for State League in 1937. He turned Greensburg in the Pennsylvania pitcher in the same year.

In all, Lopat pitched in 340 major league games, winning 166 and losing 112.

Erdelatz Praises Welsh

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Navy football coach Eddie Erdelatz says George Welsh is "the best split-T quarterback in the nation." Welsh completed 47 of 95 passes last year and averaged 3.9 yards rushing.

AP Scribe Likes Duke Over State

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—"Blood battles" and intense intersectional rivalries put a monkey-wrench squeeze on the harried football prophet this weekend.

There seems little hope of bettering last week's score of 37-9 for .804, the season's best, or the season's mark of 135-39 for .776.

Notre Dame 28, Michigan State 21: Good upset possibilities here with the Spartans fired to a fever pitch. But the Fighting Irish, as proved against Miami, are too poised and too good.

Southern California 14, Wisconsin 7: The Trojans—big, strong and deep—avenge last January's Rose Bowl defeat by knocking off the No. 6 team in the country.

Duke 21, Ohio State 20: Maybe no more than a point difference in these two strong clubs. Ohio State slightly favored at home but Duke has the incentive.

Michigan 28, Northwestern 0: The Wolverines fight to hold their No. 1 position. The Army game proved them an undeniable power.

Texas Christian 21, Texas A&M 7: Jim Swink gives the home team momentum the title-hungry Aggies can't stop.

Navy 14, Penn State 0: The Midshipmen remain unscored-upon, while George Welsh gives them a pair of TDs.

West Virginia 40, William & Mary 0: Pappy Lewis even pulls jack rabbits out of his hat in Morgantown.

The others:

Friday: Vanderbilt 21, Chattanooga 6; Utah 20, Denver 13; Boston College 13, Detroit 7.

Saturday

EAST—Army 28, Syracuse 12; Harvard 19, Columbia 7; Dartmouth 24, Lafayette 0; Pennsylvania 20, George Washington 13; Pittsburgh 28, Nebraska 6; Princeton 14, Colgate 7; Yale 21, Cornell 7.

MIDWEST—Iowa 14, Purdue 7; Colorado 20, Kansas State 6; Missouri 14, Iowa State 6; Indiana 28, Villanova 14; Illinois 13, Minnesota 14, Cincinnati 13; Oklahoma 34, Kansas 0.

SOUTH—Kentucky 14, Mississippi State 0; Wake Forest 21, North Carolina State 7; Mississippi 20, Tulane 0; Georgia 20, Florida State 6; Maryland 34, North Carolina 6; Tennessee 7, Alabama 0; Georgia Tech 21, Auburn 14.

SOUTHWEST—Texas 21, Arkansas 13; Houston 28, Oklahoma A&M 14; Rice 20, SMU 14.

FAR WEST—UCLA 20, Stanford 6; Oregon 20, California 13; College of Pacific 13, Oregon State 7; Washington 20, Baylor 14.

Hutchinson Faces Task Of Teaching Cardinals Lesson He Failed To Learn While With Tigers

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Freddie Hutchinson, the new St. Louis manager, faces a difficult task in realigning the Cardinals' pitching staff. Particularly is this true in the matter of gopher balls—pitches that are belted for home runs.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press disclosed today that the Cards' inept pitching corps established a major league record last season by giving up 185 home runs. The old mark was 179 set by Cincinnati's pitchers in 1953.

Harvey Haddix, who yielded 27 homers, Tom Poholsky, with 26, and Larry Jackson, with 25, were the St. Louis gopher ball leaders. Every one of the 20 pitchers the Cards used, except Vic Raschi, allowed at least one homer. And Raschi worked only 1 2/3 innings before he was released.

Hutchinson can speak with authority on gophers. The former Detroit pitcher and manager still holds the American League record of 32 home run serves, a mark he established in 1948.

None of the gopher ball troubles experienced by the Cardinals' pitchers last season, however, compared with those of Robin Roberts, the ace righthander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

By allowing 41 homers, Roberts shattered the major league standard of 39 set by Murray Dickson with the Cards in 1948. Roberts, who also paced the National League in home run deliveries in 1954 with 35, partially can be excused for his performance in this category. He pitched 305 innings—the most in the majors.

Steve Gromek, Detroit's veteran righthander, topped the American League in gophers for the second straight campaign. He permitted 26 in 181 innings.

The Kansas City A's, baseball's newest members, also had the unenviable distinction of setting a gopher ball park. Their pitchers allowed 174 homers, topping the American League record of 154 set by Detroit's hurlers in 1953.

Czech Track Star May Quit In 1956

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — Triple Olympic champion Emil Zatopek hinted today that he will quit international track and field competition after the 1956 Olympics—but he left the door wide open for a change of heart.

The Czech, 34, relaxed at his London Hotel after his defeat last night over 10,000 meters and said: "As I feel at the moment it is quite likely that I shall not run again for my country after the 1956 Olympics."

Losing Teams Tops Offense

By The Associated Press

IT'S ONE of the oddities of the small college football competition this year that some of the finest statistical performances are being turned in by Hamline University, a team which hasn't won a game.

Although beaten in its first four starts, the St. Paul, Minn., institution has the nation's top offensive player among the smaller colleges, the best passer and receiver and the best team record for aerial accomplishments.

Freshman Jim Foley of Hamline is the passing leader with 59 completions in 111 attempts for 727 yards and three touchdowns. Although he has lost ground in 10 running plays, he has the total offense lead with 687 yards.

In losing to St. John's of Minnesota last week, Foley threw 62 passes and completed 33 with no interceptions.

Total

In all, Hamline threw 63 passes and completed 34 to tie the attempt record and set an all-time team completion record for one game. Loyola of California had completed 33 of 63 against Florida in 1951.

Foley's 62 passes were a record for a small college performer in a single game and his 33 completions equalled the collegiate one-game mark set by Don Klosterman of Loyola in the Florida game.

Foley's battery mate, end Dick Donlin, grabbed 18 of the passes to set an all-time college mark for one-game receptions. The previous high was 16 grabs by Oklahoma A&M's Alex Loyd against Kansas in 1949. With 27 catches for the year and 290 yards, Donlin is well ahead of Geneva's Bob Price (198 yards) and American International's Tom Rhychlec (174 yards) for aerial yardage.

Far Ahead

Hamline's 805 yards in the air in four games puts it far ahead of Oberlin (Ohio) with 362.

Mike Karas of Geneva is Foley's "closest" challenger in the passing division, but he has only 29 completions for 297 yards.

Gettysburg of Pennsylvania is the team offense leader with 414 yards per game.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Some friendly rays linger from yesterday but the day on the whole may be dull. You will have to get inspiration and stimulus from within yourself to achieve satisfactory results.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Your Venus' position stresses a need for caution in both family and business interests—but no harmful worry or fear. Chin up! We often gain more, are happier when we have to work harder for results.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury's fine aspect of yesterday leaves some good rays though they are not quite as stimulating. You may have to study more, think and plan harder to gain your objectives. Effort will win reward.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Unless new undertakings are imperative, try to finish things already started. But no task or proposition should be shunted aside just because it is difficult or a challenge. TRY.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Mildly friendly influences linger from yesterday but caution must be stressed lest you yield to restlessness or over-confidence about methods, procedure. Take your time with new, unfamiliar matters.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Similar indications now to Gemini and Leo. If possible, finish uncompleted tasks before starting new ones, unless the latter are imperative. Rest, too.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You are in the same boat with Taurus. How you manage, how you react to orders, new duties, etc. will greatly determine the harvest you reap at the end of the day. Try cheerfully.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars and Saturn are mildly favorable but it may not be an entirely easy day for big attainment or financial gains. It can be a productive, fairly profitable one, however, with YOUR help.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A slow and perhaps tricky period. Be watchful, keen and don't demand too much of yourself or others. Better finish up present tasks before starting new projects.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—A fairly promising day, although difficult tasks and activities will need your full attention, perhaps more study and care than usual. But don't worry; go ahead with faith and confidence.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your Uranus' position now warns of pointless shifting in plans or risking assets just for want of change. Heed this advice and you can have a satisfactory, pleasant day.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Strictly confidential matters should be handled carefully. Day can yield good returns through right procedure, sound management.

YOU BORN TODAY are amiable, fond of beauty and nature, innately just, fair, charitable and kind. You may have to guard against going to extremes. Control moods and curb a tendency to over-sensitiveness. You have a fine sense of values, are appreciative of the finer things in life and can accomplish a great deal in trade, industry, art, teaching, in anything you take up seriously as your life's work or as an avocation. Dwight Eisenhower Related To Daniel Boone; Common Ancestor Born In England In 1666

By John Koenig Jr.

HARRISBURG, Pa. Oct. 13 (AP)—Old Dan'l Boone, if he were alive today, would be right proud to know a kinsman of his now occupies the White House.

The fabled frontier scout and all members of the numerous Boone clan around the United States should have no qualms about calling President Dwight Eisenhower "cousin."

Genealogical records in the Pennsylvania State Library—and the Keystone State was the first home in America of both Eisenhowers and Boones—show the relationship.

Came To U. S. in 1717

Six generations back, on his mother's side, Ike had a common ancestor with Daniel Boone. That was George Boone III, born near Exeter, England, 1666, and who sailed for America in 1717.

George III settled with his seven sons and two daughters in what is now Berks County, but then a part of Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. One of the sons, Squire Boone— a proper name, and not a title—became the father of famed Daniel Boone and in 1750 moved southward to North Carolina. Daniel was then 16 years old.

Meanwhile one of Squire's sisters, Sarah Boone, had married a Swiss settler, named Jacob Stover, (also Stauber and Stowber), at Christ Church in Philadelphia and also settled in Berks County. Like her brother Squire, Sarah also had a son named Daniel—a first cousin of Daniel Boone.

Married Eisenhower

This Daniel Stover was the great grandfather of Ida Elizabeth Stover, who married David Jacob Eisenhower, at college in Kansas. David and Ida in 1890 became the parents of the future 34th President of the United States.

Ike's paternal origins are quite well-known. The founder of the family in America was Hans Nicol Eisenhower, who like the Boones entered through the colonial port of Philadelphia. He arrived from Rotterdam on the ship Europa in 1741.

Nicholas, as the founder later became known, settled with his sons in Bethel Township, in then Lancaster now Lebanon County. Here in this rugged frontier country just east of the mid-Pennsylvania Mountains—barrier to the west in those days—Nicholas' home was burned by the Indians in 1756.

President Ike has closed the circle in the wanderings of his family in the United States. His farm home at Gettysburg is approximately 60 miles from his direct ancestors' last previous home in Pennsylvania.

And the commonwealth itself preserves for posterity the boyhood home of Daniel Boone, near Reading, Pa. It's a large stone farmhouse built by Squire Boone, his father, and where the boy Daniel learned to hunt and shoot.

Children 1 To 11 Eligible For Shots

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Maryland health authorities today made all youngsters more than a year old and not yet 11 eligible for polio vaccine shots.

They said there is no need now to make pregnant women eligible for the shots, since the incidence of polio is expected to be only slight from now until next July 1.

Matteo Dave Remodels Store, Replaces Damaged Equipment

MATTEO DAVE, operator of a grocery, meat and green goods store on Main St., Stroudsburg since 1919, has reopened his store at 344 Main St., one of the business establishments hit hard by the Aug. 18-19 flood.

While yesterday was the first day of business at the completely remodeled establishment, Mr. Dave and his son, James, plan a grand opening celebration in about two weeks when all of the stock he has ordered is placed on display counters.

Mr. Dave has replaced damaged equipment, such as display cases and other facilities with completely new installations

The store room and all adjacent facilities have been thoroughly cleaned, sterilized, decorated and approved. Not the slightest evidence of the flood damage exists.

Once again, in addition to a full line of quality groceries, meats and green goods, Mr. Dave will carry a full line of fine Italian foods.

Commenting yesterday on his long career in the business, Mr. Dave was full of gratitude for many friends who joined with him and his family after the flood for a cleanup and for others who aided him in his plans to restore the business.

WALTER E. Schlough, Stroudsburg staff manager for the Prudential Insurance Co., will attend a field management advisory committee conference in the company's home office at Newark, N. J., on Oct. 19, 20 and 21.

A 20-man group which Mr. Schlough will join at Newark, reviews current practices and suggests and considers major changes affecting district agencies operations. Each committee member has an outstanding sales management record. Last year Mr. Schlough headed an agency group which was cited as the top sales unit in the entire East Penn region.

Mr. Schlough joined Prudential in 1927. He was advanced to a staff managership in 1932. He lives at Analomink Lake.

Major Donald R. Holmgren, manager of the Triangle Shoe Store in Stroudsburg, leaves today on a two-week tour of active duty with the U. S. Air Force. Major Holmgren will report to the New Castle County Airport, Wilmington, Del., for a familiarization course in cross country flying and the latest Air Force flying techniques. This two-week tour is a part of the specialized reserve training program of the Air Force which is active in the Monroe County area.

Art Singer, owner-operator of the Friendly Inn, 324 Main St., Stroudsburg has completed remodeling the establishment which was hit hard by the Aug. 18-19 flood.

The taproom-restaurant portions of the building exposed to flood waters has been thoroughly cleaned, sanitized and decorated. The Board of Health has inspected, approved and passed for operation the entire establishment, Mr. Singer said.

Mr. Singer has had a new floor and covering installed, booths and a great deal of new equipment for the service of both beverages and foods.

B. E. Weber of B. E. Weber's Garage, East Stroudsburg Studebaker dealer, attended a major Studebaker dealer meeting in New York at which 1800 dealers from the eastern division were given a confidential preview of the new line of Studebaker cars and trucks for 1956.

The new passenger car line seen by Mr. Weber is reported to be the only all-new automobile line in the low price field in 1956.

The new Studebakers are said to be the biggest, inside and outside, in the company's history, at the same time they offer dramatic new advances in mechanical and comfort features. It was also revealed that the new Studebakers, despite their new bigness and power, are designed to retain their position of leadership in fuel economy.

Public introduction of the new Studebaker cars and trucks in dealer showrooms across the country is scheduled for November.

Darwin (Bub) Learn, of Tannersville, has taken over operation of the Gulf Service station at the Bartonsville intersection.

Learn has had almost seven years experience in service station, garage and general auto repair and service work. He is a native of Tannersville.

The service station is modern and completely equipped to provide all types of road service to motorists and truckers.

Foodstains Top Cleaner's List

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Next time you spot your clothes, the odds are that it will be with gravy or something else off your plate.

More foodstains are removed in dry cleaning than anything else, the National Institute of Dry Cleaning reported today after a survey.

Bloodstains come next, followed closely by the drippings of coffee, tea and other drinks, paint stains and cosmetic smears.

Apply For License

HENRY ACE Jr., Bushkill, and Joan Marie Mitchler, Dingman's Ferry, yesterday applied for a marriage license in the prothonotary's office.

White Python

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Heard of white elephants? Peter Ryhiner, big game trapper, has a white python, with blue eyes yet. Rhyiner says he captured it in east Bengal last spring and it's the only white one ever discovered, despite references to white snakes in mythology.

National Nurse Week Spotlights Future Nurses Club Here

JUST BEGINNING — A Future Nurses Club has been organized this year in East Stroudsburg High School for the first time sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society. From left to right are Miss Charlotte Shupp, school nurse, who will be advisor to the group; Mrs. T. I. Metzgar, chairman of the Medical Auxiliary's Nurse Recruitment committee this year; Jean Stine, president of the East Stroudsburg Future Nurses; and Joyce Rusling, vice president. The other pictures on this page are from the Stroudsburg club which has been in operation a full year. Later the Medical Auxiliary hopes to organize clubs in Tobyhanna, Chestnuthill and Barrett High Schools.

THE NEED FOR HELPING HANDS, trained to minister to the world's ills has created a crying need for more and more nurses. To answer that need and to interest girls in nursing as a career, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society has launched a nurse recruitment program. An essential part of that program is the Future Nurses Club which reaches girls directly through the high schools.

With the approval of the school authorities and the cooperation of a faculty member to serve as advisor, the Future Nurses Club have a three-fold purpose: to interest high school students in personal and community health; to encourage them in finding out what nursing requires and what it offers; and to help them decide wisely about professional or practical nursing as a career.

First Future Nurses Club in the county was organized last year at Stroudsburg High School. Through their programs and field trips they had an opportunity to learn first hand about nursing; through their projects they gave service to their school and community; through their social activities they learned to know each other better.

Betsy Hamblin

HANDS TRAINED — to service. Jackie Torzillo finds this part of nursing comes naturally. The Stroudsburg Future Nurses last year visited the General Hospital, where they read to the patients in the children's ward. They also visited St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Allentown on one of their field trips, and studied the requirements for entering Schools of Nursing and the various specialties open to nurses.

HEARTS TUNED to sympathy. Barbara Levy finds that sympathetic interest in people and ability to win their confidence is also an essential part of nursing. The club through its programs heard from nurses in active service—hospital nursing, visiting nursing, public health and industrial nursing. They learned first hand of the opportunities, rewards, and drawbacks of nursing as a career.

Bev Feilencof

NOT ALL GIRLS who join Future Nurses Clubs will become nurses. A vague romantic notion of what nursing entails is exchanged for full knowledge. Those who do become nurses will enter training knowing the rewards and drawbacks, the requirements and compensations.

Their sponsors, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society, have pledged themselves to help with the programs, to provide transportation for field trips, and counselling whenever it is needed.

A Future Nurse Club can be organized in any high school when a minimum of eight girls are interested in becoming members.

TURN A [illegible] CORNER — School nurse and [illegible] Martha Kintz demonstrates hospital bed-making as one phase of the Stroudsburg club's program. The club members manned the high school health room during certain hours, they made cancer dressings (which is what the girls in the small pictures are doing) as services to their school and their community.

Reigning Queens Have Always Found Key To Basic Beauty In Their Religious Faith

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Two of America's most beautiful women say beauty consists not of curves—but of convictions.

"It's what you believe and what you do," said Sharon Kay Ritchie, the new Miss America.

"It's what's in your heart," said Mrs. Ramona Deitemeyer, the current Mrs. America. "It must come from the inside out."

Inner Attitude

These two Midwestern lovelies, with charm, good looks and talent to spare, maintain that the inner attitude is more important.

The key to that basic beauty, in their view, is religious faith.

Both of them, cast in the national limelight this year in separate competitions, have been staunch church workers since they were in pigtails.

"It's always been part of my life — as much as eating and sleeping," said Mrs. Deitemeyer, a poised, blue-eyed blonde from Lincoln, Neb. "I just can't imagine living without it.

"I feel that if one puts religion and spiritual education first in the home, everything else will take care of itself."

In Tune With God

Miss Ritchie, a glowing young girl with blue eyes, a soft voice and dark plum-red hair, said that "If I didn't have a religion, a set of beliefs, there are many times when I'd have been completely lost."

"One who lives a Christian life should be the happiest of all people," she said. "They are living in tune with God. I think it is the only way to live."

She taught Sunday school in the First Christian Church in her home town of Grand Island, Neb., and when she went away to Colorado Women's College in Denver, she took over leadership of the daily student chapel there.

"Each morning when I wake up, I meet Jesus in prayer and have Him with me the rest of the day," she said. "I'd feel an awful emptiness when I woke up if there wasn't a God to believe in."

Faith Works

To her, faith is a mover of mountains. "I know it works," she smiled. "If you visualize a goal, believe in it and expect it, in due time you will achieve it." As for her climb to the Miss America title, she said:

"I knew God was with me every step of the way. Without that assurance, I don't think I could have done it."

Mrs. Dietemeyer, mother of five little children—three girls and two boys—teaches Sunday school in Lincoln's Christ Lutheran Church, of the Missouri Synod.

So does her husband Carl, who is president of the congregation.

"I don't think a home can be secure and happy without a religious base," she said. "Too many people think they can handle life all by themselves. Often, too late, they find out they can't."

Explains Motive

Her main motive in entering the Mrs. America contest, she said, was in hope that it might prove a means by which she could tell the story of the importance of faith in the home.

On the morning of the finals, she said, she turned to a random scripture, Hebrews 12:1—

"Wherefore seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

That verse, she said, "indicated to me that I would be a witness through this activity. So wherever I go, wherever I make a speech, I relate the experiences by which we have found family strength through religion."

Mistaken Idea

Any idea that the reign of these two American "queens" involves a big social whirl and rounds of night life is badly mistaken, when it comes to this pair. Neither smokes or drinks. Neither likes night clubs.

"I'd rather go for a buggy ride in Central Park," said Miss Ritchie, who has been carefully scheduling her Sundays so she'll get to attend all the noted churches in New York.

U. S. Requests Reinstatement Of Nelson Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Enforcement of state sedition laws is not barred by the federal Smith Act, the government contended yesterday.

A Justice Department brief, filed in the Supreme Court asked reinstatement of a Pennsylvania state court conviction of Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist party leader.

Nelson was convicted in state court in Pittsburgh of violating the Pennsylvania Sedition Act. He received a prison sentence of 20 years and a $10,000 fine plus costs of the prosecution.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court threw out the conviction on the ground that the state sedition act was suspended by enactment of the federal Smith Act in 1940. Many Communists have been convicted under the Smith Act on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

India produces about 36,800,000 sheep and goat hides annually.

VFW To Issue Furniture And Clothing

PAUL V. WEARY, commander of Post 2540, V. F. W., said yesterday that anyone who was in the flood areas and in need of clothing and furniture, may obtain them Saturday.

Since the flood, the local VFW post has issued tons of food, clothes and furniture. The food supply is exhausted for the present, but the post has on hand a good supply of furniture and clothing, Weary said.

This will be given out from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the storage building at the VFW Memorial Park. Howard Mount, service officer and a crew of helpers will be on hand to assist applicants.

Councilmen's Cars To Display Shields

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Councilmen have passed a measure to allow elected city officials, who include councilmen, to display an official shield on their automobiles.

Opponents of the idea argued it's just a gimmick to dodge a parking summons. But Councilman Edward Cunningham, whose measure was carried 17-4, insisted:

"We just want the police to know we are councilmen on official business."

Coal Industry Hits Proposal To Import Gas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—U. S. coal industry spokesmen fired a barrage of press statements today against what they described as a proposal to import Canadian natural gas into mid-western states and export American gas into eastern Canada.

The proposal was submitted to the Federal Power Commission Monday by Midwestern Gas Transmission Co., a newly formed affiliate of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. on the Canadian side of the venture is Trans-Canada Pipeline, Ltd.

The National Coal Assn., representing the bituminous producers, described it as "another attempt to have Americans subsidize the building of the all-Canadian natural gas pipeline" from Alberta to Toronto.

Joins Protest

Joining in the coal industry and railroad protests, Harry See, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said he saw in the plan to set up a competing fuel system "a threat to the security of Canada and the United States."

"The vital railroad transportation systems of both countries depend upon the movement of coal to maintain road and rolling stock at a point of readiness in time of sudden emergency," he said.

Industrials Weak; Plane Shares Higher

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—A recovery drive in the stock market was broken off today by late selling that forced a moderately lower close.

Aircrafts were higher throughout the day, and they had support from steels and motors, but these latter two divisions closed lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 20 cents at $165.60. Only the industrial component of the average was lower today, down 40 cents, while both rails and utilities held unchanged.

Ten New Highs

There were only a few more losers than gainers—495 as against 397—out of 1,149 issues traded. Ten stocks hit new highs for the year and 19 touched new lows.

Volume was quite low at 1,980,000 shares as it was yesterday at 1,900,000 shares.

Pennsylvania Railroad was the day's most active issue up ⅜ at 24⅝ on 34,900 shares including a block of 3,400 shares at 25.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly lower on volume of 810,000 shares as compared with 820,000 shares traded yesterday. Corporate bonds were mixed at the close. U. S. government issues over the counter were quietly lower.

Barrett Opens Y Membership Drive Tonight

THE BARRETT YMCA is opening its 1955-56 membership drive tonight with a workers "kick-off" at the YMCA building. The time is 8:30.

The committee of Mrs. Lena Swaine, Mrs. John Henry, Mrs. Elvira Carlton and Mrs. Sue Price is in charge of the membership drive this year and they have organized a group of workers to carry out the drive.

The goal for this year is 150 adult members; youths are conducting a campaign of their own. Membership rates are $10 for an adult membership or $25 for a sustaining membership. A new plan this year is a family membership to include two parents and any children of the family for $15 per family.

The program tonight will include a movie of YMCA activities, instructions to workers and refreshments.
